

C. S. CRAWFORD, PIONEER AUTO ENGINEER, DEAD

Worked Recently in General Motors' Branch Plant in Germany.

Funeral services for Charles S. Crawford, well-known automotive engineer, who died yesterday in St. Vincent's Hospital, will be at 3 tomorrow at the Plummer & Buchanan Mortuary. Burial will be in Crown Hill. Mr. Crawford was 51.

Mr. Crawford was chief engineer of the Adam-Opel plant in Frankfurt, Germany, a subsidiary of General Motors Corp. He returned to his home, 3311 N. Meridian-st., last August on a sick leave.

Born in Indianapolis, Mr. Crawford had been chief engineer for the Ford Motor Co., Westcott Motor Car Co. and Stutz Motor Car Co. and became affiliated with General Motors in 1928.

Mr. Crawford is credited with developing the city's first airport when he became interested in aviation in 1922.

Surviving are the widow, a daughter, Miss Jane Crawford, and a brother, James M. Crawford, Detroit, Mich., chief engineer of Chevrolet.

Ella Murphy Dead

Mrs. Ella Murphy, widow of Police Sergeant Maurice Murphy, will be buried tomorrow morning in Holy Cross Cemetery, after private services at the home, 608 N. Gray-st., at 8:30 and requiem mass at 9 in St. Philip Neri's Roman Catholic Church.

Her husband was slain a number of years ago by a Negro desperado known as "Helicat" Thomas. The Negro later was slain by police.

Survivors are a daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Murphy; two sisters, Miss Katherine Shine of Sioux City, Ia., and Mrs. Hannah Wolfe, Kansas City, and four brothers, Michael Shine and Bart Shine of Kansas City, and Frank Frank Shine and Edward Shine of Ireland.

Minnie Griestow Rites

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie Griestow, native of Germany, who died yesterday at her home, 2405 Coyer-av., will be held at 2 tomorrow afternoon with burial in Crown Hill Cemetery. Mrs. Griestow was 82 years old.

Survivors are the husband, Frederick Griestow; a son, Julius Griestow; and four daughters, Mrs. Ernest R. Becker, Mrs. Frieda P. Schad, Mrs. Robert H. Shaffer and Mrs. Verner C. Shaffer, all of Indianapolis.

Talented Child Dies

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 tomorrow in Memorial Baptist Church for Margaret Josephine Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Scott, 1325 N. Warman-av., who died Sunday at Methodist Hospital following an operation. She was 12 years old.

The child, a talented dancer, had participated in charity and benefit programs, and was a pupil at Public School No. 75. Burial will be in Floral Park Cemetery.

Charles Witthoft Dead

Charles Witthoft, former revenue agent and court bailiff, who died Monday at St. Vincent's Hospital after a long illness, will be buried in Shelbyville tomorrow after services at 11 in the Plummer & Buchanan Mortuary here.

For 1 year preceding the first administration of Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Witthoft was in the revenue service.

He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Louise Wisenberg; two nephews, Grant Witthoft and Samuel Witthoft, all of Indianapolis; and four cousins, Charles Witthoft, Ft. Mitchell, Ky.; Mrs. Rose Witthoft and Mrs. William Lytle, both of Indianapolis, and Mrs. E. Jimmie, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Witthoft was born in Indianapolis 71 years ago and was a member of Logan Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons.

LeNoir Zaiser Passes

The body of LeNoir Edward Zaiser, life-long resident of Indianapolis, who died in Los Angeles, Cal., will be brought to this city Saturday for funeral services and burial Monday.

Mr. Zaiser was a member of the firm of Zaiser & Zaiser, Inc., investment brokers. He was a graduate of Shortridge High School and had attended Indiana University.

Mr. Zaiser went to California recently to open a branch office. His death was unexpected.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Zaiser, 6102 E. Washington-st., and two brothers.

The Theatrical World

'The First World War' Shows Actual Fighting

—BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

THERE have been many movies, records and photographs taken of the World War.

Some months ago, The Indianapolis Times published the Laurence Stallings' stunts of this war.

Now these stunts are coming to life on the screen in "The First World War," which will open Thursday for a three-day engagement at the Strand.

At a private screening of "The First World War," I saw the real horrors of the many ways of fighting. There are no actors in this movie. They lived or died. Death, accomplished in many ways, is shown in these records of fighting. Kings and leaders decorate their fighting men. Even the dead are decorated in a formal ceremony covering hundreds and thousands of men.

There is fighting in the air, on the seas and under the water. There are men fighting on the land. Death is every place.

These are the things that "The First World War" reflects on the screen.

From a standpoint of knowledge these reels are tremendous. Often these scenes hurt. The truth is here.

Men are actually killed—thousands in blasts of munition. The pictures this paper published and the action in this movie are the most terrific indictments against war I ever have witnessed.

Here is more than a movie. To see this film of war in action is to witness a million deaths. There are no fake deaths.

"The First World War" will open Thursday at the Strand.

Robert M. Zaiser, Indianapolis, and William H. Zaiser Jr., of Chicago.

J. Frank Busselle Dies

Funeral services for J. Frank Busselle, 1035 Parker-av., who died Sunday night after a brief illness, will be held at 10 tomorrow in the Harry W. Moore Mortuary. Burial will be in Noblesville.

Mr. Busselle was 76 years old. He was born in Noblesville and had lived in Indianapolis 29 years.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Caroline Busselle; three daughters, Mrs. H. E. Werner, Cleveland; Mrs. H. W. Nixon, Noblesville, and Mrs. M. E. Springer, Pittsburgh, Pa., and five sons, Joseph, Buffalo, N. Y.; Harry, Carl, Robert and Richard, all of Indianapolis.

Funeral services will be held at 10 tomorrow in the Harry W. Moore undertaking establishment. Burial will be in Noblesville.

Mrs. Clara Schuster, who died Sunday night at her home, 2306 Carrollton-av., after a 10-day illness, will be buried at her birthplace, Shawnee, O., at 2 tomorrow afternoon. She was 54.

She was a member of the Broadway Methodist Church, the Order of Eastern Star, Rebekahs and the Park-ay Neighborhood Club.

Surviving are the husband, William Schuster; three sons, Gilbert D. Schuster, Ned Schuster and Dwight Schuster; a daughter, Miss Marjorie Schuster, and two sisters and three brothers.

$30,000 ASKED BY JIM'S 'PAL' FOR 50 STAMPS

Friend of Farley's Offered $22,000 for Block of Rarities.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—An offer of $22,000 was reported today to have been made for a block of 50 Mother's Day stamps given by Postmaster General James A. Farley to a friend. The owner was said to be holding out for $30,000.

When the Mother's Day stamps were first issued Mr. Farley distributed to friends and associates a number of sheets that had not been perforated or gummed and hence were rarities. He paid the face value of 3 cents a stamp.

The Postmaster General's generosity has antagonized collectors throughout the country. Rep. Millard (R., N. Y.), plans to demand a congressional investigation.

Secretary Harold L. Ickes has been given a complete set of the 10 national park issues, ungummed and imperforate, and collectors say these have a potential value of hundreds of thousands of dollars. The President, Mrs. Roosevelt, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, and the Farley children have received other issues.

A demand was spreading among collectors today that the Post Office Department be compelled to issue 1000 or more sheets identical with the gift sheets, offer them for general sale to collectors at face value and thus destroy the value of the "Farley issue."

There is some talk of his being asked by the House Post Office Committee to present an inventory of all the stamps he has distributed, with the recipients' names.

The sums which stamps with rare imperfections can command are illustrated by an air mail issue that came out about 1917. The first few sheets sold were imperfect—an airplane in the center of the stamp was upside down. As soon as this was discovered the sheets were withdrawn from sale. But some had got out.

In 1929 a single one of these stamps was sold at auction for $3200.

GIRL SCOUTS COMPETE

Classes Offered for Members Seeking Honor Awards.

Mrs. C. Severin Bushmann and Mrs. Harold C. Robinson will offer a class for all Girl Scouts who wish to earn the organization's world knowledge and world interpreter badges, beginning Feb. 6 at Mrs. Bushmann's home, 5122 Washington-blvd. February is known as International Month in Scouting because it includes the birthdays of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, founders of the Scout movement.

News From Points in Indiana

By Times Special

KOKOMO, Jan. 29.—Ruling that inheritance tax on an estate is due from the moment of the testator's death, made by Circuit Judge Joseph Herron, may be contested.

Ruling of the court is opposed by counsel for Milton M. Cook, executor of the will of John E. Palethorpe, with the contention that the tax is not due until the amount has been fixed by a court.

The ruling followed a question raised as to whether Mrs. Mary Snover, heir of the Palethorpe estate, should pay interest on the inheritance tax. Mrs. Snover did not receive the estate until she was the victor in a contest of the Palethorpe will. Judge Herron held 6 per cent interest should be paid from the date of Mr. Palethorpe's death on May 19, 1931, until July 27, 1933, when the amount of tax was fixed. From the last named date until the tax is paid, interest of 10 per cent is to be charged, the court ruled.

Thrilling Adventure May Win You Trip to Africa

The Times Offers Cash, Theater Ticket, Prizes in Local Contest; Enter Your Story Today.

What has been your most thrilling adventure? Prizes consisting of cash, one season pass to the Apollo Theater and ten daily prizes of tickets to see "Baboona," Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's latest adventure picture, starting next Friday, are being offered by the Apollo for the best essays of 50 to 100 words on "My Most Thrilling Adventure."

The contest will continue for five days, starting today.

The best essay submitted during the period will be judged in a contest, the prize of which will be a 75-day trip to Africa aboard the American South African Line's "City of New York."

Cities against which The Times' winner will compete are Louisville, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Youngstown, Canton, Rochester, Toledo, Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Buffalo and Ft. Wayne.

Contestants must be 18 years of age or more. Essays are required to deal with a true experience.

Essays will be judged daily, the best 10 receiving two tickets each to see "Baboona."

At the end of the contest, $25 will be given the writer of the best essay submitted. The second best essay will be given a season pass to the Apollo.

The most thrilling essay, will be judged for the African trip, which starts Aug. 1, after a sectional committee has reviewed papers from all competing cities.
