

MORMONS MAP RELIEF SYSTEM FOR OWN NEEDY

Program of Co-operative Activity Is Studied by U. S. Officials.

BY ROBERT S. BROWN

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The decision of the Mormon Church to assume the relief burden within its own membership provoked increasing interest among officials here today as full details of the church's plan became known.

Co-operative farming and manufacturing, community warehouses, sharing of available work and "tithing in kind" form the backbone of the Mormon movement to relieve the government of relief.

Up to 1930, the Mormon Church had cared for its own. Income from "fast days"—the first Sunday in each month, on which only one meal is eaten, the remaining two being given in cash or kind to the church—had been sufficient to meet relief needs. But the load increased so rapidly that it became impossible to continue without state or Federal aid.

High officers of the church were reluctant to take public money for their charges and began immediately to plan a program which would make the church membership again self-sustaining. It was launched last month by the "first presidency" of the church, the high ruling office.

Co-operative Agreements

Already hundreds of acres of fertile soil have been pledged for production purposes. In most cases this land will be planted to sugar beets, with relief labor tending and harvesting the crops. Co-operative agreements with sugar refineries in Utah and Idaho have been reached, and the profits of the crop will be distributed in cash or kind to the needy.

In other areas tomatoes, peas, beans and other edibles will be raised. Here again co-operative agreements with local canneries will assure a full return to the people who produce the crops.

Regions have been designated, and each region will have a community warehouse, to be stocked with clothing, food and fuel sufficient to supply the area's needs. The warehouses also will be clearing houses for labor. Representatives of the general church relief committee will be in charge.

Services to Be Traded

In connection with the warehouses will be various types of co-operatives in which relief workers can trade their services for food or clothing. Some sections are expected to establish small manufacturing plants, where raw materials will be transformed into consumer goods.

Still another source of supply to the common warehouses will be the restoration of "tithing in kind," an age-old custom of the Mormon Church. Once again members can give their tithes in meat, grain, hay or eggs.

Church members whose cash incomes permit will continue to pay their tithes in money, to supply those things impossible to produce or manufacture, and to provide capital for co-operative enterprises.

Hopes to Care for 75,000

By Oct. 1, First President Heber J. Grant hopes to have the warehouses filled with enough to carry 75,000 or more needy Mormons through the winter.

"The Lord has given us within our church, the government, organization and leadership to accomplish this great purpose, and if we fail we stand condemned," President Grant has said.

"The world is losing that genius of helping others in banding together in a co-operative spirit to overcome serious obstacles and lighten burdens," he said.

TRIAL OF WILLIAMS, PEATS TO BE JUNE 8

Two Accused of Murder in Death of Kroger Driver.

The joint trial of Harry Peats and Emmett J. Williams, charged with murder in the death of John Penny, Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. truck driver, is to be June 8, Criminal Court Judge Frank P. Baker ruled today.

If the joint trial, by chance, is not begun on that date, Victor Crickmore, held on the same charge, is to be tried then, the judge said. No date was set for the trial of Gerald Haygood, another defendant.

The four were arraigned on new indictments returned Monday. After motions to quash the indictments were overruled, defense attorneys filed pleas of abatement questioning the jurisdiction of the Marion Criminal Court.

Butler Co-Eds Enthused Over Local Movie

With a poster cut-out of Jeanette MacDonald as inspiration, L. Ward Farar, Loew's theater manager (right, above), is shown inviting three Butler University co-eds to register for try-outs for roles in the all-Indianapolis movie, "It Happened in Indianapolis," sponsored by The Times and Loew's theater. The three collegiates, Ellen Hamilton, 3353 Park-av; Betty Lutz, 1512 N. Meridian-st. and Alice Marie Woolling, 6930 Washington-bldg., expressed enthusiasm over the project which will be filmed entirely in Indianapolis, under the direction of Leonard A. De Menna.

Any one between the ages of 16 and 22, inclusive, is eligible for a try-out for a part in the picture.

think they have what it takes before a movie camera. That "something" which makes a movie actor or actress a star is hard to define, so one may have it and not realize it. The best way to find out is to get an interview and test.

Application blanks (such as the one following this article) will be printed in The Times through Saturday. Voice and lighting tests for all applicants will be held after all applications have been received and casting of the script for "It Happened in Indianapolis" by Director De Menna and his staff, will follow. Actual "shooting" of the talkie will take place next week.

The finished picture will be returned to Loew's Theater for a week's run as a special feature on the regular program and then the film will be shipped to Hollywood for inspection by various studio casting staffs there. If unusual talent is shown, it is possible that an Indianapolis boy or girl, perhaps both, may be awarded a film contract. But no promises are made.

The local movie is being produced strictly on an entertainment basis. If you are interested in taking part in this movie, filmed from a real script, a comedy-drama based on the life of modern youth, and produced in the Hollywood fashion right here in Indianapolis, enroll today. GUARD IN RACE FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Spencer Editor Announces G. O. P. Candidacy.

Samuel R. Guard, Spencer, farm paper editor, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

His declaration of candidacy urged a program of tax revision based on principles advocated by the Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc.

"My state recovery program would consider the following points: Cut taxes, decentralize the executive's control of our state government and balance the state's expenditures below its income; stabilize farm prices under the farmers' own organization; speed industry and furnish a job for every man who wants to work; aid labor, protect the aged, and improve the schools."

He urged the "emergency" clause in the $1 and $1.50 tax law be eliminated and favored a net income tax.

Place on State Ticket Urged for G. O. P. Farmer, Is Claim

Rural Bloc Reported Seeking Nomination of One of Their Number for Lieutenant Governor.

BY ARCH STEINEL

A farm bloc in the Republican Party today was reported working for the nomination of a farmer as running-mate of the candidate for Governor to be chosen at the Republican state convention in the Coliseum here on June 3.

E. J. Barker, Thorntown, former secretary of the State Board of Agriculture; Guy Cantwell, Gosport, and Samuel R. Guard, Spencer, have been suggested by Republican farmers as acceptable candidates for Lieutenant Governor, it was learned.

Joe Kyle, Gary, nominee for Lieutenant-Governor at the last general election, is considered one of the leading candidates for the Lieutenant Governor nomination.

While the Republican state committee prepared for the convention at the Fairgrounds a definite slate of candidates for other offices to be named remained in doubt.

Aspirants for Other Posts

Avowed candidates and those mentioned for other offices on the state ticket were listed as follows:

Secretary of state, James Slane, Lafayette, and Everett Neal, Noblesville, publisher.

State auditor, Virgil Brown, Shelbyville.

State superintendent of public instruction, O. M. Pittenger, Albany, and Ben Watt, Noblesville school superintendent.

State treasurer, Dave Scott, Linton.

Supreme Court, First District, Union W. Youngblood, Booneville; Travis Williams, Evansville, and Thomas Coulter, Vincennes.

Other Judicial Candidates

Appellate Court, northern district: Fred Hines, Noblesville; Judge Harry Crumpacker, Michigan City.

Appellate Court, southern district: Alfred Evans, Bloomington; William Brooks, Bedford and Rollin Turner, Greensburg.

No candidates have been announced, it was reported by the state committee, for the offices of reporter of the Supreme and Appellate Courts or Supreme Court judge of the Fourth District.

GIRL, 15, HELD IN VICE RAIDS

Police Arrest 20 During Roundup of Alleged Disorderly Houses.

A 15-year-old girl was held in Juvenile Detention Home today, following police raids last night and early today on alleged houses of prostitution. Twenty arrests were made, police announced.

The raids followed a complaint by a sister-in-law of the 15-year-old girl, who furnished the address of the house where she was arrested.

Police also arrested a woman at the same address, who was quoted by the police as saying she had become suspicious of the girl's age and had already arranged to transfer her to another house.

Police said they learned that the girl had been married to a youth on the insistence of her mother, but that her husband later deserted her.

A taxi driver was held under $2000 bond on charges of vagrancy and contributing to delinquency of the girl. Police said he was an ex-convict and was responsible for placing the girl in the house.

TAX REBELS FIGHT F. D. R.'S PRESSURE

Democrats Oppose Eccles' Plan, Report.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Democratic tax rebels fought today to hold their lines firm against strong Administration pressure to re-write the corporate tax plan once more along lines suggested by Gov. Mariner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board.

Adoption of a modified Eccles plan providing for a flat 15 per cent corporate tax rate and a scale of surtaxes upon withheld surpluses would mean the end of the compromise tax program upon which the Senate Finance Committee virtually was agreed before last night's conference with President Roosevelt.

W. A. Evans, publications director, and Miss Blanche Young, assistant; Miss Ruth Beaverville, general supervisor, special education; Miss Bertha Leming, social work supervisor; Miss Clare Nieman and Miss Florio Torrence, elementary school supervisors, and Miss Carrie B. Francis, visual education director.
