THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William
Ferguson

PIMENTO AND PIMENTO ARE TWO ENTIRELY DIFFERENT PRODUCTS. THE FIRST IS MADE FROM BERRIES OF THE PIMENTO TREE; THE LATTER IS A SPANISH PEPPER.

THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE HALTS ABOUT 45,000 DANGEROUS PLANTS AND INSECTS ALONG THE U. S. BORDERS ANNUALLY.

Pimento is a pungent, aromatic spice, prepared from the unripe berries of the pimento tree, and is used in cookery and in medicine. Pimento is used in the manufacture of cheese, and as a stuffing for olives. Both names are derived from the Spanish word, pimento, meaning "pepper."

TREES DAMAGED DURING WINTER, EXPERT CLAIMS

Heavy Rains of Fall Blamed; Treatment Is Suggested.

Shade trees throughout Indiana show serious winter injury, R. B. Hull, landscape architect, Purdue University Extension Department, reported today.

Mr. Hull, here to confer with Horace E. Abbott, county agricultural agent, pointed out that the late heavy rains in the fall contributed largely to the damage. Young trees grew late into the fall and went into the winter unripened, not having had time to dry out, he added.

Inspection along the trunk with a knife or ice-pick will usually indicate areas of dead wood, and trees in bad condition will show a lack of foliage and vigor, he explained.

Where dead wood is found, the bark should be removed and the wood cleaned with a stiff brush and painted, Mr. Hull said.

Paint for this purpose is made with Bordeaux powder and linseed oil mixed to the consistency of thick cream, he explained.

Urges Trees Be Fertilized
Trees should also be well fertilized and all dead branches removed, he said. The ground covered by the spread of the branches should be spaded and fertilizer worked in, unless the trees are on lawns. In this case they should be fertilized by the perforation method, he said. This is done by punching holes 15 inches deep with one-foot centers throughout the area covered by the tree, and filling them with fertilizer, Mr. Hull said.

The best fertilizer for this purpose is a mixture of 50 pounds of steam bone meal, 50 pounds of cotton seed meal and 25 pounds of sulphate of ammonia, Mr. Hull said.

About a quart of the mixture is put into each hole and the hole filled with good soil, he said. This mixture can also be used for shrubs, allowing about two quarts for each, he added.
