

Last-Minute Arrangements Keep Departing Vacationists Occupied; Two Book Queen Mary Passage

Wardrobes, Outing Supplies, Pets Provide Pressing Problems for Those Headed for Lakes and Resorts.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN

Society Editor

EVERY hour of the day is being budgeted carefully by those preparing to start off on vacations. So many hours are being allotted for shopping to complete the wardrobe, which must be supplied with all the essentials needed for a summer of swimming, sailing and resting. Lists must be checked to make sure that sun-tan oil, dark glasses, and the children's favorite toys are ready to be packed.

In some instances family pets must be bundled off to the veterinarian or some obliging relative. Houses are sometimes sublet for the vacation season, and husbands who remain at home must be lectured on watching the diet.

Plan Trip Abroad

Beatrice Burgan

Mrs. Norman Metzger and her daughter Nan are attending to last-minute preparations today before their departure tomorrow for Charlevoix, Mich., with Mrs. Dudley Pfaff and her children, Huldah and Dudley Jr. They are to stay a month at Mrs. Albert Metzger's summer home. Mrs. Metzger with her daughter, Mrs. George A. Kuhn, Mr. Kuhn and George Jr. are sailing for a trip abroad this summer.

In August Mrs. Metzger and Nan are to go to Walloon Lake to vacation with Mrs. Metzger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hogan, who are to leave their Traders Point home, Rolling Hills Farm, in July. The Hogans have their granddaughter, Barbara Bligh, with them this summer while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lyman Bligh, Seymour, are abroad.

Mrs. Pfaff and her children are to go to Binghamton, N. Y., to spend the remainder of the summer with her mother, Mrs. A. J. Parsons.

Visit Michigan Lake

Mrs. Frank Hoke was at Burt Lake, Mich., last week-end opening up her summer home. Next week with her daughter Nancy and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Perry Lesh, and her sons, Perry Jr. and Fred, Mrs. Hoke is to go to the lake for the summer.

Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge Sr. is to leave Thursday for her summer home at Beverly Hills, Mass., to remain until October. Mrs. J. K. Lilly Jr. also has gone east until September.

Miss Margaret Pantzer is expected soon from New York to visit her mother, Mrs. Hugo Pantzer, who now is at home at 104 E. 46th-st. Mrs. Pantzer's home is near that of her son, Kurt Pantzer, 4325 N. Delaware-st.

Miss Pantzer also will visit her sister, Mrs. Skiles Test, Millersville-rd.

Sail June 20 for England

Mrs. James Feiler has come home after spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Marmon, at Lake Maxinkuckee.

Misses Helen and Esther Thornton are to leave the city June 10 for New York, where they are to sail on the Queen Mary for a tour of England.

Corps Club members and their guests had their annual outing at the "Tests" suburban home yesterday. Mrs. Test's daughter, Emma Jean Haerle, was hostess to her young friends who enjoyed swimming and other sports.

They cooked their supper in the outdoor oven.

Ward Hackleman, who was graduated last week from Park School, arranged the party.

CO-EDS PLEDGED TO HONORARY SOCIETY

Eight Butler University co-eds have been pledged to Chimes, junior women's honorary society, on the basis of scholarship and participation in student activities.

They are Misses Martha Norman, Marjory Zechle, Evelyn King, Caroline Rehm, Georgia Foster, Betty Weiler, Lillian Rees and Jean Knowlton.

Rule Barring Husband, Wife From U. S. Jobs Draws Fire

By United Press

CLEVELAND, June 9.—That word "repeal" is still a battlecry, and this time Republican women and three large groups of organized women are shouting it.

But this convention year, "repeal" means to eliminate the one remaining major discrimination against women in Federal law—that famous "Section 213" of the old economy law, which was written by a Democrat, Rep. John J. Cochran, Missouri, and signed by a Republican President, Herbert Hoover.

Under this law, hundreds of women all over the country have lost their jobs with the government for the sole reason that they were married to men with government jobs.

Women's Groups Seek Repeal

With the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the National Woman's Party and the National League of Women Voters here demanding its repeal, an important behind-the-scenes Republican woman has been assigned to write "the women's plank"—and she predicts that "repeal Section 213" will be the important definite pledge to women in the platform.

They figure that it will be a real blow to the Democrats, too. President Roosevelt says he wants it repealed. Yet a Democratic House which has the repeal bill on its calendar refuses to give it a vote, and no Democratic Senator has even introduced a repeal bill.

Meanwhile, Republican women are having a swell time at parties—tea parties, dinner parties, cocktail parties.

Entertains at Cocktail Party

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Kentucky, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, broke a precedent Sunday night. She gave a cocktail party for 55 of the leading Republican women who are her personal friends, just before a dinner party.

Mrs. Hert, gracious, dignified, handsome, wearing a white chiffon dress printed with large pale blue flowers, with a cluster of gardenias at the point of the V-neck, said as she sipped a final martini before joining her dinner guests:

"What have I learned in 16 years of political work? To love my fellow-man."

J. F. FEHRENBACH HONORED BY CLUB

John F. Fehrenbach, oldest living member of the Hoosier Athletic Club, was honored at a dinner last night given by the club's Booster organization.

Albert Herrmann, Booster president, was toastmaster. Robert Allison, arrangements committee chairman, was assisted by Thomas W. Kercheval, Ralph Badger, Paul C. Blackburn, Paul Egan, Paul M. Cook, Donald H. Cusick, Earl Dressbach and Hugh Flynn.

Program committee members were Fred Weber, chairman, and Harold Geisel, Harold J. Hampton, Frank E. Huse, Dr. Emil C. Kessel, Walter H. Lauritzen, Frank E. McKinney, Bernard McGinty, Joseph R. Morgan and Wilbur N. Noll. Mr. Fehrenbach was made an honorary member.

OVERCOMES FINE DEFENSE

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing the contract at four spades. Declarer played a small club from dummy on West's opening lead. East put on the king. How must South now play the hand?

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

BY W. E. MCKENNEY
American Bridge League Secretary.

WHEN brilliant defense is met by equally brilliant play by declarer, the odds of success are in favor of the latter, particularly when he has reached a game contract, for that very fact makes him having the greater strength.

However, even though a series of fine defensive plays go wrong, they still can give declarer some anxious moments before he jots down the score.

Today's hand, taken from a rubber bridge game, might be said to show where North, the defending player with the opening lead, or West, the declarer, never touched a wrong card in the play of the hand, and if West made his game, it was due to the fact that he had more stuff with which to fight.

North has a difficult choice of a lead. The opening of a diamond would, of course, be bad, and in both hearts and clubs undesirable leading situations exist. North reasoned that a trump lead could do no harm, so he opened the seven of spades.

Declarer won this trick and led another round of trump, picking

Divorcee Says Bachelor Best Marriage Bet

Readers Invited to Join Debate on Matrimony in Thirties.

Every one interested is invited to answer the question: What have you to add to the argument?

Dear Jane Jordan—Just a word to "Insurance Collector," whose letter is very interesting to me because I, too, am over 35 and divorced. We women do not consider you bachelors poor material at all—quite the contrary. You are most eligible. Here is the catch: You're all just like a bunch of turtles—good time pals but if you feel your self falling for some female you crawl into your shells for shelter. We like you fellows, but you can't be trusted. You're an unreliable lot. You know what you want and you lack the self-confidence it requires to achieve your matrimonial desires. After 35, you're love cowards.

And we women—often we have our children to rear, and it makes us reluctant to accept you because there is ever the feeling you may not care to be harassed with a family even though their support would not be a burden on you. When once a woman puts her fingers into an open fire and burns them, she is ever after very careful never to let it happen again.

Yet a woman is always better prepared to give more to a second marriage than she did to her first. The grief and heartbreak one suffers in an unfortunate first marriage is a sort of baptism. There is greater understanding, but how are we to prove all that to a group of wary bachelors who are splendid men, good workers in business, not afraid to face any one or do anything, but who dash into their shells when they feel themselves falling in love? Your answer would be most welcome. Thirty-Seven.

Answer—All our men readers are asked to respond to "Thirty-Seven's" letter. For those who did not read the insurance collector's letter, he asks if it is true that men past 35 are generally poor marrying material. He has read an article which states that unmarried men past 35 are backward physically, mentally or else they prefer company of their own sex. He also has heard that the trend is for women to marry younger men and fears that if this is true it would leave many a man of 35 or older a slim chance of getting a mate. Let's have some good letters from readers with ideas!

Dear Jane Jordan—I have written to you twice before for advice and each time I carefully followed it and got the better end of the bargain. I, for one, have faith in your column. Now I want to know what to do in a case like this:

There is a certain fellow working where I do, but not in my depart-

DOROTHY HASSLER FETED AT SHOWER

Mrs. Paul Field and Miss Mary Bechert entertained, recently at Mrs. Field's home with a surprise personal shower, honoring Miss Dorothy C. Hassler, whose marriage to Francis J. Bechert is to take place Sunday at the Capitol Avenue Methodist Church.

Guests were Mrs. F. W. Hassler, mother of the bride-to-be, and Mesdames Clyde Oliver, Elizabeth Rahke, Samuel Newhouse, Charles Bechert, Clarence Biedelman, and Misses Valeria Hopkins and Marie Bechert.

Junior Leaguers Meet Leaders at Gathering Today

New committee chairmen were to be introduced at the Junior League meeting today at Woodstock Club. Miss Eunice Disette, directing her first meeting as president, announced her chairmanship appointments as follows:

Miss Ann Torian, Braille; Mrs. Jeremiah Cadick, hospital; Mrs. Henderson Wheeler, provisional members' training course; Mrs. Fisk Landers, news sheet editor; Mrs. Arthur C. Shea, Trading Post, and Mrs. Wallace C. Tomy, publicity.

Other officers assuming duty included Mrs. John Collett, vice president; Miss Helen Sheerin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank Hoke, recording secretary; Miss Katharine M. Brown, treasurer, and Mrs. Booth Jameson, city editor.

Following the business meeting and luncheon, members were to take part in bridge, tennis and golf games.

ment. We have no mutual acquaintance. He is a rather backward sort, but he is just my type. He is the kind of fellow I have wanted to meet ever since I started having dates. How can I get a date with him without coming right out and asking for it?

Answer—People who work in the same organization need not stand on ceremony. Speak to him pleasantly. Make him welcome. Discuss the business, with him. Don't be afraid to show your cordiality or to throw yourself in his path whenever you conveniently can. If he doesn't take the hint, invite him to an informal party at your house. Be easy and natural and friendly with him. If he fails to respond to this encouragement, you're sunk. It's better to eat a few sour grapes and make yourself believe you did not want him anyway.

Food's KEEP THEIR SELF-RESPECT on ICE

Properly cooled and preserved in a current of moist moving air, your foods in a modern ice refrigerator maintain their identity. Food odors are not transmitted from one food to another because they are captured in that valuable slow flow of water over the making ice and hurried out through the drain. But only FOOD-RESISTANT FOOD-FRESHNESS-REMOVED.

Foods come out of your ICE refrigerator as they went in—delicious, garden-fresh, moist, succulent and natural in flavor. No artificial preservatives.

The True Reason for Refrigeration

is to keep foods in their natural state as nearly as possible; preventing bacteria growth, drying out of foods, or loss of food juices and flavors.

The perfect refrigerator keeps cold, moist air in circulation, lets foods breathe naturally without shrinkage, and purifies itself naturally as food odors are carried down the drain.

IT IS IMPORTANT that you know the real truth about the only natural, trouble-free refrigerator—ICE—and the new, modern, economical air-conditioned ice refrigerator.
