

WORK TO START DURING JANUARY ON 2 SCHOOLS

Ground Will Be Broken for
Buildings in Ben Davis,
Warren Township.

Ground for new high schools in Ben Davis and Warren Township is to be broken next month, with school construction considered in Speedway City and Franklin Township, officials said today.

The Ben Davis school, to cost about $225,000, is to consist of eight classrooms and a gymnasium. PWA is to provide 45 per cent of the funds. This will be the first unit of an educational center, to be constructed so it can be expanded to 10 classrooms, according to Herbert McClelland, Wayne Township trustee.

About $200,000 is to be spent on the Warren Township High School which also is to contain rooms for six of the lower grades. The Federal government also will supply 45 per cent of the funds for this project, according to Charles M. Walker, township trustee.

According to Howard F. Wilson, president of the Speedway School Board, tentative plans for a high school have been drawn to qualify for WPA funds. The cost is to be about $100,000 and will be for the first unit of what is planned as a larger building. This unit will make possible a four-year high school course. At present only two years in high school subjects are given. The new building will contain physical training facilities.

Another tentative project is the Franklin Township High School, which calls for spending $123,000 with government aid. Plans for this school are delayed due to taxpayers' objections to the State Tax Board, according to Ed Cook, Franklin Township trustee.
