

HOUSE ADOPTS YEARLY PENSION BILL FOR BLIND

Measure to Provide $300
Annually: Crime Acts
Approved.

In a brisk session marked by bitter debate over a bill permitting pari-mutuel betting, the House of Representatives yesterday adopted six bills, including a measure providing annual pensions of not more than $300 for blind persons.

New measures offered include a bill requiring counties, cities and townships to supply insulin free to diabetic poor and a bill requiring the marking of fruit and vegetable containers with the grade of the contents.

Among the bills enacted was the Senate bill authorizing the Governor to return upon demand a person of unsound mind who has fled to another state.

Also enacted by the House and ready for action of the Governor is the administration crime bill providing for reciprocal relations between the states to secure attendance of witnesses.

Four House bills, one prohibiting marathon dancing and endurance contests, were advanced to third reading.

Debate to indefinitely postpone H. B. 97, a measure to require fruit and vegetable dealers to place their products in sanitary containers, ended and the measure was placed on third reading. Rep. James A. Moody (R., Lagrange) protested that the measure would result in farmers being fined $50 for failing to obey the measure. Proponents, however, said farmers would not be affected.

A bill to require safety glass on all motor cars in the state and a measure to curb car-stripping by requiring licenses from used car dealers and making them keep a record of purchases as a pawnshop does, also were placed in line for passage.

By an 84-1 vote, the House adopted the Babcock bill requiring children who have resided in the state for three or more months to attend school and regulating their employment.

The bill was sponsored by the League of Women Voters and Parent-Teacher Associations.

MEXICO PRIESTS NOT TORTURED, SURVEY SHOWS

Penalties by Government
Confined to Jail Terms,
Is Indication.

This is the third of a series on the religious situation in Mexico. The fourth and last will be carried tomorrow.

BY JACQUES D'ARMAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—Many articles have appeared in a section of the foreign press exaggerating the religious situation in Mexico. Charges have been made in official bodies of the United States government that priests have been tortured and killed by government authorities during the church-state fight.

Bitter as the conflict has been, including a dozen or more deaths caused by clashes between partisans of both sides, so far as an exhaustive investigation of the United Press has been able to determine, there has been no case of a priest injured or killed by government agents.

Several have been jailed on charges of law violation, but no charges publicly that priests have been killed or injured.

The fatalities to date have resulted from two clashes in Mexico City suburbs. A gathering of Red Shirts, anti-religious youth organization, and the Catholic hierarchy, invaded a suburb and fired into a crowd of churchgoers in front of a village church, killing five. Townspeople caught one Red Shirt and beat him to death with sticks and stones.

Three Red Shirts and three townspeople were arrested and lodged in the district penitentiary.

President Lazaro Cardenas assured the country that the guilty parties would be punished. All of the Red Shirts are now free on bond furnished by Canabal, awaiting trial.

A few days later hundreds of students wrecked headquarters of the Red Shirts in the vicinity of the national palace after a battle in which many participants received pistol wounds and cracked skulls.

Church members in another suburb, angered by the expulsion of their priest from his church, gave battle to 300 police with pistol fire that took four lives and caused nearly a score of severe wounds.

Canabal remained a cabinet member, but the governing party expressed disapproval of his independent body of Red Shirts. A few hours after the fatal incident in which they participated, the Red Shirts were warned in a public statement by the National Revolutionary party would control all revolutionary activities of its members and would stand for no more independent action on the part of any bloc. The Red Shirts have been less conspicuous since.

Most of the disorders have been in the federal district. In the states, church people have been more passive. Licensed churches have been crowded at all services, while in some of the states where no services are allowed secret services are held in homes and other unauthorized places.

Nun arrests have been made and fines levied for such offenses, but the practice of "bootlegging religion" continues apparently unchecked.

The government, in an effort to prevent further bloodshed, has forbidden the holding of public demonstrations by all factions, regardless of their stand on the religious question.

The ban on demonstrations was issued personally by President Cardenas, who added that in no way was his order intended to interfere with the right to assemble peacefully in authorized places guaranteed by the Mexican constitution.

Angered at unfavorable publicity, the government is preparing to organize a department of propaganda to operate in conjunction with legations and consulates in foreign countries. A measure authorizing the organization of such a department has been reported favorably by congressional committees and probably will be made a law soon.

Under the bill a new diplomatic post would be created called "attache for propaganda" and such officers would work directly with Mexican diplomatic representatives in foreign countries. The United States, because of its proximity and importance commercially to Mexico, is naturally the country in which the government is most eager to present its side of the argument.

Attaches for propaganda would use newspapers, magazines, radio and lecture courses in seeing that the official side of the controversy is presented.

Grand Jury Gets Bandit Case
Frank (Buck) Draddy, 28-year-old "stoop-shouldered" bandit suspect, has been held by the Marion County grand jury on robbery and grand larceny charge. The hearing was before Municipal Judge Charles Karabell yesterday.

SHIP CONTRACT GRANT CHARGES ARE PROBED

$250,000 Asked by Navy Building
Jobs, Is Report.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Persons who figured in a mysterious hotel room conference in 1933 at which a Florida shipbuilder is alleged to have been told that for $250,000 he could obtain millions in naval construction contracts were called today before the Senate Munitions Committee.

Testimony concerning the meeting was given the arms investigators by William Calvin, secretary-treasurer of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor. He said he was present at the visitation of L. B. Widger, chairman of the board of gulf industries of Pensacola.

GIVE YOUR KIDNEYS AND BLADDER A CLEANING

Diurex Pills will expel the poisons from your system and make you feel like a new person.

A continuous backache takes all the joy out of living. If accompanied by irregular urination and a tired, nervous feeling, backache may be caused by kidney or bladder trouble.

Diurex Pills will help you as they helped Andy Yunker, 215 N. Illinois St., Indianapolis, Indiana. He says: "Diurex will help you with one suffering from a backache caused by kidney trouble. I have taken two boxes of Diurex and my back is almost gone. I would pay, gladly, twice as much as you ask for Diurex, if necessary, because it is a wonderful medicine."
