

Hawaiian Girl Gives Interpretations of Native Hula Dance

Mitsuko Enomoto, Studying in America, Is Guest of Herbert M. Woollens During Visit in City.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN
Society Editor

THE Hawaiian hula dance means more than a skillful wriggling of feminine hips to us now that Mitsuko Enomoto, Battle Creek College student, has visited here. During her stay with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Woollens, she gave interpretations of her native dance that surprised those who had seen only motion picture versions of the famed hula. Mitsuko, who came to present a program at the Propylaeum Club today, explained that in the true hula the hips aren't moved at all—that the swaying movements of the grass skirts are accomplished by bending the knees and twisting the grass with the hands.

She explained the motions made with her hands—not mere graceful gestures, but really poems in movement. Each action signified a part of the story being enacted.

Mitsuko talked eagerly about her native island, Maui. She is going home in June after her graduation from the physical education department at the American College where she has studied for four years.

She tilted her head, flashed her brown eyes and answered her new friends' questions in a vibrant, expressive voice.

She arrived Saturday and, before the program today, met many acquaintances of the Woollens; never tiring of talking about "home." She gathered flowers which she turned into leis to wear with her American evening dresses.

She told about lei day in Hawaii—the first of May when every one wears a lei and schools are dismissed so the children may see the pagodas depicting the islands' history and legends.

She described many of the legends told her by her great-uncle, Kōle, 79, who sometimes walks 100 miles a day and believes all the lore he has handed down to Mitsuko, her brothers and sisters.

Knows They are Fairy Tales
"We know they are fairy tales, but we don't tell Uncle," she whispered.

Nevertheless, she told the stories in a sincerely dramatic fashion, as though she expected to look over her shoulder to see a goddess or a Menchunes, one of the pot-bellied midgets supposed to come up from the sea in the middle of May.

She delighted her listeners with short, catchy Hawaiian songs. "They are like your ditties," she said.

"There are only 12 letters in our alphabet. Many words are alike. Our inflections determine their meaning. So you must be careful. You might tell some one they are like a pig when you really mean they are like a flower. Pua is the word for both. But you will get in trouble if you don't say it right. The same with 'aloha,' which can mean hello or goodbye. And when 'Aloha' means goodbye, it can be different, too."

Infection Changes Meaning
She said 'aloha' to a new friend and her infection expressed friendliness and grace. But when she said 'aloha' as a parting word to a beloved relative, it took on a tenderness not noticeable before.

Mitsuko's father was Japanese, and her mother was of Hawaiian and German lineage. Mitsuko, her Japanese name, means little girl—she is scarcely five feet tall. Her Hawaiian name is Mālie Lau Lie—meaning, supple and tender body.

Cecelia was the name given her by the Sisters. She was the first she studied before she came to America four years ago on a scholarship awarded by the William and Mary Alexander Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution.

She hasn't been back to Hawaii in the four years. She is eager to return. She wants to go back into the depths of the island to see the grass huts, where natives live. All the young Hawaiians visit these out of the way spots on Christmas eve when they go caroling, much the same as do American children.

GROUP TO HEAR MUSIC PROGRAM
A program of music, composed by active and alumnae members of Kappa Chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon, national honor music sorority, is to be presented at a dinner meeting of the Indianapolis Alumnae Club tonight.

Garden Spots Visited on Park School Mothers' Tour

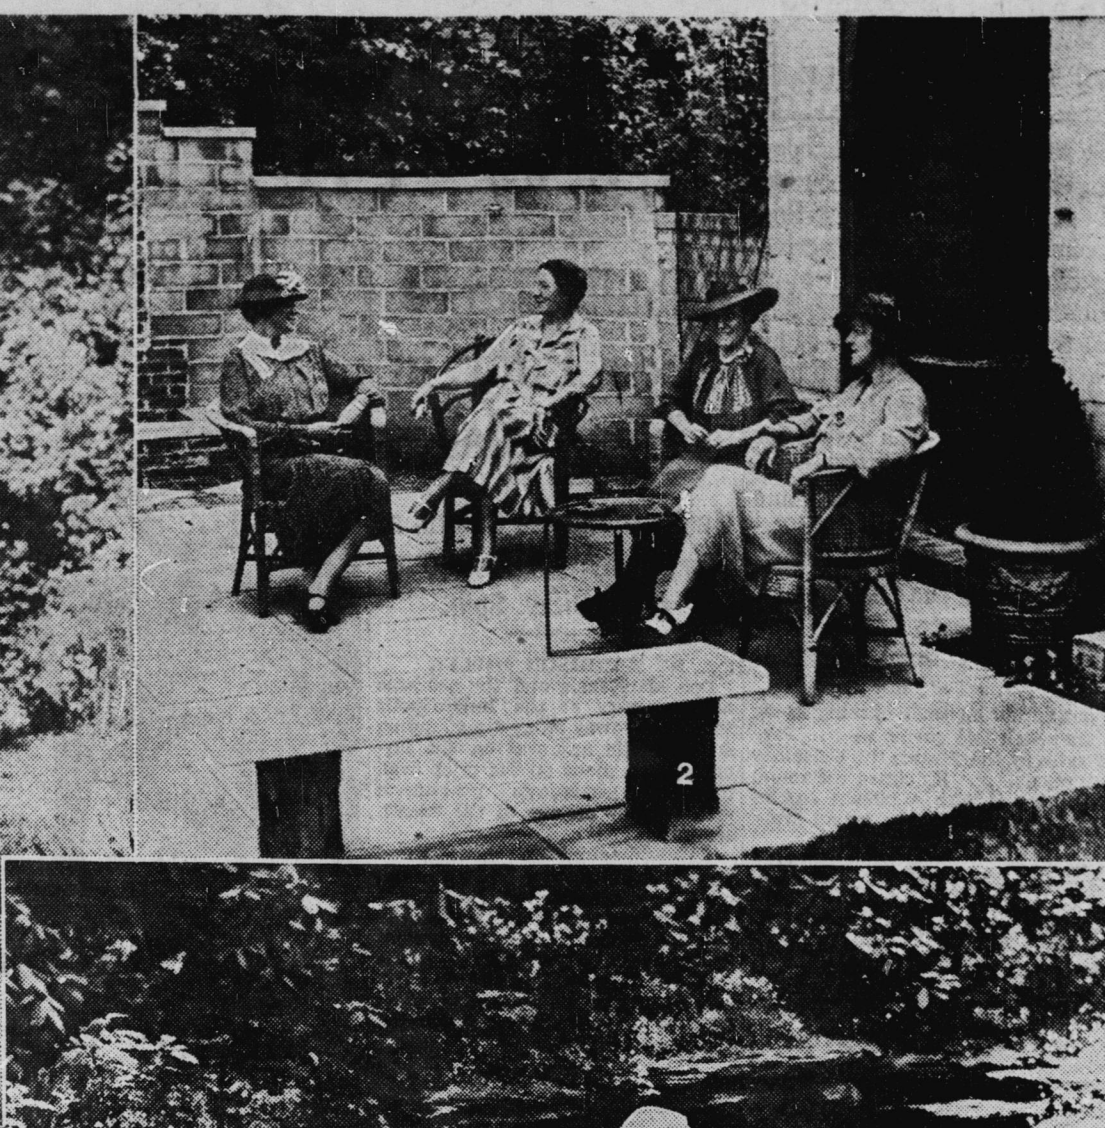

Visitors who made the rounds in the Park School Mothers' Association garden tour yesterday and Saturday saw many types of landscaping.

1. Mrs. Lyman S. Ayres stands on stones outlining the edge of the swimming pool on the Frederic M. Ayres' estate on Sunset-In. The pool is sunk in a valley between hills flowered with varieties of wild plants.

2. (Left to right) Mrs. A. Dickinson Smith, Mrs. R. Hartley Sherwood, Mrs. William J. Shafer and Mrs. C. W. Spalding chat in the outdoor living room formed by the garden wall at the Sherwood home on Meridian-st.

3. Mrs. James F. Carroll finds the rock ledge a restful place to sit while watching the water trickling down the hillside at the Nicholas Noyes' estate, Sunset-In.

GOOD DEFENSE SETS HAND

Today's Contract Problem
West, whose side had a partial score of 40, is playing this hand at three clubs. Should declarer immediately cash his king and queen of spades? How would you play the hand?

Solution to Previous Contract Problem
BY W. E. M'KENNEY
American Bridge League Secretary

BRIDGE again is proving that it is not a seasonal game. Many of the country's major tournaments are scheduled for the summer season.

Summer session of the national championship tournament of the American Bridge League will be held in Asbury Park, N. J. the week of Aug. 3. The American Whist League's all-America events will be held in Chicago in June. Many summer resorts have booked important bridge tournaments as part of the season's program.

At one time the Ohio state tournament was considered the closing event of the season. This year, however, the tournament, held in Cleveland April 28 to May 2, really opened the warm weather season of bridge activities.

Opportunities for fine defensive plays are rare as compared with the chances a declarer has to make a good play. Therefore, there is always a lot of satisfaction when a nice play defeats a contract.

Here is a hand which I watched H. Huber Boscowitz, president of the American Bridge League, play in a recent rubber game at the Cavendish Club in New York. Boscowitz sat in the North and won South's opening lead of the nine of clubs with the ace, declarer discarding the king of clubs. At this point, if a club were returned, declarer could make four heart tricks and four diamond tricks, as he still would have every suit stopped and could afford to finesse the diamonds.

A nice defensive play came when North shifted to the eight of spades. This trick was won in dummy with the jack.

Now the diamond finesse was taken, South winning with the king. He returned a spade, and North was able to cash his ace, king and 10 spot of spades, defeating the contract one trick.

Block's DAY BY DAY

Can you SMILE when your head aches?

"If I possessed a shop or store, I'd drive the grouches off the floor!" WRITES EDDIE GUEST

From your own experience you know there is nothing like a feeling of physical well-being to keep people pleasant. We know that our employees can't give you the courteous service you deserve if they are feeling ill.

For your sakes and theirs, we've enlarged and improved our store hospital, now located in its new quarters on the eighth floor. We've added many beds to the rest room to take care of a greatly increased personnel. The minute a headache or a toothache appears we send our indisposed co-worker to the hospital for relief. A registered nurse is in attendance at all times to help keep the people who serve you, in the pink of physical perfection.
