

STATE SHRINERS HERE TO GREET HIGH POTENTATE

Parades, Initiation Rites to Feature Welcome for
L. P. Stewart.

Shriners of Indiana assembled here today as guests of Murat Temple to honor their chief, Leonard P. Stewart, imperial potentate for North America.

Reception parades for visiting delegations and a final parade to escort the imperial potentate to the shrine mosque are included in the festive schedule.

Formation of the All-Indiana Shrine Council to consolidate the social, business and fraternal activities of the five state temples heads the business program.

The ceremony will begin at 6:30 tonight in the Murat auditorium.

Dr. C. E. Cox, Murat potentate, accompanied by his nobles and assisted by Elias J. Jacoby, past imperial potentate, met Imperial Potentate and Mrs. Stewart on their arrival at the Union Station this morning.

Delegations from temples at Evansville, Hammond, Fort Wayne and Terre Haute arrived on special trains and traction cars.

STRESS IS BLAMED FOR ENTRY IN WAR

Ludlow Points to Pressure Placed on Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—When a President is determined to engage in foreign war and feeling runs high, the average congressman can not survive the strain, Rep. Louis Ludlow (D., Ind.) declared in an address here.

Mr. Ludlow is sponsoring a proposed constitutional amendment to require a referendum on participation in any foreign war.

"Members of Congress are human," he said. "No member likes to be called yellow. The result is they crack under strain and vote for war, while fervently wishing that they might escape such an ordeal."

"When the question of war is up for consideration the limelight pours on members of Congress with terrifying intensity. Only a few intrepid souls dare stand up and be counted against war."

Should this limelight be turned off and the people themselves permitted to decide on war there would be little likelihood of conflict, he said.

When the World War vote was taken, Mr. Ludlow, then a newspaper correspondent, was in the press gallery.

ADDING MACHINES TAKEN

Calculators Taken From His Parked Car, City Man Says.

A thief stole two electric adding machines from the auto of C. W. Hirschland, 2902 Washington Blvd., last night, he reported to police today. The value was $334.

H. R. Ezerack, 139 N. Highland, reported to police that a thief stole a fur coat valued at $350 from a delivery truck yesterday afternoon.

OLD WOOD FOR VIOLINS

Instrument Maker Uses Timber From Pioneer Buildings.

BRODEHEAD, Wis., Dec. 13.—Wood salvaged from pioneer buildings in this vicinity which were destroyed by fire or wind is used by John Macomber, the descendant of Yankee early settlers here, to make violins.

NOW WILL YOU BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS?

An appeal to buy Christmas seals is difficult to resist when presented by these four pretty Manual Training High School girls. They are Freda Stainbrook, Mary Etta Strettsberry, Ruth Winingier and Dorothy Weyereter.

FLYING With MAJ. AL WILLIAMS

YOU have read about the new bomber racks on my little Hawk which I use for exhibition purposes and now I want to describe the new radio outfit that has just been installed.

I have an eight-meter short wave transmitter and receiver in the ship and a similar unit for the ground. With this equipment we can carry on a two-way conversation while the Hawk is turning and twisting in the sky.

It's one thing to fly straight-away and use a radio telephone, but it's an entirely different matter, and at the same time a mighty interesting one, to fly a ship upside-down, or to carry it through involved maneuvers, and still carry on a conversation with the ground. The thought occurred to me that one-half of my head does the flying and the other half does the talking.

We have developed a great many variations of the straight conversation between ship and ground... and while putting on an air show at New Orleans the ground microphone of my outfit was placed close to a phonograph which was playing record of "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." The music was transmitted to my earphones and I timed the movements of the Hawk so that she was actually waiting to music.

But one part of the record was devoted to a vocal chorus, sung by the artist who made the record. This came through my earphones also, and I went right on with the waltz. Well, the crowd seemed to like the show, but at dinner that evening

Blood-Curdling

By United Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The Journal of the American Medical Association today reported the following note had been received by a Massachusetts physician:

"I gotta katarthar. I gotta pendicitis. I suppose I gotta rupture. I gotta sleep in my legs, sometimes my wind come, make it short breath. Not feel anything extra for helluva long time. Mine heves red too much. I'm gonna go to I drop dead in the street. Mine blood goes like wind."

an old friend approached our table with a broad grin.

He said: "Al, I heard a good one today—" and went on to tell me that at the conclusion of the waltz in the air he happened to pass a group of people who were discussing the act with much interest. He heard one young woman say:

"Well, after hearing him sing it's too bad that somebody doesn't tell Al Williams that he ought to stick to flying, on account of he knows something about that."

Oh, well.

QUESTION—What is the high speed of the Boeing P4B?

A bit over 200 miles an hour.

Portugal had confined its ambitions mainly to its own territory, when Prince Henry, son of King John I, instituted a series of explorations and discoveries that converted his country into a powerful empire.

Henry erected an observatory and a school for navigation, and from there he sent his pupils on voyages that resulted in the discovery of the Azores, the Madeira Islands, Cape Verde and the coast of Guinea.

For half a century after his death, in 1460, his influence brought about further Portuguese expansion in South America and in India. It was through him also that the trade in Negro slaves was begun.

The stamp shown below is one of three types Portugal issued in Prince Henry's honor in 1894, on the 500th anniversary of his birth.

OWNS DWARF JERSEY

Ohio Farmer's Cow Stands Only 37½ Inches High; Weighs 228

By United Press

TRENTON, O., Dec. 13.—S. R. Shafer of Trenton boasts one of the smallest cows in the world. The animal is 4 years old, stand 37½ inches high, and weighs 228 pounds. She is a Jersey, eligible to register.

Agriculture is the main industry of Andorra, tiny nation lying between France and Spain. The location is so ideal for the business of smuggling that this is also an important source of the country's revenue.
