

LIFE INSURANCE TERMED GOLDEN RULE IN ACTION

Provides Way to Care for Self and Family, Oakes Tells Kiwanis.

Observance of National Insurance Week continued today with three luncheon programs and an afternoon address before members of the Woman's Department Club.

Mansur B. Oakes National Association of Life Underwriters' field consultant, spoke at the Kiwanis Club's luncheon in the Columbia Club on "Around the Curve."

"Life insurance is the golden rule in action," said Mr. Oakes. "It is a plan which enables an individual to provide adequately for his family and at the same time to provide for himself an income in old age from a fund built up by his small savings over many years."

"It is a plan which does not prevent one from enjoying the good things of life in order to have an income later in life."

TERMED CONSERVATIVE

"Life insurance is the most conservative of investments, yet it offers a possible enormous investment return. For instance, in the event of death within a year after taking out a policy, the returns may be about 3900 per cent of the premiums paid. However, the chances are 2 to 1 that the policyholder will live to enjoy the benefits of his policy in old age," he said.

Harry E. McClain, state insurance commissioner, talked on the "Human Aspects of Life Insurance" at the Lions Club luncheon in the Washington.

"Whenever you talk to a good life insurance man," said Mr. McClain, "the chances are that the conversation swings to the question of income, both present and future. The American public is learning that it is not so important how much capital a man may leave to his family, but rather the amount of regular income which is provided by his estate. Life insurance is arranged under a modern program not only to create an estate, but also to administer that estate so as to provide a life income for the man's family or himself in old age."

Harry G. Leslie, former Governor of Indiana and president of the Standard Life Insurance Co., addressed members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon at the Lincoln, speaking on "Life Insurance as a Crime Prevention."

Mr. Leslie said:

"Life insurance which provides funds for education is insurance against criminal careers. The statistics on crime show that the majority of lawbreakers are under legal age and that they come for the most part from homes broken by poverty."

These figures emphasize the importance of guaranteeing children a chance to stay in high school or college by means of educational insurance. Educational insurance transfers the obligation of providing funds for the education of children in the event of a parent's death to a life insurance company."

Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch, vice president and medical director of the State Life Insurance Co., was to speak before the Woman's Department Club at the club's quarters at 17th and Meridian sts. at 2. His subject was to be "Woman's Influence in Life Insurance."

HAUPTMANN EXPERT LOSES JOB IN WPA

Court Record Disclosed by Attendant Publicity.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Hauptmann case, which has woven a web of misfortune for many in addition to the late Bronx carpenter, claimed another victim today.

Arch W. Loney lost his job with the Public Works Administration here as the result of—though not because of—his efforts to save the Lindbergh murderer from the chair.

Publicity revolved around Mr. Loney when, in the final effort to save Hauptmann, he appeared as a "wood expert" with the claim that the famous "rail 16" of the kidnap ladder did not come from the Hauptmann attic.

That publicity brought the disclosure in Pittsburgh that he had a court record there which he had not mentioned in applying to PWA for employment.

Administrator Harold S. Ickes dismissed Mr. Loney, effective May 15. The dismissal, it was explained, was based solely on the falsification of personal statements in his application for a job.
