

M'NUTT FORCES IN DILEMMA ON PRIMARY BILL

Whole Program in Jeopardy If Opposition Continues, Is Warning.

The Indiana Senate Elections Committee is frantically juggling a hot potato, apparently afraid to hold it and even more afraid to drop it. The bill introduced by Senator Alanson L. Albright (D., Gary), providing for direct nomination for Governor, United States Senator and other state officials, now made in convention, may precipitate a knockdown and drag-out battle, from all appearances.

First indication of the impending trouble came at a meeting yesterday when Senator John Bright Webb (D., Indianapolis), co-author of the bill, told Senator Jacob Weiss, administration floor leader, in no uncertain phrases, that he would never "help out in a pinch" if Senator Weiss fought the measure in his capacity as party whip.

Senator Albright states that he feels sure that the measure is a popular one and that he pities the Senator or Representative foolish enough to speak or vote against it. "It would be political suicide," he insists. "The convention system has been abused and the people want their rights restored; the rights that D. C. Stephenson took from them."

Committee Chairman Elias C. Swihart (D., Elkhart) feels the same way about the measure. Senators Larry Brandon (D., Auburn), Floyd J. Hemmer (D., Huntington) and Arnold Schuler (R., Wabash) also are reported to favor it.

"Kill it," is the command from administration headquarters, according to reliable information, though Senator Weiss insists that his opposition is purely personal. He is joined on the minority side of the committee by Senators Lawrence E. Carlson (R., Huntington), Walter Vermillion (D., Anderson) and Hubert E. Wickens (D., Greensburg).

Faced with the possibility that a divided committee report might cause a party split that would endanger the hoped-for smooth voting on important administration bills soon to appear, the committee is toying with the compromise move of reporting the measure out without recommendation.

Urges Bonus Support

A joint resolution requesting Congress to adopt the soldier bonus bill has been prepared by Senator Chester K. Watson for introduction in the Indiana General Assembly.

Tax Suspension Urged

A 2-cent state tax levy for an educational institution building fund would be suspended another two years under provisions of a bill pending in the Indiana Senate. By a 42-3 vote the Senate yesterday adopted a bill authorizing employment of investigators to collect delinquent school fund loans on a commission basis.

Utility Tax Opposed

Defeat of a House bill proposing to tax public utilities on the basis of valuations fixed on their properties for rate-making purposes is to be recommended to the House of Representatives by the Corporations Committee.

At the same time the committee decided to submit a favorable report on the administration's bill to regulate not-for-profit corporations, aimed at fraudulent mutual benefit societies and insurance associations.

Treasurers' Profit Rapped

County treasurers would be shorn of profits from the collection of delinquent taxes this year under amendments to a delinquent tax bill to be recommended to the House by the Fees and Salaries Committee. Rep. George C. Matthews (R., South Bend) charged that the 3 per cent treasurers' fee is exorbitant and would permit county treasurers to profit from collections from taxpayers who have been unable heretofore to pay their levies. In Marion County alone, he said, the treasurer would receive more than $35,000. Under the proposed amendments, treasurers would be allowed 2 per cent on collections up to $30,000, including personal property and real estate, and 1 per cent on collections above that amount. This, the committee agreed, would pay expense of collection, but would remove profit.

Lutz Opposes Bill

Atty. Gen. Philip Lutz today ruled that posting of fees by primary candidates could not be incorporated in legislation sought by the Indiana League of Women Voters.

The attorney general cited Supreme Court decisions that would make it invalid to require a candidate to post a fee equal to 1 per cent of the annual salary of the office he sought.

Kidnap Bill Passes

The fervor of national indignation over the Lindbergh kidnaping case echoed in the Indiana Senate yesterday when the Upper House passed the House bill fixing the death penalty or life imprisonment for kidnaping.

Not a dissenting vote was cast after Senator Jesse Wade (D., Mt. Vernon) declared in a brief, but impassioned, speech, that he always had been opposed to capital punishment, but that the current prevalence of kidnaping demands an uncompromising stand by every state.

Labor Hearing to Resume

Hearing on amendments to the workmen's compensation law will be resumed Tuesday night, the Indiana Senate Labor Committee decided last night after being told that the measure would place a heavy burden on employers.

Child Labor Hearing

A public hearing on the General Assembly bill to ratify the Federal child labor amendment will be held by the House Labor Committee in Room 401, Statehouse, at 7 tomorrow night, according to Rep. Paul B. Sturm (D., Dana), chairman.

HOUSE MOVES TO HEAD OFF MAIL SCANDAL

Postoffice Committee Is to Urge Many Changes in Bill.

By Scripps-Hoover Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—A legislative program designed to head off postoffice department scandals in the future, submitted by Chairman James M. Mead (D., N. Y.), of the House Postoffice Committee, was before Congress today.

Mr. Mead outlined it to the House in replying to attempts by two New York Republicans, Hamilton Fish and Charles D. Millard, to inflame Postmaster General James A. Farley's rare-stamp distribution into the proportions of a scandal.

The program which Mr. Mead expects his committee to propose:

1. Government construction and operation of postal sub-stations and

2. Use of closed bank buildings for post offices.

3. Review by the comptroller-general of postoffice department contracts, before they are let.

4. A ban against purchase of excess equipment, such as Postmaster-General Walter Brown's purchases of trucks, about 250 of which are still in storage unused.

"We paid for one Chicago building in rent every five years," Mr. Mead said. "The Government has been mulcted of millions of dollars through these leases."

The Post Office Committee will hold hearings on air mail legislation, starting next Monday, before it goes into this program. It will have before it the Federal Aviation Commission's report, due later this week along with a Presidential message.

The committee, under House rules, must act within six days on Rep. Millard's resolution for an inquiry into Mr. Farley's stamp operations. Chairman Mead, after citing an increase in philatelic stamp sales from $300,000 a year to $900,000 under Mr. Farley, indicated the committee would vote to table it.

It is our opinion from experience in actual sales during 1934 that many were the result of our ads in your paper. Wishing you continued success in bringing forth productive merchandising ideas, we are,
