

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR BACK MERIT SYSTEM

McKinney, Greenlee and Townsend Laud Efforts of Women Voters.

The Indiana League of Women Voters today made public statements received from the three announced candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

E. Kirk McKinney, Indianapolis real estate man, said: "I believe that the position of patronage secretary should be abolished and that a secretary should devote his full time to the service of the public and its people. I believe that personnel should be examined and classified and placed only in those positions for which their training and experience qualifies them. I believe that this can best be done through a personnel department organized, trained and equipped for that purpose."

Townsend Gives Views

Lieut. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend said: "The League of Women Voters are to be congratulated and encouraged in their noble effort in attracting people's attention to better personnel in government service."

"No home is better than those who constitute it. No ruler or law is useful unless the personnel that administers it is honest, sincere and aggressive."

"Any problem of government is half solved, or more, when the solution is placed in the hands of competent, honest and sincere administrators. One of the first concerns of any political party should be to place on their tickets men and women of high ability and sincere purpose. So, also, should be the first concern of those elected to office to put in their departments of government, from assistant to janitors, those whose first concern is for the welfare of the government and of the people. That is not only good government, but it is good politics as well."

Greenlee Indorses Plan

"Therefore, I want to congratulate your organization again for helping to popularize in a concrete manner this most essential element of public service."

Pleas E. Greenlee said: "I believe that government should be operated in a business-like manner, and that any person who holds a position and is paid with the taxpayers money should be qualified and efficient. I know that the object and purpose of the League of Women Voters is to bring about a system of dependable and efficient administration of governmental affairs."

"I am heartily in favor of your splendid program and if nominated and elected Governor of Indiana I will do all in my power to see that the ideals of government sponsored by your organization are carried out in Indiana."

DEMOCRATS ARRANGE RALLY AT STADIUM

The address is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m. (Indianapolis time), and is to be broadcast at the ball park. A baseball game between the Indianapolis Indians and the Louisville Colonels is to follow the rally.

Gov. McNutt is expected to speak briefly to state Democrats before the President's address from Philadelphia, convention city.

GOV. McNUTT LAUDS WELFARE MEASURES

Foundation Laid for Long Time Security He Says on Radio.

Indiana, through enactment of its public welfare and employment stabilization laws, has laid the foundation for long-time security for the elderly, the crippled and needy, Gov. McNutt said last night in his weekly radio address.

"Through enactment of the security legislation, we are attempting to lay a sound foundation on which we can build a structure to give a greater measure of safety and happiness to the individual entitled to assistance than we have ever known in this state," the Governor said.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, ambitious to become a designer, comes to New York and—due to a stroke of fate—lives by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. Madame proves temperamental and difficult to work for.

DEREK HARRISON, young artist, is interested in Gail. She also frequently sees DICK SEARLES, whose sister, ROSEMARY, was her roommate at school.

Meanwhile, in Arizona, Gail's uncle, MARK CHAPMAN, returns home after years of wandering, and finds his old home in the hands of Mrs. Travers. Mark suspects the deal is crooked and gets in touch with GILES HARDING, New York lawyer. Harding tries to locate Gail.

Derek asks Gail to marry him and she agrees. Later a misunderstanding comes between them and LUCILLE TRAVERS, who wants Derek for herself, tells him that Gail is to marry Dick Searles.

Giles Harding comes to see Gail and tells her about the Travers company's plot to buy her land, really worth a fortune. Gail's pleasure in learning that she is rich is dimmed by the fact that no word has come from Derek.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

MARK CHAPMAN glanced around the ranch house. "Well, he said, 'this doesn't look so bad, but I guess we'd better get some work to come in and clean things up a little before our company arrives.'"

"I say it's just fine," Jed Hosker stopped to light his pipe. "Reckon the Travers haven't got over their surprise yet. But I guess I'd get even with them—though I never thought things would turn out this way. Do you think the young lady will give me a job here? I reckon I'm too old now to be going to live some new place."

"Oh, I'm sure she will," Mark took a letter from his pocket. "She says she feels I've just as much right to the Rancho Angelo as she has, and that I'm to consider it my home as long as I want to stay. That goes for you, too, for with this lame knee I'd get coming down the canyon, I can't get around as good as I used to."

"That's fine," Jed Hosker went on with his sweeping. "Though it's too bad about your knee. Maybe if the ore's as rich as we figure, you'll be able to go to one of them special doctors and get it fixed up good as new."

"There's the postman and, by gosh, he's putting something in the box. See what it is!" exclaimed Mark.

"Just the paper, I guess," Jed said, tossing the newspaper on the table. "It doesn't get any bigger, I notice."

"RECKON it's big enough to hold all the news that comes down this valley," Mark tore off the wrapper. "By gosh," he exclaimed as he looked at the headlines, "here's enough news to keep every one talking for a spell. The Travers company has gone smash!"

"Quickly Mark read the story of the spectacular finish of the mining company. 'Sensations they took on the strength of one they knew was in the Rancho Angelo and when they couldn't deliver, some rumor started in New York. I guess Cal Travers is a down-and-outer again. Every office is closed up—my, but that will mean a lot of fellows will lose their jobs.'"

"Well, it's hard on decent folks, but, for myself, I don't mind saying I'm glad Cal's got some of what's coming to him. He made that big fortune by a mighty lot of crooked deals. Maybe he'll know now some of the bitter taste of the medicine he's handed out to other folks."

"They say a new syndicate may be formed to take over the assets. Well, if they get the right kind of men maybe the little fellows who've put in their best years working for the Travers interests will manage to hold on to their jobs. I hope so."

LUCILLE TRAVERS shook the angry tears from her eyes as she stamped about the luxurious living room of her home. "Don't speak to me!" she cried. "If you hadn't poured your money like water into Madame Lizette's shop you might have been able to do something now! Why were you such a fool?"

"But, Lucille!" Mrs. Travers dabbed at her tired face, devoid for the moment of any rouge or powder and revealing all the devastating lines of age. "No one dreamed such a thing could happen. Please don't talk so crossly to me. I can't stand it. She dropped in a crumpled heap on a magnificent couch. "I'll talk to you any way I like—and more than that, I'll kill myself before I'll go out to Arizona with you and Cal. He'll never, never make a comeback. Never now! It's too late!"

"That's not a nice way to talk about your father, Lucille."

"Well, it's the truth. Who cares about 'nice ways' nowadays? How can he come back when he hasn't a penny? Be sensible. Use your brains if you have any—but, of course, you haven't. Anyway I'm not taking orders from either of you and I'm not going back to Arizona."

"But we can't leave you here alone, unless—Mrs. Travers sat up suddenly—"you're going to marry that artist fellow. Is that it, Lucille? Of course that makes a difference. Still, if you love him like I loved you—"

"Oh, forget it! Much you know about love," Lucille laughed bitterly. "You don't need to worry about me. I'll have Trotter pack my things. Cal's creditors needn't think they can take them!" And she bounced away to her own rooms.

MRS. TRAVERS patted her eyes, though no tears came from them now. After all they'd done for Lucille, how could she talk to her own mother like that? Of course, Lucille was very stylish, and maybe her parents weren't just what she'd heard, but they were her parents. Surely she should have some respect for them. But then, children nowadays were ashamed of their parents, treated them something awful. Lucille had been a cute little kid when they were in Arizona, before Cal made his big strike.

Mrs. Travers sighed. What if Cal hadn't treated her just the way he should during these years he'd been so rich? He needed her now, and she was ready to go with him, to help him get a start again. He'd looked at her that morning in a way that had made her think of the day so many years ago when he had asked her to marry him. Again her thoughts veered to Lucille. The girl didn't act as though she belonged to them at all. She had no sympathy for her father, no kind word for her mother. Mrs. Travers drew in her lips as she tried to keep them from trembling. She had made mistakes and she knew it now. Money was not everything in life. Madame Lizette had certainly demanded it. But then, she wouldn't think about it any more. Thinking could not bring it back to her.

YOU mean," Natalie exclaimed, "that I'm invited to go with you to 'Heart's Delight' for the week-end?"

Gail nodded. "Yes, I came to meet you so you'd be sure to come straight home. Rosemary is calling for us tomorrow about 10 o'clock." "And we'll drive out with her in her Rolls-Royce?" Natalie's voice quivered with excitement.

"Yes, she thought it would be nicer than going out by train." "Nice! Oh, Gail, this is overwhelming. I can hardly realize that I'm stepping into society!" "But the Searles are very plain people, Natalie. I hope you won't be disappointed. Don't think you're going to eat off gold plates or have peacocks' tongues for dinner! You'll like Mr. and Mrs. Searles, though, for they're so genuine."

"But I can't understand why they should be asking me to spend the week-end with them."

"I guess you made a good impression on Rosemary," teased Gail. "And they appreciate the fact that you've been so sweet to me. Let's hurry now, for I've got to fix my bathing suit. I broke the buckle, but I found quite a good-looking one that I can use."

"I'm so thrilled! Sweltering in the office I almost hated the thought of tomorrow and sitting around in my room, but now—if I weren't walking down the avenue I'd dance a jig!"

It was just striking 10 when the Searles' limousine drew to the curb before the clubhouse next morning and Rosemary entered the building. "Tell Miss Everett I'm coming right up to see her," she told the clerk.

As she stepped out of the elevator Natalie was just entering Gail's room. "Oh, how do you do," she called to Rosemary. "It's wonderful of you to ask me to come with Gail. We're all ready."

"I'm awfully glad you could come. Oh, this is your room, Gail?" exclaimed Rosemary as they entered.

GOOD NEWS FOR WEAK, RUNDOWN, NERVOUS, SKINNY FOLKS.

WITHOUT COST—MAKE THIS AMAZING IODINE TEST!

Within 1 Week, SEA PLANT IODINE in Seedol Kelpamalt Must Give You Tireless Energy, Strong Nerves, Pounds of "Stay-There" Flesh or the Trial is FREE—It Costs You Nothing!

Seedol Kelpamalt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea, gets right down and corrects one of the real underlying causes of weakness, skininess and nervous run-down conditions—IODINE STARVED GLANDS. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. The result is, you stay weak and nervous, tired out and skinny.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls the body weight and strength building—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time. NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—out to be combined with chemical iodine which never proves toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested foods into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

To get this vital mineral in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Seedol Kelpamalt—now recognized as the world's richest source of this precious substance. It contains 1500 times more iodine than oysters, once considered the best source. 6 tablets also contain more NATURAL IODINE than 400 lbs. of spinach or 1367 lbs. of lettuce.

Make this test: Seedol Kelpamalt. First weigh yourself and see how long you can work or how far you can walk without tiring. Then take 3 Seedol Kelpamalt tablets with each meal for 1 week and again weigh yourself and notice how much longer you can work without tiring, how much farther you can walk, notice how much better you feel, sleep and eat. Watch slithering extra lbs. appear in place of skinny hollows. And if you don't gain 12 lbs. the very first week the iodine is free. Your own doctor will approve this way. Seedol Kelpamalt costs but little to use. Sold at all Hook's Dependable drug stores.

Comparison of Minerals in Kelpamalt and Vegetables
