VERY NICE PARTY, LINDA. THORNE SAID, BENDING OVER HER HAND AND SAYING NOTHING AT ALL ABOUT DIX. AFTER THAT SHE SADE EACH OF HER GUESTS GOOD NIGHT, AND FINALLY THERE WAS ONLY DIX AND PETE LEFT.

Linda Bourne, 20 years old, pretty, is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father. Peter Gardner, newspaper reporter, helps her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with Dix Carter, but he goes abroad to study singing. When Peter asks Linda to marry him she agrees, but postpones the wedding. Honey Harmon, film star, comes to Newton, making a "personal appearance" tour. She buys a scenario written by Linda. Later, Linda goes to Hollywood and, by expressing ideas that are really Peter's, acquires a reputation for being able to discover new stars. Soon she is a celebrity.

"Very nice party, Linda," Thorne said, bending over her hand and saying nothing at all about Dix. After that she bade each of her guests good night, and finally there was only Dix and Pete left. If Linda hadn't had a job that occupied most of her waking time, she might have filled it by bringing edge thinking of the social problems presented by the three men in her life. Each of them took a part of her time. There were the constant reminders of Basil Thorne. His telephone calls intruded on her time at home and at the office. His flowers were a charming daily reminder that she resented deeply. His insistent invitations, which she refused, putting him off gracefully, were unsettling to her peace of mind. She had put herself in his debt by letting him drop her. And yet she could not drop him abruptly. And yet she knew that she must do it one day soon.

AND there was Dix. It didn't occur to her that when she was too tired to see him, he could find other things to do. Dix was necessary to her, and she must be to him. She found time to give him that she needed for her own rest. She found an accompanist and a dramatic teacher for him. He was scrupulous about not permitting her to pay for either, but he used her apartment for his lessons and her company for his audience. There was also Pete. Pete Gardner did not ask for her time. He didn't call her frequently on the telephone and he never sent her flowers. But, none the less, he did occupy much of her thinking time. Linda was annoyed with Pete. She couldn't have told herself why. Running into him at official functions, finding him with a girl on his arm, seeing him the center of interest at a table not far from where she was unreasonably resentful to feel that way. His manner was always courteous—and politely strange. She might have puzzled over it long, but arrived at a right and quick conclusion, left to herself, but one bright day he telephoned her and asked her if she'd "like to picnic."

LINDA would like very much to picnic. It was a form of entertainment so simple it hadn't reached any peak of popularity in her immediate set in Hollywood. It was simple, natural and something she had missed and not known it. In Pete's car they rode out to the seashore. Not the smart

LABOR LEADERS WILL CONSIDER FORMING PARTY

State Conference Is Called for Saturday at South Bend.

Times Special SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 11.—A state conference on the advisability of forming a Farmer-Labor Party in Indiana is to be held here Saturday night.

Invitations to labor leaders throughout the state have been sent by John Bartee, legislative committee chairman, Studebaker local, United Automobile Workers of America.

The Farmer-Labor Party has been endorsed here by the St. Joseph County Central Labor Union, the Studebaker local 5, Bendix local 9, Toy Workers Federal Union local, Bakery Workers Union local and Oliver Federal local, according to Mr. Bartee.

There is little of the relentless dictator expression in this new and unusual portrait of Josef Stalin, who, as general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, is Russia's dictator. The quizzical expression about the mouth and kindly eyes belie his title of "the Steely One."

4 FACE CHARGES IN OWEN FAMILY FEUP

City Woman Took Daughter From Estranged Mate, Is Claim.

First step in the settlement of an Owen County family dispute is expected to be taken today when Owen County authorities are to return a mother, daughter and two men, held here on fugitive charges, under $1000 bond each.

Those held are Mrs. Stella Busch, 36, of 523 N. Alabama-st.; the daughter, Bertha Dicus, 16, and Paul Schimmel, 37, and Ralph Buntin, 35, both of Frankfort.

The mother was alleged to have taken the daughter away from the father, Harold Dicus, Spencer farmer, following a fight yesterday. Police said she admitted the daughter had been awarded the father in court proceedings. According to state police, the father may lose an eye as a result of the fight.
