

100 EMPLOYED ON GUIDE BOOK AS WPA PROJECT

17 Indiana Cities Already
Have Started Work on Publication.

More than 100 persons from Indiana relief rolls already have been employed by the Works Progress Administration to assist in the compilation of Indiana's division of the American Guide Book. It was announced at WPA headquarters today.

Preparation and publication of the book is the first and principal part of a nation-wide project to provide work for unemployed writers, editors and research workers.

While all of the personnel has not been selected for the project, a sufficient number has been employed in 17 cities to begin work. The cities where work already has begun are Ft. Wayne, Evansville, South Bend, Vincennes, Gary, Terre Haute, Lafayette, Indianapolis, Muncie, Richmond, Anderson, Elwood, Kokomo, Connersville, Shelbyville, New Albany and Jeffersonville. Eventually each of the 32 Indiana cities having a population of 10,000 or more will have a group at work on the Guide Book.

As a preparation for the work, each person now employed is engaged in reading a history of the state and of his county; making a survey of all readily available material covering Indiana history and that of his own community; acquainting himself with local persons who have in their possession such historical data as books, papers or relics; and visiting local museums. From the written reports which are required of this preliminary survey, the supervisors expect to derive an outline for future work.

The Indiana division of the American Guide is to be compiled in sections, geographically. The original report will remain in the county itself, and a copy will be sent to the state WPA office, where it will be edited and combined with the reports from all over the state, into the Indiana Guide. This in turn is to be sent to Washington where it will become a part of the five-volume American Guide Book.

Information to be gathered includes topographical, botanical, historical, archaeological, cultural, recreational and commercial data about the state.

JUDGE RULES WOMAN GUILTY OF NEGLIGENCE

Parent Placed on Probation to Juvenile Court.

"Any time that a parent destroys the ability to care for his child, he is guilty of child neglect," Judge John F. Geckler ruled late yesterday in passing sentence on Mrs. Marie Winningham, 335 N. East-st.

Mrs. Winningham was charged with the neglect of her child, Billy, 10, in connection with a party Oct. 10. Mrs. Winningham and Dr. Tell C. Waltemire, charged with contributing to child neglect, were placed on probation.

STATE TAX BOARD ASKS LUTZ' RULING

77-Cent Rate Richmond
Plea Subject of Opinion.

Attorney General Philip Lutz Jr. has been asked by the State Tax Board for an opinion on the appeal of Richmond taxpayers for restoration of the 77-cent city rate cut to 25 cents by the Wayne County Tax Adjustment Board.

The 77-cent rate was cut on advice of Mayor Joseph Waltermann and his suggestion that the Richmond municipal light plant turn over $150,000 more to the general fund than had been approved by the council budget.

The general rule is that the State Tax Board can equalize or reduce taxes, but can not increase them. Another question for the Attorney General to settle is whether the state board or a county board can force the use of funds that have not been designated by a state or local legislative body for budget purposes.

BURGLARS BEAT ALARM

Flee Drug Store After Police Hear
They're at Work.

At 1:40 this morning, Robert Montgomery, filling station manager at 10th-st and Arlington-av., saw burglars enter a drug store across the street. He called police. They left before police arrived, having scattered merchandise about the floor. Store owners said the loss was slight.

JAIL BIRDS MAY COME TO ROOST IN HOLIDAY POT

Sheriff Ray Ponders Fate of Chickens Kept by County.

Chickens seized from theft suspects and now in the confines of the county jail basement will come home to roost if Sheriff Ray can arrange it.

Sheriff Ray vouchsafed as much today in issuing a blanket invitation to all chicken fanciers, who recently have been the victims of chicken thieves, to come to the County Jail and, if possible, identify their stolen poultry.

So far as is known, the sheriff admitted, there had been no previous Bertillon measurements or other means of identification by which the birds can be traced, but victims are welcome to look over the exhibit anyway.

The County Jail poultry department now includes about 100 chickens, ranging from haughty Rhode Island Reds to less aristocratic types, difficult to classify, and possibly without any pride of ancestry. Unless the birds are claimed the chances are they will contribute toward the chief item on the Thanksgiving jail menu for inmates, Ray said.

Until then the birds are earning their keep by augmenting the jail's supply of fresh eggs.

Under arrest for vagrancy and petit larceny, accused of responsibility for some of the recent chicken thefts in this vicinity, are three brothers, John, Joseph and Ralph Burdine, R. R. 3, Box 39. Another suspect is sought, the sheriff said. Perhaps he overlooked it, but the sheriff did not reveal that, as a matter of simple justice, the Burdines have been named custodians of the county jail henery.
