Roadside Quarrel Ends in Shooting at Brownsburg Filling Station.

Times Special
DANVILLE, Ind., April 7.—Prosecutor John Kendall today questioned Mrs. Gertrude Black, 45, in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband last night in what is claimed to have been the climax to a prolonged family quarrel.

He would attempt to learn, he said, how Mrs. Black obtained possession of the gun she is alleged to have used when she fled from her farmer husband into a gasoline station near Brownsburg, firing as she ran. One bullet struck Mr. Black, causing instant death. Prosecutor Kendall said.

Authorities were told that Mr. Black pursued his wife by auto last night after she and her 11-year-old daughter by a former marriage drove from the farm home en route to Indianapolis to attend church services.

Mr. Black is said to have overtaken his wife a short distance out of Brownsburg, and after an argument in the highway, followed Mrs. Black as she drove back toward town.

The two cars stopped at a Brownsburg filling station, where the argument was renewed and Mr. Black is reported to have struck his wife. According to Marshall Wiley, she then ran into the station, firing twice as her husband entered the doorway.

One bullet entered Mr. Black's body just below the heart. The other went wild.
