

NEW DEAL FOES ARE EXPECTED TO AID LANDON

had broken promises to the Michigan Democratic organization. He said then that the Administration in Washington had preferred to take the advice of Senator James Couzens and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin rather than that of the regular Democratic organization.

But the Governor explained today that his friends had "put pressure" on him to withdraw from the Jeffersonian conference.

The conference convened today under the leadership of Sterling E. Edmunds, St. Louis attorney, and Mr. Reed. The Jeffersonians laid a barrage against the New Deal as they assembled.

Mr. Ely said Mr. Roosevelt had "departed from the Democratic Party." Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in the second Wilson Administration, charged that the "Washington Administration regards Democratic principles as annoying and irritating."

Ely to Vote for Landon

Others complained that the Roosevelt Administration had kidnapped the names and symbols of the Democratic Party, but had rejected its traditional principles. Mr. Ely predicted Gov. Landon will carry every New England state.

"I am going to vote for Gov. Landon and I am going to speak in behalf of his candidacy," Mr. Ely told questioners.

He said Rep. William Lemke, Union Party presidential candidate, might show strength in New England because of his endorsement by Father Coughlin.

"I don't agree with all Father Coughlin says," Mr. Ely explained, "but he apparently is a Communist and not a Socialist. I am not 100 per cent for his economics, but he appeals to a certain class of people who have struggled and worked hard without acquiring that social security they desire."

DENIES GOVERNMENT BUYS PIES FOR PIGS

By United Press

EASTPORT, Me., Aug. 7.—Capt. Samuel Sturges Jr., in charge of mess at the abandoned Passamaquoddy tidal project today described as "deliberate lies" reports the pigs were feasting daily on hundreds of pies and loaves of bread made under government contract.

The reports were that with manpower at Quoddy reduced to a corporal's guard, virtually all of the 500 pies and 800 loaves of bread delivered daily by private bakers soon found their way into government garbage pails.

Then, stated the reports, farmer Ed Poole of Perry, who "has the contract to remove Quoddy garbage," hauled the pies and bread off to his pig pens.

"To best truth," said Capt. Sturges, "we have never purchased a single pie for Quoddy workers since the project was started. That should be a sufficient answer for that part of the report pertaining to pies."

"As regards the 800 loaves of bread, I want to point out that during July only 110 loaves were delivered daily. This allowed an average of only 12 ounces per man per day."

HOMES SOUGHT FOR CHILDREN

Director of Orphans' Home
Issues Plea in Behalf of Youngsters.

An appeal for homes for 10 or 15 children was launched today by Mrs. Elizabeth Munro Clarke, director of the Children's Bureau of the Indianapolis Orphan Home.

Several of the youngsters are now outside of the institution but still are under the care of the orphan home and their situation is such that more suitable homes are needed, Mrs. Clarke said.

The children's bureau seeks to place the boys and girls in free homes, with relatives, or in boarding homes, where the orphan home pays a nominal fee for the actual board of the child.

93 Being Cared For

At present only 93 children, 36 girls and 57 boys, are in the institution, while more than 400 children have been placed in foster homes and their cases are being supervised by the bureau, Mrs. Clarke said.

The chief problem of the bureau is finding homes within the city of Indianapolis to avoid the necessity of school changes and to keep the youngsters in closer touch with health clinics.

The Indianapolis Orphan Home organized in 1851 and the Children's Aid Association, later the Children's Bureau, was formed in 1904. The two were combined in July, 1934.

Cases Are Referred

Various cases cared for by the orphan home involve children who are homeless or seek assistance because of the death or illness of parents, their neglect or separation. Many are referred to the institution by the juvenile court, hospitals, welfare and social organizations. Mrs. Mildred Easterling, superintendent, said today.

LEWIS SPEEDS DRIVE TO GET NEW MEMBERS

Ousted Labor Leader Wants
3,000,000 Recruits
for C. I. O.

since last fall is not expected until the A. F. of L. national convention in Tampa, Fla., Nov. 18. Then a credentials committee named by Mr. Green will decide if delegates from ousted C. I. O. unions may be seated.

Terminating the break in federation ranks "unfortunate," Mr. Green said "I've said all I have to say." He called the council into session on Sept. 7 to make the suspension final on unions which retain their affiliation with the C. I. O.

C. I. O. leaders announced they had increased membership in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers from 11,000 to 19,000 in the two months the organization drive has been under way.

The steel drive to add 300,000 unorganized workers to C. I. O. rolls by next spring was speeded as leaders determined to go ahead in the face of A. F. of L. opposition.

The independent drive will also be speeded up in other mass production industries. In the rayon industry, 50,000 members is the goal; in automobile factories, 400,000, and rubber industry, 150,000.

Await Reaction

Meanwhile leaders of the two federation factions awaited reaction from central labor union bodies throughout the country to the council's suspension of one-third of the A. F. of L. membership.

Federation officials said that few communications had been received. They intimated that disaffections from the C. I. O. were possible. Lewis forces predicted they would make inroads in unions now backing the council.

The two actions are expected to continue their hostile truce until after the November convention. When the council meets next month some new compromise proposal permitting the recalcitrant unions to vote at the convention on their status may be submitted. Such a proposal, labor experts said, would go far toward preventing the C. I. O. from bolting the federation and establishing a new organization.

Seen as "Clearing House"

Several members of the executive council contended that a split would tendent, and a staff of 16 persons, are responsible for the physical care, training, recreation, and religious instruction of the youngsters.

At present the home is operating under an estimated deficit of $5,545.26. Average per capita cost is slightly less than $6 per week.

During the year 1935-36, total receipts of $184,224 were raised by community fund activities, county grants, direct contributions, membership dues and various minor incomes and endowments.

not hurt the American labor movement in the long run. It was pointed out that the railroad brotherhoods, with more than 500,000 members, are not members of the federation, but are an integral part of the movement.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters' Union and Democratic campaign labor division chairman, said before leaving Washington that the federation in the case of most unions "simply acts as a clearing house."

"If John Lewis should leave us, I would still feel free to consult with him on labor matters," Mr. Tobin said.
