WHEN CHUCK KLEIN CONNECTED

HIT ONE FOR BOYS BACK HOME

Local boy makes good—eh, what? And is zatso? Anyway, thousands of Indianapolis and other Hoosier baseball shouters leaped and danced on the sitting room rug yesterday when Chuck Klein of Indianapolis, the Hoosier Hercules, finally plastered one out of sight in the World Series. And the homer supplied the margin of victory for the Chicago Cubs.

The radio account of the play by play was rattling through the ether waves as diamond followers all over Indiana listened in. Third inning, score, 0 to 0. Billy Herman of New Albany, Ind., just had torn off a triple and Klein stepped up to the plate.

"There it goes, it's a home run," the announcer screamed. The Tigers had set their defense to bottle up the Indianapolis youth, but he zoomed his blast into the air and it traveled 380 feet. The cry of "come on Chuck," whispered or yelled by the Hoosier radio tuners-in was answered.

Hundreds of Indianapolis fans made the trip to Chicago for yesterday's game and found a way to join the throng at Wrigley Field. Most of them were rooting for the Cubs, but here and there a Tiger supporter popped up.

As a matter of fact Indianapolis has been well-represented at both Detroit and Chicago. On a night train from Chicago last night "Indiana" came home singing the praises of Chuck Klein. Taxicabs did a rushing business as the baseball choo-choo pulled in. A manager of one taxi company said 35 cabs were hired in one swoop by returning rooters and that more customers were waiting when the first fleet of taxis cleared the station.

ONCE the king of all National League sluggers, Klein lost his batting eye and entered the current classic as a bench warmer and pinch hitter. A bad break for Freddie Lindstrom and a good break for Chuck occurred when Lindstrom, a Chicago boy, the Cubs' regular center fielder, was injured Saturday. It put Klein in the starting lineup yesterday and he delivered a single and the game-winning four-run homer.

It may be the break that will save the Cubs. Klein has the habit of hitting in streaks and if the Tigers are not careful the big fellow will knock down their Navin Field platoon. Over a short stretch during the regular season Chuck smacked the ball consistently and sent a low batting average soaring to .305. Then Old John Slump set him back and out of the lineup to the sidelines. Chuck reached his thirtieth birthday today and won't mind carrying the celebration over tomorrow.

Billy Herman, the other Hoosier player with the Cubs, wallowed a triple and double to help put his club "back in the series." His double in the seventh batted in Chicago's third run.

THE absence of the great hitter, Hank Greenberg, finally has caught up with the Cubs. They are in front, three games to two, but they went into a batting slump Saturday and won only because Chicago errors came to their aid. They left 13 runners stranded on the paths in that 2-to-1 game.

Flea Clifton, who entered the Tiger lineup when Greenberg was hurt, has failed to get a single hit in three tilts. And on top of that, Marvin Owen, another Tiger infielder, has gone hitless in all five battles. Slumps are pernicious things and especially terrifying in a "sudden death" series.

Well, it will be all over not later than midafternoon tomorrow should the Bruins even "er up today."

THE football Perfect Picker Petes lost no time in going to bat last week and many selections were received at The Times. The slips will be checked today and the fan who gets the low down tomorrow. Another selection ball will appear this week and there will be plenty of tough games to "prognosticate."

Football tempo will pick up in a big way just as soon as the World Series ends. Study the teams and try your hand in the "expert league."

Warneke Has Fretful Time

After Giving Up Mound

Forced Out in Sixth With Pulled Muscle, Lonnie Rages in Clubhouse as Tigers Rally.

BY HENRY MLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
DETROIT, Oct. 7.—I had planned as I walked down the long ramp from the press box to the clubhouse yesterday that I would be greeted by the fastness of Wrigley Field, to start this piece with quotations from Lonnie Warneke as they worked on his wounded right arm which drove him out of the fifth game of the World Series.

But this is a family press association, and Lonnie's words, as he lay stretched out on the rubbering table, with a big sun lamp pouring down his healing rays, were not family words.

While no official count was made, competent observers among the reporters gave Warneke credit for 11 new and full-bodied oaths during those three Detroit times at bat when he was out of the game. He reached his post—and to our way of thinking, an all-time peak—in the ninth inning, when the Tigers, fighting to end the series then and there, scored one run off Bill Lee and placed the Paul Flashes Form Getting Set for Miller.

Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, king of the featherweights, will have his hands full at the Armory Friday night if the form flashed yesterday by Paul (Tennessee) Lee, in training to meet the title holder, doesn't reverse itself.

Lee went four rounds at the Colonial gym on W. Market-st in hectic fashion with Scotty Scotten, whom he defeated here several months ago in a ten-round battle. Scotten, whose meeting with Lee last summer was billed as a grudge fight long in the making, announced that he would come back to the gym today to work out with Lee whose ambition to meet a champion is near realization. Lee is confident that he will make sufficient showing against the retired leather pusher to warrant a return match for the crown.

CHUCK KLEIN'S BAT KEEPS CUBS IN RACE

Al Espinosa Is Winner of Rich Tourney

Score of 288 Takes V. F. W. Open; Runyan Lowers Course Record.

It's the stretch drive that takes the payoff. Omaha had it in the Kentucky Derby this year, the Cubs had it in the National League pennant race and Al Espinosa, popular Akron (O.) pro, had it yesterday at Highland Golf and Country Club to capture the first annual Indianapolis $5000 Open golf championship with a total of 288 for the 72-hole test sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars for charity. First place meant a winning of $1000 for Espinosa.

Trailing the leader by two strokes at the end of the first 36 holes Saturday night, Espinosa battled his way up into a tie for the leadership with a 75 in the round of 18 holes yesterday morning and then came home a two-stroke winner with a brilliant even par 70 in the afternoon. Espinosa's opening round Friday was 70 and he had a 73 Saturday.

Another stretch finisher was Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., who, after being well down the list in 13th position at the end of 36 holes with a 152-total, came back yesterday to slash 14 strokes from that total and scored 138 for the final 36 holes to finish just two strokes behind the winner. To accomplish this Runyan had to shoot a dazzling sub-par new course record of 63, five strokes under course par that gave him a place in a three-way tie for second place honors with 290. Others who had the same count were Kay Lafoon of Ravenna, Ind., who was leader at the end of 36 holes with 141, and Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh.

Nosed out of a tie for second by one stroke was Ralph Stonehouse, former Indianapolis pro and former Miami Open champion, now of Noblesville, Ind., who missed a short putt on the last green that would have given him 290 instead of 291.

Reed High Amateur
Bill Reed Jr., Indianapolis District champion, headed the list of 15 amateurs who were permitted to play the final 36 holes of the 72-hole test. Bill had a total of 310, representing rounds of 75-77, 78-80 for his total which was three strokes better than Mike Pollek of Indianapolis, who had 313. Mike nosed out by one stroke Phil Talbot, of Bloomington, and Fritz Cox, of Terre Haute, who tied with 314 each.

Indianapolis links fans finally awakened yesterday to the fact that was on at the north side course and large crowds followed the stars during the final day of play. News that Runyan was burning up the course brought crowds scurrying across the fairways to watch him put on a dazzling finish of 3-3-3 on the final three holes, each a birdie. He had six of them on his card.

Others followed Light Horse Harry Cooper who, with Walter Hagen, held the former course record until yesterday's performance by Runyan. Cooper and Hagen each scored a 66 while playing in the Western Open at Highland in 1928.

One Under at Turn
Runyan, the national P. G. A. champion, almost slipped in with his great round unnoticed by the galleries. He chipped in from off the edge on the second hole and dropped in a 15-foot putt for a birdie on No. 6. Six pairs on the other holes left him two under when he walked to the ninth tee. He pushed his second into the bunker and lost a shot coming out, but a five still left him one under with 34 at the turn.

From there on Paul clicked off three pars before dropping in a 15-foot putt for a birdie on No. 13 and he got his par on No. 15. Pars "in" mean a 68, the same count that Lafoon fired Saturday afternoon for the best round of the tournament to that point, and no one matched it yesterday morning.

Makes 25-Foot Putt
But Runyan was after a record and he felt it coming when he sent in a screaming one from 25 feet on No. 16. He made putts of 15 feet long easy on Nos. 17 and 18 and he had his card made the new record. Runyan's card matched against par follows:

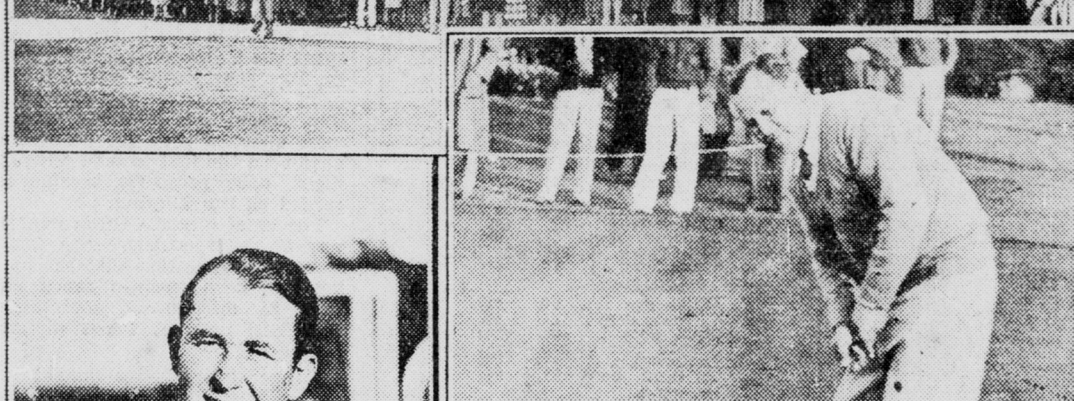

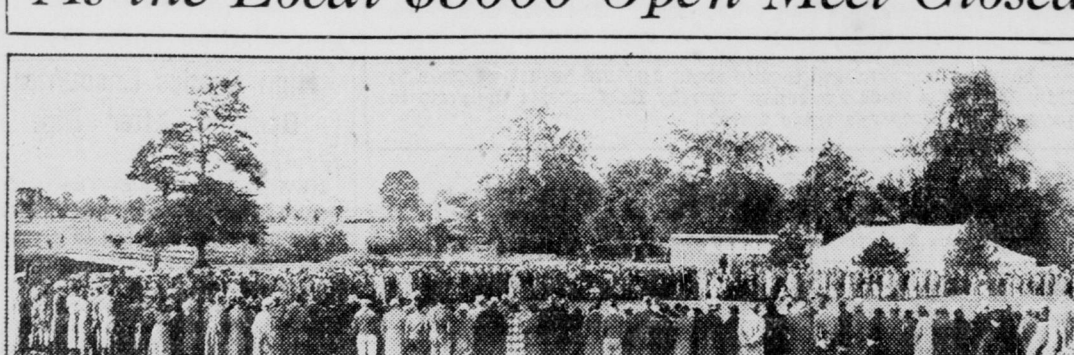

Par Out.....4 3 5 4 4 4 4 4 3 35
Runyan.....4 3 5 4 4 3 3 3 3 35
Par In.....4 3 5 4 4 3 3 3 3 35
Runyan.....4 3 5 4 4 3 3 3 3 35
SAND PARKS, Pittsburgh, National Open champion, finished with 306, while Alfred Perry, British Open champion, found the going too tough to get by the 36-hole mark and did not play yesterday.

Al Espinosa, the winner, turned in the following card:
First round.....4 3 5 4 4 3 3 3 3 35
Second round.....4 3 5 4 4 3 3 3 3 35

As the Local $5000 Open Meet Closed

There was a big turnout of golf fans at Highland yesterday when the first annual Veterans of Foreign Wars Indianapolis $5000 Open tournament ended a four-day session. Picture at top shows the galleries gathered at the eighteenth green. Lower left is Paul Runyan, who shot a 65 to lower the course record by one stroke. The old mark stood up for several years. At lower right is Al Espinosa, the tourney winner. He was tops in the crack field of British and American stars by finishing the 72-hole route with a 288. He hails from Akron, O. ## Deaf School Eleven

Girds for Portland

The Silent Hoosiers returned to scrimmage workouts today with a victory over the Southport B squad under their belts. The Silents won Saturday, 20 to 6, at the Deaf School gridiron.

Ayres, Chapman and Bowman scored touchdowns for the winners. The Silents will journey to Portland Oct. 15 for a night game.

Local Rifle Club Is Granted Charter

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The National Rifle Association has awarded a charter to the J. D. Adams Rifle and Pistol Club of Indianapolis, which was announced at headquarters here today.

The officers of the new club are John P. Burns, 1902 W. Washington, president; Robert Burge, 250 N. Pershing-ave, vice president; William Hunter, 1933 Koehne-st, secretary; Lawrence Carl, 19 N. Tremont-ave, treasurer, and Paul Elmore, 1776 Morgan-st, executive officer.

Local Matman Gains Spot on Hall Card

Morris Cordell, clever local junior middleweight, signed today to oppose Walter (Red) Strassinger in the one-fall prelim of the wrestling show at Tomlinson Hall Wednesday night.

In the main event Coach Bill Thom of Indiana University will defend his junior middleweight title against Sailor Parker.

Eddie Malone will appear in the semi-windup. His opponent will be selected later.

Amateur Football

The Capital City League will hold a meeting at 7:30 Wednesday night at the important that all teams bring their registrations.

Spades Juniors defeated Brookside, 6 to 0, and would like to book games in the 125-pound class. Call Cherry 5461 or write to Harrison Mulderhead, 4022 North Olney-st, Indianapolis.

Iowa Builds One-Man Line

Ossie Solem, Iowa University coach, plans to turn loose the biggest man in the Big Ten on Conference football this fall. Floyd DeHeer, sophomore tackle, is the corn-fed behemoth. He stands a mere 6 feet 7 and weighs a "cool" 240.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—They were setting the stage for the fifth game of the World Series over in windy, wintry Chicago yesterday. Some 50,000 people were sitting in the stands wrapped in blankets, wearing heavy coats, banging their palms together.

From the brassy throat of the announcer came the announcer's voice giving the names of the starting players. The announcer hadn't got far down the lineup of the Cubs before he mentioned a change. Burly, red-necked, Chuck Klein was replacing Freddie Lindstrom in the outfield dand batting third.

Up in the press box scribbling down the names sat a familiar baseball figure, enjoying a busman's holiday. "So they're finally starting Klein, eh?" he mused. "Well, that's liable to make it ought for the Tigers. You never can tell when that big guy is going to hit one out of the park."

Klein Slams Homer
The speaker was Mr. Jimmy Fox, gifted slugger of the Athletics, and naturally a partisan American League. It didn't take Klein long to make Mr. Fox look exceedingly good as a prophet. He got hold of one in the third inning and slammed it high into the center field bleachers. There was a man on at the time. And since the final score was 3 to 1 in favor of the National Leaguers Klein's wallop was the clincher.

On of those strange, childish fancies baseball managers bow to kept the slugging Klein out of the Cubs' lineup as a regular. He hadn't been part of the combination that won 21 games in a row during the season and for that reason he was kept on the bench when the series started. Baseball managers insist a winning combination should never be tampered with.

The master mind of the Cubs was forced to divorce himself from this ancient superstition yesterday because there wasn't much else he could do. Lindstrom bobbed up with a bruised finger, and any way the Cubs hadn't been a winning combination since the first game of the series. They had, in fact, dropped three straight games. If they dropped this one they were through without any further debate.

Indiana Boy Has Chance
And so it was that the veteran steel worker from Indianapolis who hits the ball for prodigious distances when he does smack it and is always a tremendous threat in any batting order, was given his chance. He got two hits and made a long running catch. His homer was the hardest hit ball of the series. It shook Schoofy Rowe up like a Joe Louis left hook. You felt inclined to agree with the sentiments of the articulate gent who jumped out of a field box on to the top of the Cubs' dugout and screamed, "Hey, you Charley O'Connell—where have you been keeping this fellow all these days?"

What makes Klein particularly dangerous in a short series is that he is capable of breaking up a ball game with one blow, as was demonstrated yesterday. He is admittedly an over-rated slugger because he rose to fame in the Phillies' trick ball park where he became the champion hitter of the National League in 1928. Sold to the Cubs he slumped to a mark of .301 last year. This year he dropped under .300. But even so he outdist
