

WOMEN VOTERS OPEN PROBE OF LAW OPERATION

Registration Clerk Choices Result in Study by League Committee.

The Indianapolis League of Women Voters government committee today initiated an investigation of the operation of the voters' registration law in Marion County.

The action followed on the heels of a demand by Frederick Shortemeier, Marion County Republican chairman, that G. O. P. registration clerks be appointed at once.

Two committee members have interviewed County Clerk Glenn Ralston on all aspects of the law, Mrs. Virginia Moorhead Mannon, state secretary, said.

"The Indiana league is responsible for this act, and if the committee finds it needs amendments, we will propose them," Mrs. Mannon added.

Transfers to Be Studied
This committee study is part of the league's orientation work in bringing new members up to date on legislation for which the organization is responsible. The study is to be made under direction of Mrs. Lester Smith, committee chairman.

"Attention is to be focused upon the administration of the law over the period since its passage by the 1933 General Assembly. Members are to study the number of transfers made annually in Marion County, how transfer blanks are issued, the provisions made for special registration places; method of appointing deputy registration officers and the number of such officers needed for the county."

Mrs. Smith pointed out that the intent of the law is to protect the average voter.

Committee Members Named

Committee members are Mrs. John W. Hillman, Mrs. J. Douglas Perry, Mrs. Louis Belden, Mrs. W. J. La Rue Byron, Miss Margaret Denny, Mrs. Louise Dixon, Mrs. L. M. Dunning, Mrs. Thomas A. Elder, Mrs. Bert C. Ellis, Mrs. G. A. Gates, Mrs. Walter Greenough, Mrs. A. L. Lowdermilk, Mrs. Frederick Malson, Mrs. C. R. Myers, Mrs. Howard Nyhart and Mrs. Frank Ramsey.

Mrs. Ernest Rupel, Mrs. Horace Tomlin, Mrs. William Sneathen, Mrs. Tom Sheerin, Mrs. William Sneathen, Mrs. Charles Welliver, Miss Ruth Hodges and Mrs. J. R. Lynn.

In making his demands, Mr. Shortemeier indicated legal action might be taken to force Mr. Ralston to make Republican appointments. Mr. Ralston said no registration drive is under way now, but would be opened in September. Answering Mr. Shortemeier's charge that 45 deputy clerks, all Democrats, were authorized to register voters, Mr. Ralston said that, as he interpreted the law, he was not required to appoint 45 additional deputy clerks from the Republican ranks.

dress, saying he did not care to discuss national issues.

After paying tribute to the Roosevelt Administration as the agency that restored prosperity, Gov. McNutt launched into a description of the forces supporting the Republican presidential nominee.

"The opposition, Socialists, Communists, Fascists, reactionary Republicans and the last infirmity of political minds, the Liberty League, taken together an unholy alliance of negative virtues," he said.

"The country might be willing to accept the picture of Mr. Landon as an 'honest, plain, homespun character of negative virtues' were it not for those behind him, the Du Pont Liberty League and Hearst, the Governor said.

"Neither the Republican National Committee nor the individuals who are doing Gov. Landon's talking are in ignorance of the implications of the Hearst support," Gov. McNutt declared. "Who can doubt that in the ledger of the most exacting purveyor of publicity in the nation's history each item of Hearst's support was entered up as debits against the Republican candidate for which the bill would be rendered if the Governor ever attained the position in which he could discharge the obligations."

'Demands Subservience'
"Never yet has Mr. Hearst supported a candidate without demanding subservience when that candidate was elected to office."

Gov. McNutt said he did not believe there was the slightest chance for Mr. Landon to win the presidency in November, "but I am sorry to see any candidate for that exalted office smirched and blighted by association or affiliation with the individual whom Woodrow Wilson characterized as the worst influence in our history since Benedict Arnold."

After describing Mr. Hearst's attacks on Presidents Cleveland and McKinley and his part in bringing the United States into the Spanish-American War, Gov. McNutt mentioned Mr. Hearst's business interests. They "are twisted up in a mass of corporations, holding companies and the other expedients of great business which give vast opportunities for income tax exemptions, he charged."

'Very Considerate,' Charge
"The Income Tax Division during the Republican Administrations of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover were very considerate of Mr. Hearst's returns," Mr. McNutt charged.

"If Mr. Hearst runs true to form and should realize his hopes in substituting Al Landon for Franklin Roosevelt in the White House, the Republican President would have to choose between doing what Mr. Hearst said in the matter of taxes, or find himself elevated to the honorable company of those who have been described by Mr. Hearst as betrayers of the people, recreant public servants, imbeciles, or worse."

"The issues of this campaign," the Governor concluded, "are not confined to the merits or demerits of the New Deal. One of the principal issues, and what might be the paramount issue, is William Randolph Hearst."

CHASE FOLLOWS AUTO ACCIDENT

Driver Slated on Charges of Assault and Battery After Collision.

An automobile collision which ended in a chase and an alleged attack was reported to police today.

George Jennings, 22, of R. R. 13, Box 338, told police his car was in a collision with an automobile driven by Alvin F. Duncan, 40, of 823 Westbrook-av, at Washington-st. and the Belt Railroad today.

Jennings said Duncan failed to stop after the crash. Following Duncan's car, Jennings said he finally forced it to the curb in the 1900 block on W. Washington-st.

Jennings claimed that Duncan struck him with a monkey wrench. Police stated Duncan on charges of assault and battery and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Milk Board Sets Hearings
The State Milk Board today set July 27 as the date for a hearing on a proposed Port Wayne milk price increase and July 30 for a hearing on existing prices in Evansville.

Flow of Electricity Scheduled to Begin Monday.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 22.—Power from TVA's $30,000,000 Norris Dam will begin to flow Monday and "if everything goes all right" will continue to flow into a far-flung network of transmission lines in east Tennessee.

Last spring the dam's giant flood gates impounded a lake with a shoreline nearly as long as Lake Michigan to control floods on the Tennessee River. A month ago, as drought caused rivers to recede over the South, Norris Dam supplied the reserve water to maintain navigation of the Tennessee River.

Announcing the first power distribution, engineers said a 24-hour test would be made, carrying the 220-mile line to Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals.

Then "if everything goes all right," Ross White, TVA general construction superintendent, said, "We'll just keep on going."

DISK OF CLOCK GIVES CLEW IN CO-ED MURDER

Hotel Watchman Late on Rounds, Record Shows, Despite Denial.

By United Press
ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 22.—The paper recording disk of a watchman's time clock offered the greatest hope authorities had today of finding the slayer of Helen Clevenger, 19-year-old New York University student.

Miss Clevenger was criminally attacked, shot and beaten to death in her room in the Battery Park Hotel at approximately 1 a. m. last Thursday. Daniel Gaddy, 28-year-old hotel night watchman, violated hotel rules by failing to punch his time clock near Miss Clevenger's room at that hour, the clock's recording disk showed. He was late when he passed the post at 2 a. m.

After five days in which six persons have at various times been arrested as suspects or as material witnesses, Gaddy's apparent deviation from his routine took place as one of the most important mysteries of a host of mysteries.

Gaddy insisted to Sheriff Laurence Brown that he made his rounds at 1 a. m. and 2 a. m. Thursday "as usual" but his clock, which records the exact minute at which each post on his rounds is "punched," testified that he did not.

Sheriff Brown said Gaddy was not suspected of committing the crime, but that he expected to obtain vital information from him.

Pass Key Is Clew
Police, it was indicated, hope to obtain from Gaddy additional information about a pass key found in the door of Miss Clevenger's room when her uncle, Prof. W. L. Clevenger of North Carolina State College, went to awaken her Thursday morning.

The key, Brown said, was used by the murderer. The key and other evidence led police to believe the slaying was committed by someone familiar with hotel routine.

The new line of inquiry turned the investigation away from Mark Wollner, concert and radio violinist, held for three days. Inquiry into a secret rendezvous in Paris on or about July 1, 1930, a few months before he was dethroned, Alfonso sat down at a table with his former minister of foreign affairs, Santiago Alba.

The King was in trouble. Republicans and other factions of the left were becoming increasingly clamorous. Unless something was done to satisfy them, it was plain to see, almost anything might happen.

Offered Premiership
What was said at that table, I was reliably informed a short time later, in effect was this:

"Senor Alba," the harried monarch began, "things at Madrid are going from bad to worse. You are known throughout Spain as a great liberal. The Republicans and other radical elements believe in you. I need your help."

"I offer you the premiership. Will you accept my offer?"

"On four conditions," said Alba bluntly.

"First, you must permit me to name a coalition government which will include all the parties, including Republicans and Socialists."

"Second, there will have to be a general election in which all the people of Spain will be free to vote precisely as they please."

"Third, the new parliament must revise the constitution to remodel the government after those of democratic France and Britain."

President Without Power
"And, fourth, your majesty must permit yourself to be named president for life, but president without power. In addition, you must give public guarantees that you will never again attempt to act unconstitutionally."

Alfonso considered the pill too bitter to swallow. Had he done differently, he might not now be in exile. On April 14, 1931, less than 10 months later, he fled Madrid, probably never to return.

The trouble with Alfonso was that he simply could not quit unless it was a case of force majeure.

Though the world regarded him as a playboy, he was one of the ablest statesmen in the country. Since he fled the country there have been half a dozen revolutions. And the end is not yet. But regardless of what happens at Madrid, few believe he will ever remount the throne.

Alfonso Refused to Become Spain's First President, Claim

His Acceptance Might Have Changed History, Simms Says.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
Scripture-Howard Foreign Editor
WASHINGTON, July 22.—Few are aware that King Alfonso had a chance to be the first president of the Spanish Republic and turned it down.

Had he accepted, it is barely possible that he might have brought about a profound change in that sorely beset nation's history.

At a secret rendezvous in Paris on or about July 1, 1930, a few months before he was dethroned, Alfonso sat down at a table with his former minister of foreign affairs, Santiago Alba.

municipal are mingled, is incalculable. Official estimates are that 500 men were killed and 3000 wounded in one fight alone—at Barcelona, where the rebels were defeated.

A dispatch intercepted from Gen. Quipio De Liano's rebel headquarters at Seville told of a series of small fights in that area, each with its toll of dead and injured. There have been many scores, if not hundreds, of such fights. In one, in the suburbs of Seville, 30 Workers' Militiamen and an unspecified number of rebel regulars from Morocco were killed, the dispatch said, in a fight in the woods.

The rebels' situation in the south, as contrasted to the north, seemed increasingly serious. It seemed that the death of Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, leader of the 1933 monarchist revolt, in an airplane crash on his way from Portugal to Seville to take supreme charge of the rebel cause, disheartened officers and men.

Red Flag Hoisted as Government Supporters Take Charge.

By United Press
MADRID, July 22.—The Left Wing, supporting the government, was in control of Madrid today and the Red flag flew from the famous palace of the Duke of Medinaceli, one of the richest landowners of Spain.

Popular Front committees, under the direction of the Socialist, Communist and syndicalist parties, were formed throughout the city, controlled by a Popular Front (government faction) committee.

The city was divided into districts under control of the militia. The principal committees were installed in the Salesianos Convent and Europa Theater. A battalion of militia, fully armed, was installed in the convent.

Another stronghold was the Duke of Medinaceli's palace. Red militia with rifles guarded it. Others patrolled the streets in commandered cars. The militiamen were fed from stores in the working-class districts and milk was distributed by food-section committees.

Communists seized the plants of the Rightist newspapers El Debate and La Voz, and attempted to publish the Red papers Mundo and Obrero Juvenil, but the government seized the editions, as they were uncensored.

Calls on Republicans to Rescue Constitutional Government.

Times Special
LOGANSPORT, Ind., July 22.—Second District Congressman Charles J. Halleck, Republican, in an address bidding for re-election last night, charged that "more trick bookkeeping is being done in Washington and Indianapolis than has ever been dreamed of before."

"Is this recovery?" he asked. "In little more than three years," he said, "the New Deal has spent more than $22,000,000,000, but still we have 12,000,000 unemployed and 20,000,000 on Federal relief rolls."

He called upon the Republican Party to rescue constitutional government.

NO NEED FOR STATE SURPLUS—SPRINGER

Raymond S. Springer, Republican Governor candidate, today said the $10,892,205 unobligated surplus in the state treasury "is only temporarily unobligated or a sign taxes should be reduced."

"The state has no need for such a surplus," Mr. Springer said, "and if it is truly unobligated, the tax load should be lessened on the citizens of the state who helped to pile it up."

"Of course, June 30 is the time when country treasurers settle their accounts with the state," he said, "and the state treasury naturally would contain a large sum now."

Mr. Springer said he was confident of a Republican victory in Indiana this fall. He was to leave today for Toledo to take part in the notification ceremonies for Alfred M. Landon.
