

BUSINESS ZONE PROPOSED FOR S. MERIDIAN-ST

Ordinance Would Change Area From Frank-st to Raymond-St.

An ordinance providing for rezoning the west side of S. Meridian-st from Frank-st to Raymond-st was being drafted today by members of the city legal department under direction of the Plan Commission.

The area would be changed from an industrial to a business zone. It includes the site of an alleged junk yard now occupied by Samuel Goldsmith. This yard has been the cause of a neighborhood argument, and a suit now is pending against Goldsmith.

The commission, sitting yesterday as the Board of Zoning Appeals, refused two petitions for zoning law variances and approved three others.

Those denied were the petition of Walter Howe, southwest corner of Washington-blvd and 30th-st, to erect a gasoline filling station, and the appeal of Mrs. Olive M. Ellis, 60 N. Campbell-av, to convert the present two-story single dwelling into a four-family apartment.

RELIEF MEN WORK OVERTIME TO MINIMIZE EFFECTS OF CHILL WINDS

The wheeze and whir of a cross-cut saw in the basement of the city's soup kitchen, 227 E. Maryland-st, today worked overtime as relief workers cut up cord-wood to provide fuel for needy families of the city.

Men are shown in the above photo manning the saw. One worker, Elmer Dailey, induced W. H. Marsh, director of the relief station, to obtain a circular saw when he promised to cut all the wood in the basement within three hours. Daily made good. The cord-wood dwindled until a new load was obtained from the Municipal Airport. Trees cut at the airport to provide a better landing field are used to provide fuel for the city's indigent.

mainly to interruption of collections because of AAA litigation.

Figures for Nation

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Americans paid a Federal tax bill of $3,359,229,746 last year, compared with $2,994,172,572 in 1934, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today.

The higher tax collections resulted from new and increased New Deal taxes as well as rising business activity that increased turnover of goods and hence income and excise taxes.

Miscellaneous internal revenue taxes such as those on tobacco, liquor and gasoline brought in $1,799,989,569, against $1,579,000,844 in 1934. Income tax collections were $1,234,974,841, against $920,773,573 in 1934. Processing taxes, recently invalidated by the Supreme Court, brought in $325,265,335 in 1935 compared with $500,308,155 in 1934.

New York residents paid nearly $750,000,000 or 21 per cent. Collections in 1935 in the Empire state were $723,909,719, against $586,032,129 in 1934.
