Practically every make of automobile is represented, but they are not intact. A model of each make has been selected, cut into three parts, and all the parts of different autos are placed together for one picture.

It's your job to unscramble these parts after all of them are published in The Times and to reassemble them as they originally were.

The contest gives you a chance to test your knowledge of the new cars, your ability to unscramble a puzzle, and your ingenuity in putting the parts together again correctly, naming the cars.

You might win the first prize, which would give you enough to make a down payment on a new car.

ASKS CHANGE IN UTILITY LAWS

Indiana Municipal League
Opposes Alterations in Gas Tax.

Revision of the utility laws for the benefit of municipalities is sought by the Indiana Municipal League. Mayor William Dentlinger, Connersville, chairman of the Legislative Committee, said the organization also was opposed to any change in the distribution of the gasoline tax.

A move to change the gas tax distribution in order to benefit large counties of the state is under way.

"It is a change in the gas funds the burden of maintaining many of the streets in the cities would fall upon property owners," he declared.

"We stand for repeal of the law which taxes municipal utilities. We believe this taxation of home-owned waterworks and light plants is just as ridiculous as would be the taxing of courthouses, schoolhouses, or any other public building," he said.
