PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—The stone's throw from the banks of historic Schuylkill river stands the Municipal auditorium—scene of the 1936 Democratic National convention. It is here—in a $5,000,000 structure—President Franklin D. Roosevelt will be renominated this party in the week of June 23.

Completed in 1931, the Convention hall is the most commonly known, the Democratic Party all the while that a political organization in convention could desire.

There are numerous "exclusive" features of Convention Hall. In addition to the 13,500 seats on the floor and balcony in the auditorium proper, there are 60 side aisles situated off long, imposing wings.

These will enable each state delegation to have its own conference. Also, they will provide meeting places for various convention committees and private conference for James A. Farley, National chairman, and other chiefs.

Massive Organ in Hall
The party's theme song of the convention—"Happy Days Here Again"—may be played this time on an organ which is to be even greater than the one in Chicago's Stadium where the Democrats met four years ago.

Acoustics in the auditorium are said to be nearly perfect, but addition of a highly efficient loud speaking apparatus is available for the permanent to the decoration of the convention, and other features.

More than 1000 persons may be seated on the huge stage at the end of the auditorium. In addition there is a ballroom on the second floor. Another 1800 persons can be accommodated outside the hall, located on 34th-st., is from the din of downtown Philadelphia. It may be reached by bus, car or elevated lines. Philadelphia police officials have prepared a traffic system to speed up transportation to and from the hall.

Close by is the University of Pennsylvania campus and the many new buildings of the university were founded by Benjamin Franklin.

Hall 408 by 236 Feet
The great auditorium itself occupies the major part of the new structure covering ground space of 100 feet in length by 236 feet in width. The space occupied by the hall, or arena, is 300 feet of length of the building and 226 feet of the width.

Closest point is approximately 100 feet—and there are no columns obstructing the view of the speaker's platform and stage.

More than a block away are the Philadelphia General Hospital and University of Pennsylvania Hospital—both nationally known.

PURDUE ARTILLERY CADETS IN ACTION DURING R. O. T. C. INSPECTION

City an Industrial Empire

The city is an industrial empire in itself. Twenty-five plants are located in the community, the backbone of its development being the convenient location to the rich lake iron ore region and the coal and limestone field of Ohio and Pennsylvania. Nearly 150,000 wage earners are employed in its factories, at least two-thirds of the nation's industries are represented and more than $1,000,000,000 worth of products are manufactured annually.

It is a cultural center with three major universities, Western Reserve, Case and John Carroll; Museum of Art; Museum of Natural History; the famous Severance Hall; and a $5,000,000 public library. There are many parks and summer resorts, all kind of recreation centers and a variety of sports topped by a major league baseball.

Garden Spot Downtown

Republicans may find their interest wandering from the candidates to the beautiful public buildings and residences or to the Cleveland Mall, the 17-acre downtown garden spot that cost $400,000 to develop.

And in the Mall is the Public Auditorium where the convention will be held. Built 15 years ago at a cost of $15,000,000, it seats 12,500 persons comfortably and has been called the nation's first convention plant.

Construction of the auditorium began in pre-war days but was halted when the United States declared war on Germany. Work was resumed at close of the war and the building was completed and opened in 1922.

Scene of Biggest Conventions
Late in 1924, the wings were added. The total cost for land, building and all equipment was more than $9,000,000, for which a bond issue was floated by the city.

Since 1924, it has been the scene of some of the country's largest conventions and expositions. Notable among these was the National Eucharistic Congress.

More than a score of big national conventions have been held there, including those of the National Education Association, Letter Carriers of America, American Medical Society and the Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

Chain Store Bill
Due for Vote Today
Provides Ban on Practices Alleged to Hurt Small Dealers.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The House today was expected to pass the Robinson-Patman chain store bill providing for elimination of trade practices which allegedly place the small independent dealer at the mercy of chain stores.

General debate on the measure was concluded last night, leaving the bill open for amendment. A vote was due before tonight.

It is planned to substitute the House bill for the measure which has already passed the Senate. The two measures will then be sent to conference.

PAINT FIRM CHARGES
PATENT INFRINGEMENT
Reilly Tar and Chemical Corp. Is Named in Federal Suit.

PATENT infringement was charged in a suit filed yesterday in Federal Court by the American Chemical Paint Co. against the Reilly Tar and Chemical Corp. of Indianapolis.

The suit asked for an injunction and accounting of profits.

The paint firm charged the Reilly corporation with using material for selectively controlling metal pickling baths which, the complaint said, constituted an infringement of a paint company patent.

ELLIOTT URGES VOTERS TO END NEW DEAL REIGN

G. O. P. Nominee Warns of
'Danger to American Ideals.'

Homer Elliott, Republican nominee for Twelfth District congressman, this afternoon said "The New Dealers' conception of government is reaction of the worst sort."

He addressed the Indiana Women's Republican Club meeting in the Columbia Club.

"If the country yields to the New Deal conception it would mark the day when government of the people and for the people had perished from the earth," Mr. Elliott said.

Liberties of People
"Retention of the New Deal in government," he said, "transcends every other political question. Talk all you please about extravagance and waste and high taxes. Public debts can be paid in the course of time. . . . But the liberties of the people, when once surrendered, can not be easily recaptured. When the government becomes the master instead of the servant of men, and power and the lust for power sit on the throne, only the blood of patriots can restore what is lost."

Mr. Elliott outlined what he termed were efforts of the New Deal to circumvent the Federal Constitution and how laws passed by the present Administration were declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

Would Change Court
"Mr. Roosevelt would change the personnel of the court if he could, but the judges will not die and he can not make them resign."

"The New Dealers boasted that the Supreme Court justices always read the election returns. They have since learned they misjudged the court. Of the 10 New Deal laws to come before the court, eight have been held in violation of the Constitution," Mr. Elliott declared.

"If we are to stop the destruction of American ideals and maintain a government which is the servant and not the master of the people, we must do so in the coming election. After that it will be too late," he said in closing his address.

THE WONDERFUL NEW
Purer, ALL-VEGETABLE
SHORTENING!

YOU BE THE SOLE JUDGE—
If this NEW shortening isn't the best you ever used—

Double your money back

ARE we just asking for trouble to make such an offer? NO! For you can actually SEE the difference between Spry and ordinary shortenings. Spry is whiter. Smoother. Creamier. It's ALL-vegetable. Contains not an atom of animal fat. Always uniform in quality.

That's why every can of Spry stays fresh and sweet, at room temperature. No need to keep in the refrigerator and then have to "thaw" it out before you can use it. Spry is always ready for quick, easy creaming.

Won't develop off-flavors under oven heat to spoil the flavor of your baking as some seemingly fresh shortenings do. Won't smoke at frying temperature. Keeps fresh and clear after repeated fryings. You can use it over and over.

Does wonders for your cooking
Wait till you cook with Spry! . . . Wait till you discover how easily it creams, how beautifully it blends with your other ingredients. Use it in any recipe in place of other shortenings and you'll marvel at the world of difference this new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening makes.

Never were cakes and pies, biscuits and pastries so magically light and tender before, so delicate in flavor. Never were fried foods so crisp and tasty, so greaseless. No wonder they're as easy to digest as if baked or boiled.

Try Spry in your favorite recipes. Try it today. No risk—read our amazing offer!
