PUPIL INCREASE IS EXPECTED IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

County Units Will Be 5 to 10 Per Cent Larger, Official Says.

An increase of 5 to 10 per cent in county school enrollment this fall was predicted today by J. Malcolm Dunn, Marion County schools superintendent. The estimate was made on the basis of an increasing number of families moving to outlying townships.

Mr. Dunn said last year's enrollment of 13,290 in grade and high schools will be boosted materially when school registration of pupils opens Aug. 23. Classes in county schools are to begin Sept. 3, he said. Registration Aug. 23, when pupils and parents are to receive lists of required books, is to be prefaced Aug. 27 by an institute of Marion County teachers to be held in the Southport High School building.

F. H. Gaige, State Teachers' College, Millersville, Pa., is to speak at the afternoon session of the institute on "New Phases of Education." Four hundred county grade and high school teachers are expected to attend the morning session when Mr. Dunn is to outline the program for the ensuing school year. Teachers' sectional meetings are to follow Mr. Dunn's address. Herba Curtis, Southport principal, is to be institute host chairman.

Mr. Dunn said visual education is to be discussed. Motion picture libraries of county schools are to be used more frequently this year, he said.

Other Sessions Planned

Four other institutes are planned for the year with the following speakers to be heard: Dec. 5, Dr. Thomas Curtin, New York City, internationally known publicist, at John Strange school; Jan. 16, Rabbi J. Marshall Taxy, Terre Haute, at Lawrence High School; Feb. 20, Lathrop Stoddard, travel lecturer and author, Warren Central High School; April 3, Victor P. Griffin, Chicago University professor, Decatur Central school.

Mr. Dunn said teachers' contracts are to be signed by the opening of school Sept. 3. The number of teachers is not to be increased this year over the 1935-1936 school year, he indicated.

Shoe Dealers to Meet

Fall activities in shoe industry will be discussed at a dinner meeting of the Indianapolis Shoe Retailers' Association in the Hotel Washington at 5:30 p. m. today, according to I. F. Heidenreich, secretary.
