

DON COSSACKS TO GIVE FAREWELL CONCERT HERE NOV. 10

Russians' Appearance to Be Last in Indianapolis Before Troupe Disbands

Lucrezia Bori, Metropolitan Opera Soprano, to Open Martens' Concert Season With Recital at English's Monday Night.

The Don Cossack Chorus will give its last Indianapolis concert in English's Sunday afternoon, Nov. 10th.

This city was included in the Cossacks' farewell tour of the Cossacks before they disband through the efforts of Mrs. Nancy Martens.

The chorus will be an added attraction and is not included in the subscription list of the regular Martens series.

Lucrezia Bori, Metropolitan Opera soprano, is to open the Martens season at 8 Monday night in English's.

The prima donna will arrive Monday morning. Miss Bori is to be honored at her concert by members of Zeta chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national musical sorority, who will occupy three boxes.

The Don Cossack Chorus, directed by Serge Zoroff, is composed of 36 former officers of the Czar's Imperial Army.

This will be the fifth appearance of the Cossacks in Indianapolis.

City Symphony Concert Lauded

Cincinnati Director Voices Surprise at Progress.

Praise of the first concert given this season by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra has been received here from Vladimir Bakaleinikoff, associate conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony.

Mr. Bakaleinikoff said he enjoyed the concert and "had no idea that in a comparatively short time the Indianapolis orchestra had advanced to such a high musical level."

He will be guest director of the Indianapolis orchestra at its February concert at the Murat.

'Baby Star' Picking Custom Eliminated

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—Wampus is dead, and there'll be no more "baby stars," an official pronouncement said today.

The organization of Hollywood press agents, once potent in starting beginning actresses on screen careers, had been dying on the vine for some years.

Lack of interest killed it, according to Lindsay Parsons, secretary, who said most of Wampus' functions had been taken over by the producers' association.

'Desire' Filming to Be Completed Soon

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—Production of "Desire" by Paramount, starring Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper, is nearing completion.

Originally titled "The Pearl Necklace," the picture is being directed by Frank Borzage.

The supporting cast includes John Halliday, Alan Mowbray and William Frawley.

Eddie Cantor Faces Claim for $100,000

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—Pop-eyed Eddie Cantor, film comedian, was defendant today in a $100,000 damage suit by Eddie Conrad, scenarist, who charged that Eddie hired him to help with the story of "Roman Scandals," then refused to pay.

Time Extended for Operatic Audition

Audition for a year's scholarship in operatic study in the Burroughs-Jackson College of Music and Fine Arts, set for today, has been extended until 4:30 Wednesday. Applications will be received until noon Wednesday.

Aline MacMahon Has Title Role

Aline MacMahon is to have the title role in Edward Chodorov's play, "Kind Lady," which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is to film. George Seitz is to direct a cast including Basil Rathbone, Dudley Digges and Nola Luxford.

Miss Rainer Complimented

Louise Rainer has received a letter from the late Anna Held's daughter complimenting her on being selected to play Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld."

Howard to Work Abroad

William K. Howard, director of Walter Wanger's "Mary Burns, Fugitive," starring Sylvia Sydney, is preparing to go to Europe to direct a picture.

Film Shows Love of Son and Father

Beery and Cooper Star in 'O'Shaughnessy's Boy' on Loew's Screen.

BY WALTER HICKMAN

Father and son on the screen of Loew's become good pals and other heads of families in the audience leave the theater thinking more kindly of their boys.

Such a picture is "O'Shaughnessy's Boy," which makes every lad who sees it say that "pop is one swell fellow."

That is what Jackie Cooper says to his dad (Wallace Beery) after discovering he was one swell fellow. Jackie arrives at that verdict after many tears and heartaches because relatives and others failed to understand a wild animal trainer may be a fine person.

Jackie's mother dies when he is very young and the years that follow make him hardboiled.

No boy can resist the charm of a circus and finally O'Shaughnessy's boy loves all the elephants, dogs, lions and tigers as well as his father.

Beery Does Fine Work

While this story of circus life is being told, Beery does some fine, thoughtful acting. So much that O'Shaughnessy stands in the list of his five best characterizations.

After he loses his right arm, following an attack by a tiger, Beery reaches the peak of sweet, pathetic acting as he battles to regain his nerve.

Jackie again comes through with a performance which shows the boy is growing in the art of natural emotional acting.

When Jackie finally says "pop" and throws his arms around Beery well, something just happens to one's eye.

Little Star Twinkles

Spanky McFarland plays Cooper's part as a baby and what a natural job he does. He is one of the cutest youngsters on the screen.

Richard Boleslawski catches the spirit of this human little story and gives it all the sympathy possible.

Taking your boy to see this one makes a grand afternoon or evening, a sort of father and son event.

It is now showing headline honors with "The Girl Friend."

Actress Known Here Obtains Film Role

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—Elizabeth Patterson, formerly with the Stuart Walker Company in Indianapolis, won a leading role in "So Red the Rose" by flashing a laudatory review of her work written several years ago by Stark Young.

As Young is the author of "So Red the Rose," the casting director was impressed.

Shops Between Scenes

Claudette Colbert has more than 30 purses sent to her dressing room so she could select her fall bags between scenes of "The Bride Comes Home."

Times Reel Shows Ethiopians at War

The war fever gripping Ethiopia's capital as Haile Selassie's tribesmen subjects pour into the city to organize the defense of their country is graphically to be seen in the current issue of the Times-Universal Newsreel. Graham McNamee, noted radio announcer and the screen's talking reporter, vividly describes this and other important events.

Italy rushes new legions over the tangled borders of northern Ethiopia from her colony in Eritrea. Meanwhile, band of black troops in Addis Ababa show their loyalty to the Emperor and prepare for their first bitter encounter with the enemy, as they celebrate the wild feast of Maskal.

Al Norman introduces the act and gives impressions of how Jim Longmire, a nervous man, and others sleep at night. Unusual hokum comedy.

Prosper and Maret make an athletic symphony of their balancing act. Marjorie Clay in her acrobatic offering does the well-known chair split in the best way. An effective performer.

As a prelude to the stage show, the audience joins individually and collectively in popular songs of the day while Lester Huff plays the organ.

Several bold members of the audience sing into a microphone held by Ed Resner, orchestra director. Here is a highly pleasing novelty.

The movie feature is Paul Muni in "Dr. Socrates." (By M. P.)
