

WALLACE LIFTS CURB ON SPRING WHEAT ACREAGE

Removal of Restrictions Is Likely to Check Rise in Food Prices.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Housewives had cause to hope today that bread prices will be held to reasonable levels and that soaring meat cost will be checked. Menace of drought and a grain shortage, portrayed by a gigantic dust storm gripping the Middle West, compelled Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to remove all restrictions on the 1935 production of spring wheat. His announcement came amid national anxiety over rising food prices. The government, he said, owed a duty to consumers and could not take a chance on weather. In the Chicago wheat pits, where trading largely regulates the prices farmers receive and the millers pay for grain, his announcement evoked mixed reactions, making today's market reaction uncertain. Veteran La Salle traders conceded that its ultimate effect would be to cheapen bread prices, but pointed to clouds of Kansas dust swirling through the Loop as potent psychological factors in market trends.

Another Drought Feared Little spring wheat is produced in the region most affected by the storm, however. East of the Mississippi where a large part of the spring wheat crop is grown, conditions are excellent. Another drought, officials conceded, would drain the nation's wheat supply to dangerously low levels and send the price of bread soaring. Retail bread, flour and macaroni prices, despite the record small 1934 wheat crop, have increased less than 1 cent above a year ago, AAA figures showed. Officials are agreed, however, that another drought would result in a much sharper rise. Mr. Wallace's action put him in a new role, that of champion of the consumer. Hitherto, he had ranked the farmers' interests first. A decline in wheat prices probably will follow the removal of planting restrictions and the consequent larger crop, but consumers will benefit.

Livestock to Benefit The farmers' percentage of the consumers' dollar is now 87 per cent of what it was in the five years preceding the World War, Mr. Wallace said. In 1932, the percentage was only 47 per cent. Mr. Wallace's estimate included AAA crop control benefit payments, without which the farmer gets 78 per cent as much as he did of the 1929-1934 consumer dollar. Another effect of Mr. Wallace's action on the cost of living will be that cheaper wheat will result in farmers feeding more to livestock. Herds will be enlarged and meat prices, now 25 to 33 per cent higher than a year ago, will be reduced. Farmers participating in the AAA acreage curtailment program who accept the offer to return to full spring wheat production must agree to make the same reductions next year as previously planned this season. They may be asked to make additional reductions. The AAA will pay the same amount for participation in the wheat program as if the curtailments had been made, so the total of benefit payments to be distributed this year will remain unchanged. In addition to the benefits, farmers will get the full market price on an increased quantity of marketed wheat.

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poisoning by paring them. Statistics show that many infections have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns. Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Iodine-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition. This, together with the fact that Iodine-Mint overcomes such afflictions as sore, tired, aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists. To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for any one to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it—Advt.

WHEN QUIVERING NERVES WON'T LET YOU SLEEP

Doesn't the night seem an eternity? You toss and turn—try to find a cool spot on the pillow—hear the clock strike downstairs. Today's excitement and tomorrow's worry are beating through your brain. You count sheep frantically—but outraged nerves refuse to relax. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly for a while. It quiets quivering nerves—induces restful sleep—makes life a little easier. "It Seemed As If Morning Would Never Come" says Mrs. Emma G. Batchelder of 32 Heard St., Chelsea, Massachusetts. "I was so nervous I could not get to sleep. My husband works hard at engineering and needs his sleep but I kept him awake too. I heard about the Vegetable Compound and tried it. Now I sleep better than I ever have and I feel fine." Get a bottle from your druggist NOW. Results will please you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

News Survey of Indiana

NOBLESVILLE, March 21.—The ghost of early day lawlessness has come to haunt local officers. Supposedly an outmoded offense, horse thieving has appeared in northern Hamilton County and its modern practitioner, equipped with a large motor truck, has thus far escaped arrest. He is credited, however, with having stolen at least two horses and to have sold both to an innocent buyer for a cash price of $100. The stolen animals have been returned to Bennie Bender, their farmer-owner.

Lecturer Dies

DANVILLE, March 21.—Funeral services for the Rev. Minnie Thorne, pioneer woman minister and platform lecturer, were to be held here today with the burial at the Elmwood cemetery, Putnam County. Ordained in the ministry of the United Brethren Church in 1906, Mrs. Thorne with her husband, also a minister, became widely known as a religious and temperance worker before her retirement in 1918. She continued her residence at Mitchell until 1928 when after the death of her husband she removed to Danville to live with her daughter, Mrs. Roy Randolph. In addition to her pulpit and platform activities throughout Indiana and Illinois, Mrs. Thorne served many years as state organizer of the Independent Order of Good Templars.

Club to Build Home

HARTFORD CITY, March 21.—Construction of a $1500 club house for Blackford Country Club is expected to begin within a few weeks. Plans for the building have been drawn by a special committee and await the approval of the board of directors.

Schedule Juggled

GREENFIELD, March 21.—High school athletic authorities have been compelled to split the spring track and baseball schedules between home and away contests. Lacking suitable local facilities the track team will engage all its foes away from home while the baseball squad, provided with an excellent diamond, will face seven of eight opponents here.

Measles Subsidy

LAFAYETTE, March 21.—Elementary school attendance is increasing again after a recent epidemic of measles. Supt. M. C. McCarty is confident the epidemic has passed its peak but has ordered a strict examination of all convalescents who are returning to classes.

Celebration Opens

VINCENNES, March 21.—Antiques and historical items of every description are being displayed here today as a Pioneer Days celebration started. Merchants are sponsoring the three-day fete which will be concluded with a parade.

Job Service Explained

MARION, March 21.—The employed of Marion were afforded a chance to see just what is asked of the unemployed when an open house was conducted at the local office of the State Employment Service. Scores visited the office during the day, meeting supervisors and clerks and witnessing at close hand the system used to put the idle to work again.

No Law: No Trial

BEDFORD, March 21.—All the essentials of a court trial were present except one. Mayor Henry S. Murray, as city judge, was on the bench. Attorneys, prosecuting and defending, were on hand. Two defendants were waiting, and a liquor violation was charged against both. But copies of the new state liquor control act have not arrived here. With no law, Mayor Murray said, there could be no trial. So the cases, by his ruling, will be continued.

Athletes Honored

TIPTON, March 21.—Coach John Ward and members of the local high school basketball team were guests at a banquet program given by the Methodist Brotherhood last night. The 200 men and boys attending the affair heard Coach Dutch Fehring, Purdue University mentor, in the principal talk.

Renounces Old Razor

MUNCIE, March 21.—When police arrested George Belt, Negro, as a holdup suspect they found a straight-edge razor on his person. Arraigned before City Judge J. Frank Mann the prisoner, however, was acquitted of carrying a concealed weapon. Grateful as he was for the court's ruling Belt has renounced the long-handled variety. "I'm usin' a safety razor from now on," he said.

AD CIRCULARS PUT UNDER BAN

Postal Chiefs Open Drive to Enforce Federal Laws on Subject.

Announcement of a national drive by the postoffice departments to enforce Federal statutes giving postoffices monopoly over all transportation and delivery of letters has been made by Postmaster Adolph Seidensticker.

Statutes giving this monopoly have been in effect many years, Mr. Seidensticker explained, but have not been rigidly enforced. The Federal definition of a letter is "any written or printed communication which conveys live, individual current information between the sender and the addressee upon which the latter may act, rely, or refrain from acting."

"I SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION* FOR SIXTEEN YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief to Mr. McNeil

We quote from his unsolicited letter: "I suffered with constipation* for 16 years. Finally, I started using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in connection with other nourishing foods. "I consider myself a well man at this time, not having had an attack for over two years. I am sure ALL-BRAN helped wonderfully by overcoming constipation*."—Mr. L. M. McNeil, Lockwood, W. Va. *Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid elimination. Also vitamin B and iron. This "bulk" resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is more effective. ALL-BRAN continues to get results when used for months.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
