

FOUNDER'S DAY CEREMONY TO BE HELD HERE

Butler to Hear Address by
C. B. Coleman in Closing Event.

"Education as Escape" is to be Christopher B. Coleman's subject when he delivers the principal Founders' Day address for Butler University Friday. Dr. Coleman is state librarian and a former member of the Butler faculty. He is to be the speaker at a banquet at the Claypool closing the events of the traditional Butler observance.

Two programs are to be presented by the university Friday. Academic ceremonies at the fieldhouse at 11 a. m. and the banquet at 6:30 p.m. have been scheduled. Speakers at the morning program will be Emsley W. Johnson, representing the board of trustees; Dr. Tolbert F. Reavis, representing the faculty, and Miss Jeanne Helt, a senior, representing the students.

Parmalee Dovey, senior class president and other class officers are to head an academic procession which is to precede the morning service. President James W. Putnam will preside. The Rev. E. G. Homrichausen will give the invocation and the Rev. S. Grundy Fisher will pronounce the benediction.

John L. H. Fuller, president of the Butler Alumni Association, will introduce Mr. Coleman at the banquet. Dr. Putnam will be toastmaster. Music is to be provided by a strong trio from the Arthur Jordan Conservatory.

Alumni and former students have been invited to the Founders' Day celebration, held each year on the birthday of Ovid Butler, for whom the institution is named. The banquet is to be formal. Charles W. Wilson, university bursar, is in charge of reservations.

Suicide Indicated, Officials Say After Inquiry.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 5.—The second mysterious death of a New England college freshman within 24 hours was unsolved today, but authorities said that "evidence for suicide is the stronger."

The tri-sected body of Jerome Nathan Straus, 18-year-old Dartmouth student and son of a wealthy New York merchant, was discovered beside railroad tracks at Thetford, Authorities at Northampton continued their investigation of Grose's death, still unable to decide whether it was the result of suicide, foul play or accident.
