

Big Purchases Easy on Budget, Housewives Say

Opportunity to Preserve
Foodstuffs Proves Helpful.

The modern housewife is able to take advantage of week-end or mid-week sale prices by buying in larger quantities, knowing that her supplies will stay fresh when they are kept in an electric refrigerator, declare home economists.

Meats, the home economists point out, are an excellent source of high quality proteins, easily digested if not overcooked. Lean meats supply most of the minerals digested if not overcooked. Lean meats supply most of the minerals required in nutrition, while liver contains vitamins A, B and G and is rich in iron and copper, it is added.

In modern refrigerators ample storage space is provided for meats or other supplies bought in quantity in advance. A built-in thermometer provides constant, visible proof that foods kept in the refrigerator are being preserved, at all times, at a safe 40-50 degree temperature.

Because meat is wholesome and appetizing, it is found useful as the main dish of at least one meal a day in the average American family. The modern woman is able to free herself from the routine of daily marketing trips by purchasing her meats and other requirements for the week several days in advance. Marketing may often be done on Friday or Saturday when prices are generally lower, and economies in the food budget can be made without any loss in quality, since the modern refrigerator keeps these supplies fresh until they are used.

ALLSPICE FRUIT OF JAMAICA TREE

Many housewives who have used allspice in their cakes and puddings are under the impression that it is a mixture of several spices, but in reality it is the tiny fruit of a tree which grows in profusion on the island of Jamaica. Its aroma suggests a blend of spices—hence its name.

The trees bear abundant annual crops. Often as much as 150 pounds of allspice berries are gathered from a single tree. About one-third of the crop is imported by the United States and ultimately finds its way into delectable foods.

FLORENCE RATHER HONORED AT PARTY

Miss Florence Rather is to sail July 8 for a trip abroad. Miss Elizabeth Denzel entertained Friday night with a party in her honor.

Guests included Misses Louise Brockway, Kathryn Dietz, Mae Louise Roessner, Martha Luedman, Nellie White, Christina Forhan, Marjorie Reinhart, Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. Luther Stewart.

HINT IS GIVEN ON GAY DECORATING

A gay effect in a summer home may be obtained by painting flower pots filled with gay flowers about the molding. If the walls are a plain color, the varied colored flowers add a note of color.

Rooms may be redecorated under the terms of the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

Latest Fashions From Local Shops

PRESENTING the lady and the tiger! Both are in fine fettle for dress parade.

The lady is a pace ahead of fashion in a brand new ankle-length suit for cocktail and dinner hours. Built of the stuff of which men's summer suits are made, Palm Beach cloth in black and white, it is precision tailored with a neat zipper side-front closing.

A jacket ensemble like this is vital refreshment to a wardrobe on the wane. The absurd monkey jacket has a vestee of silk bengaline with 36 tiny pearl buttons decorating the front.

THE pill box hat, which will take roof breezes without a tussle, is fashioned of sparkling white waffle pique. A floating veil of white dotted net and black gros-grain ribbon bands distinguish it.

Some of the smartest women indorse ankle-length skirts for restaurant, roof and country club wear. Black and white is voted the most fashionable color combination.

The rule of the day is for extreme hats. Whether they are huge cartwheel straws with flower or vegetable trimmings, or tiny little turbans of pique, net, chiffon or straw, they are capricious signs of the times.

ONE-PIECE culotte frock is the answer to the active girl's most urgent wardrobe need—and here is a design that puts it in reach of all. Make it of linen, suna-kool, swageloch, printed silk or cotton flannel. Patterns are sized 12 to 30 (36 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch fabric.

Good to Eat

LEFT-OVER DAY

HAVING given you recipes using left-over egg whites today let's talk about those pesky left-over yolks. I have during my years of cooking collected 36 recipes using left-over egg yolks. Needless to say these are uncooked yolks, for I have yet to see how you can hard-boil a left-over egg yolk! Always pour a little cold water over a left-over yolk to keep it from forming a crust.

CUSTARD SAUCE FOR PUDDING

1 cup milk
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup sugar
Few grains salt.

Heat the milk in a double boiler. When hot, add the two beaten yolks with the sugar and salt.

Stir constantly until thick, then remove at once or it will curdle. If it does curdle, try beating it with an eggbeater.

I like to beat a little cornstarch with the egg. It makes the custard a little thicker and not so likely to curdle. You can use any flavoring. Almond is a little unusual but use only a few drops. Almond custard poured over a slice of stale sponge cake topped with a little whipped cream makes a delicious dessert.

MAYONNAISE DRESSING

2 egg yolks
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
Small pinch of salt
Few grains cayenne pepper

Place two egg yolks, mustard, salt and cayenne in a bowl. Beat for a few minutes until well mixed, and then add olive oil, a few drops at a time, until you have the right consistency.

If it becomes too thick, add a few drops of vinegar. Keep the mayonnaise in a cool place, an ice box that is too cold will make the dressing curdle. If this happens, beat well with an egg beater.

CHOCOLATE ICING

2 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
1 square bitter chocolate.
1 cup powdered sugar
Pinch of salt.

Cream the butter, salt and egg yolk together. Add the melted chocolate.

Stir in the powdered sugar and beat all together.

CHOCOLATE FROSTING

1 1/2 squares chocolate
1-3 cup of cream
Pinch of salt
1 egg yolk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon melted butter
Confectioner's sugar.

Melt the chocolate over hot water. Scold the cream and add, a little at a time, to the chocolate. Then add the butter, beaten yolk, salt and vanilla.

Stir in the sugar until right consistency.

ELEANOR SCUDDER GUEST AT SHOWER

Miss Marjorie Scudder entertained recently with a party in honor of her sister, Miss Eleanor Scudder, who is to be married to Jack A. Riggs on June 20.

Guests included Mesdames Frank L. Riggs, J. S. Longmire, Roy Moss and Misses Virginia Royer, Marjorie Miner, Ruth Warriner, Evelyn Schneider, Maryanne Endley, Jenetta Von Staden, Marjorie Wilkey, Helen Ruth, Dorothea Thompson, Martha Scott, Virginia Brady, Martha Dilley, Zelma and Thelma Pugh, Caroline and Pauline Raine.

Couple, Married Here, Will Make Cleveland Home

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Rohm are to make their home in Cleveland, July 1, following their wedding trip.

They were married in the Irvington Methodist Church Saturday at a candle-light service, with the Rev. Guy O. Carpenter officiating.

Mrs. Rohm was Miss Delma Vestal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Vestal. Mr. Rohm is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rohm.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Dorothea Hogle and Miss Rebecca Shields, organists, played bridal music. Mrs. John Goodnight sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Because."

Wore Gown of Satin

The bride, who entered with her father, wore a gown of ice blue satin, with a court train and a Queen Anne collar. She wore a chain of Shasta daisies, and her veil was of ice blue tulle. She carried a shower of Shasta daisies, delphiniums and Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. George A. McCoy, the bride's sister and matron of honor, wore a wisteria net over taffeta, and a matching halo hat. She carried pink and blue painted daisies.

Mrs. Leland Clapp and Miss Rachel Timmons, bridesmaids, wore gowns of dusty-pink net over taffeta, with matching hats, and carried arm bouquets of blue daisies. John T. Rohm, Royal Oak, Mich., was his brother's best man. Ushers were George A. McCoy, Roland Barnes, Henry Wheeler and Leland Clapp.

The bride's mother wore Dubonnet lace and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Rohm, the bridegroom's mother, wore pink lace with a shoulder corsage of delphinium and feverfew.

Revolving Shades

A kitchen fork will revolve window shades springs if the flat end of the roller is inserted between the lines.

GIVES TIPS ON BIDDING

Today's Contract Problem

Your partner has opened the bidding with one heart. You hold the following hand. What should be your correct response, and what is the principle governing your choice of a bid?

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

BY W. E. MCKENNEY
American Bridge League Secretary

THIS article is based upon less known, but fundamental, bidding situations discussed by Charles H. Goren of Philadelphia in his new book, "Winning Bridge Made Easy."

The questions are so vital and the manner of their presentation is so clear, that I have decided to give you the benefit of Goren's advice.

The proper understanding of what a fit and misfit are is one of the distinguishing features of a good bridge player. This consideration is quite as important as the matter of honor tricks.

Two hands fit well when there is communication between them, so that a player may get back and forth between them.

Therefore, when you have a void of your partner's suit, you have the worst possible misfit, because you may never enter his hand.

If you have a singleton of his suit it is also a misfit, but not as bad as the void.

In other words, the more strength you have in your partner's suit, the better is the chance that the hands will fit.

There are, of course, degrees of fit. Secondary trump support, such as Q-x or x-x-x, represents a good fit. More than adequate trump support, for instance, A-x-x or K-10-x-x, represents a fine fit.

In determining whether to make encouraging rebids, you should be influenced largely by whether you have a fit with your partner. Generally speaking, a good fit is worth anywhere from one-half to one full honor trick more than the hand actually counts.

For example, you hold the following hand:

If your partner opens the bidding with a spade, you have what is known as a misfit. In other words, if you have a spade, the strength in spades, his hand will not be very valuable to you. It may be that he subsequently will name another suit, in which case a good fit will be found. But at present you must proceed cautiously. You therefore, respond with only two diamonds.

If, however, your partner opens the bidding with one heart, or one club, you have a fine fit, more than adequate trump support, and you may jump the bid because you have slam possibilities.

You do not have 3 1/2 honor tricks, but the fine fit with your partner is worth at least one-half honor trick, and you are justified in making an immediate jump.

Vacation Time No Excuse for Late Sleeping

Regular Hours Seen as Advantage to Child
—and Mother.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The last examination paper has been filed away to collect dust; the big bell has given itself over to the starlings; black boards with washed-faces are glooming alone in the twilight of shade-drawn rooms.

Schools out, and so are the youngsters, as any one with half an ear drum can tell. So can mother, and she doesn't need her ear drums, either.

Ollie's room looks like Coney Island on Sunday night. Stacy slept till 10 and ate a banana for his breakfast. Peg went off with Dot Brown and didn't put a rag to the dishes. Now she isn't home for lunch.

Too Many Breakfasts

Just the same number of children she had yesterday, has Mrs. Smith, but with four breakfasts at all different hours, the house disrupted as fast as she can clear it, and quarrels to smooth over, she feels as though a circus has slid down through the roof and taken possession of the place.

Appalled, she looks ahead at the summer months. "If it is vacation I suppose I'll have to make the most of it."

Defeated before she starts, poor lady. She comforts herself by exclaiming her offspring fondly. "The poor little souls have been shut in so long, they need more freedom and less discipline. But I guess I can stand it."

Best for Family

If she but realized it, in a few short days these three will become completely disgruntled about having their way with no guiding hand on the reins. And she might make it more interesting for them and easier for herself if she gave this matter of freedom really serious thought.

First of all, the greatest tonic for food tempers is a regular "get-up" hour. When school's out, it is imperative. When school's out, it is imperative.

The time may be moved back half an hour, as she likes, from seven-thirty to eight, for instance; but little souls have been shut in so long, they need more freedom and less discipline. But I guess I can stand it.

These permit the homemaker to place a meal in the oven at any time, leave it there and go blithely on her way, knowing that at a given time the heat will be turned on automatically. Moreover, the gas shuts off, at a predetermined time, when the meal has been cooked.

The new models in kitchen gas ranges also incorporate many design features which strike new notes of modernity and usefulness. They are smart, compact and practical in arrangement, offering the utmost in utility and convenience and providing labor and time-saving features which have attracted thousands of buyers in recent months.

Lunch on Time

Lunch time should be lunch time, promptly on the dot. And needless to say, supper, too, in this matter of habit discipline.

Budgeting time is one lesson all children should learn. An hour should be measured like a dollar. It will buy only so much and must be treated with respect. Work time, play time, visiting time, all have limits.

Such a course prevents dawdling and shiftness, and incidentally makes life easier for the mother. She keeps control over the day's program instead of losing it.

It doesn't do to say meekly, "I can't get them up." If children go to sleep when they should be up, there is no excuse in the world for lying abed six hours after the birds are up.

MISS MARY BRAY GUEST AT SHOWER

Miss Mary Bray, whose marriage to Alfred Kermuelin is to take place Wednesday morning at St. Anthony's Church, was honor guest at a miscellaneous shower given recently by her two attendants, Misses Ruth Scanlon and Catherine Bray, at Miss Scanlon's home, 144 N. Mount-st.

Guests included the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Bray, and Mesdames Arthur Evers, Francis Plank, Ralph Thresher, Samuel Schuch, Howard Baurley, Fred Naurel, Donald Murphy, Jack Arszman, Martin Lynch, John Conway, Raymond Grady, Earl Barnett, Richard French, Louis Kirsch, Frances Moran and Miss Alice Scanlon, Dorothy Scanlon, Mildred Schuch and Angelus Lynch.

RECEPTION IS HELD FOR MIDGET TRIO

A reception was held at the Lincoln from 3 to 4 yesterday for the Del Rios, troupe of midgets, which is to perform for the benefit of the Frances Moras Association of Indiana, Order of the Eastern Star, this week at the Wm. H. Block Co.

Proceeds from the performances to be given daily every 15 minutes from 11 to 1, and from 2 to 4, are to be used for the entertainment of delegates to the triennial session of the general grand chapter of the organization in September, 1937.

Mrs. Katherine Richardson, association president, was among the hostesses. Mrs. Nellie M. Young was general arrangements chairman.

Attending the reception were all worthy matrons of the 11 districts, who are to act as hostesses at blocks. Others were Mrs. Mary Frances Price, Vincennes, Indiana, worthy grand matron; Mrs. Daisy M. Crist, Crawfordsville, grand secretary; Mrs. L. Malcomb, grand treasurer; Mrs. Martha Zoercher, president of worthy matrons of the 11th district; Mrs. Ethel Roberts, Millersville, matrons and patrons association president.

ICE BOX VALUABLE FOR CRISP FOODS

To make salad greens crisp and fresh, wash carefully in ice water, then wrap in a clean, damp cloth and leave in the coldest part of the ice box for half an hour. To make celery crisp, wash, separate the stalks, wash, then leave in a pan of ice water for 45 minutes.

Present-Day Gas Ranges Designed to Keep Heat In

Cool cooks will be the order of the day this summer in thousands of American homes, thanks to the ingenuity of technical experts. Their talents have brought forth modern gas ranges which are so thoroughly insulated that the heat is kept in the oven, instead of being radiated through the kitchen. This advantage not only makes the kitchen cool, but it actually speeds the cooking process. It is also more economical.

This is one of the many recent improvements which make the 1936 model gas range a revolutionary product to the development of which modern science has devoted years of research and experiment. Although gas ranges have contained such features as oven-heat regulators and thermostatic control for many years, many of the more modern ranges are even equipped with time control devices.

These permit the homemaker to place a meal in the oven at any time, leave it there and go blithely on her way, knowing that at a given time the heat will be turned on automatically. Moreover, the gas shuts off, at a predetermined time, when the meal has been cooked.

The new models in kitchen gas ranges also incorporate many design features which strike new notes of modernity and usefulness. They are smart, compact and practical in arrangement, offering the utmost in utility and convenience and providing labor and time-saving features which have attracted thousands of buyers in recent months.

The modernization of the kitchen and particularly of the kitchen gas range has been a conspicuous feature of home modernization, in the wake of which have come many other home improvements.

Reports From Vacationists Lure Those Still at Home; Several Now Arranging for Departure

Walloon, Maxinkuckee Lakes to Get Share of Local Cottagers; Austin Browns to Leave for Yellowstone Tour.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN
Society Editor

THE summer trek to lakes has started, and those still at home probably will become overpowered soon by the enthusiastic reports mailed back by the early vacationists.

"The fish are biting better than they have for years; the water is clearer and the general scene more restful than we had remembered," the letter writers will be saying. And lured by such descriptions, families still settled here will begin making arrangements for early departures.

Miss Maude Balke returned Wednesday from Smith College to join her sister, Miss Virginia Balke, vacationing during the recess of Gulf Park School and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Balke. A little family discussion of Walloon Lake, Mich., soon put every one in the mood to be off. The Balkes intend to leave here July 1.

Miss Jean Van Riper came home from Wellesley College last week to find her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey Van Riper, making arrangements to go to Walloon June 22.

Expect Visitors

The Van Ripers expect to have many visitors during the season. Their son, Guernsey Jr., is to go to the lake for his vacation, and another son, Edward, and his wife have included a trip to the lake in their summer program.

Mr. and Mrs. William Munk have
