300 WPA STRIKERS THREATEN VIOLENCE

By United Press
WEST WEAT, Fla., Aug. 8.—Three hundred WPA strikers, meeting to press demands made when they stopped work yesterday, threatened violence today.

"We are not going to be intimidated by masked men with arms as we were during the other strikes," Louis Avila, walkout leader, said.

The laborers demanded discharge of a foreman; that they not be "doctored" for the time lost because of rain; and that boots and shelter be provided for workers on the drainage project.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD • By William Ferguson

Most animals hold their mouths open when they wish to breathe faster, but the toad can not breathe at all with his mouth open, for he has to swallow air, and he can not swallow unless his mouth is closed. He has no ribs to aid him in expanding and contracting.

Son's Baptismal Certificate Father's Naturalization Aid

Aged Swiss Gardner, Confronted With Difficulty Proving Residence, Finds Solution.

A baptismal certificate today ended 45 years of effort on the part of John Hoesman, 77, of 328 E. Washington-st., Swiss gardener, to obtain his first papers toward naturalization as an American citizen.

And Mr. Hoesman was like a child with a new toy as he mailed the papers to Washington for final approval.

"I wait two years then I become citizen. Two years not long if you wait as I," he said in broken English.

Lacked Residence Proof

Mr. Hoesman's failure to obtain his first papers was due to his inability to show immigration officials that he had been living in the United States prior to 1908.

Certificates of arrival in the United States were issued to aliens after 1906, but the gardener could not prove that he had ever lived in the United States. All his documents had been lost or burned in a fire.

Declaration of citizenship must be filed with the county clerk, and Mr. Hoesman appeared several months ago before Mrs. Mary N. Knippenberg, deputy clerk.

He told her of entering the United States in 1891, of efforts in Cincinnati to obtain his first papers and of the stone wall that confronted him in that he couldn't prove he actually lived anywhere in the nation before 1906.

His wife and five of his six children had died. The sixth child, Jacob Hoesman, lives in Indianapolis.

Birth Certificate Does Trick

"Try and find a birth registration or baptismal certificate of that child," suggested Mrs. Knippenberg. The certificate was found showing that the son was born March 9, 1934.

But with 45 years of efforts almost crowned, the failure to have $2.50 for filing his declaration confronted him.

"But a good friend he gave the money," explained Mr. Hoesman as his declaration was placed on file in the clerk's office.

Mr. Hoesman declared that when he receives his citizenship papers two years from now he'll apply for an old-age pension. Under the Indiana pension acts he is denied a pension until he is naturalized.

ANTI-NEW DEAL GROUP REJECTS LONDON PLEDGE

Democrats at Rump Session Condemn New Deal, but Shun G. O. P. Tieup.

By United Press
DETROIT, Aug. 8.—Plans of Northern delegates to commit the Jeffersonian Democratic anti-Roosevelt conference here to the Republican Landon-Knox ticket collapsed today before Southern and border states' opposition.

Conferees agreed on a states' rights, anti-New Deal program. It will permit individuals or their local organizations to determine whether to endorse Republican candidates or merely condemn the Roosevelt Administration in an organized campaign to defeat the Democratic presidential ticket.

Jeffersonian leaders revealed plans to continue the fight after the November election to recapture control of the Democratic Party from President Roosevelt and his adherents.

Decision to avoid formal endorsement of Gov. Alf M. Landon was announced by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, cosponsor of the conference.

Discussions on program and permanent organization were to report to the conference today and adjournment was expected by midnight.

There has been informal discussion of a formal convention next month, to bring together some hundreds or thousands of conservative Democrats in a Midwestern city, possibly Chicago.

Leaders said that would be decided by the committee on permanent organization. Forty-three protesting Democrats from 20 states comprise this conference.

Fighting "Isms"

"We will do what we can," Mr. Reed said, "to preserve the honor and integrity of the Democratic Party and to save the country from the threat of Socialism, Communism, Bolshevism and all the other isms that have characterized the impetuous and unprincipled actions of the Roosevelt Administration."

"Every man here is of the opinion that the policies of the present Administration are anti-Democratic and anti-American; that every honorable means ought to be employed to defeat the New Deal and its advocates and sponsors."

"Many representatives here believed the best way to accomplish this honorable means ought to be the Landon-Knox ticket. Many disagreed. It has been left open to each community to follow its own judgment. We are not going to endorse Gov. Landon as a group."

Further Probe Into Lake County Payments Asked by Lutz.

Atty. Gen. Philip Lutz Jr. has ruled that a further investigation must be made before Lake County citizens can be reimbursed by the state for 1935 overpaid taxes.

He also ruled the estate of Peter J. Flinn, Marion, left as a trust for charitable purposes, is not tax exempt.

Courts ruled that about 25 Lake County residents paid $42,851.19 in taxes wrongfully assessed in 1934 and due in 1935. The state received $5404.52 of this money.

Laurence P. Sullivan, state auditor, asked for the attorney general's opinion on whether he should pay the claims, certified to him by Joseph E. Finerty, Lake County auditor.

Further Identification Needed

Mr. Lutz held that more identification of the taxpayers to whom the money is due is needed as well as an investigation to determine whether five years, the statutory limit, had expired before litigation in the case was begun.

Albert F. Walsman, State Tax Board commissioner, requested the opinion on the Flinn estate which comprises real estate valued at about $50,000. The estate is being administered by trustees and the income is used for helping indigent Marion residents of good character and assisting needy boys and girls acquire an education.

Mr. Lutz held the estate, which includes farm and business property, is not exempt from taxation because it was not given outright to a charitable institution but is being operated by trustees as a commercial enterprise.

"We stand for hope and the future," he said. "The Republican Party stands for decay and the slow march to the grave. We demand the nation be kept forever young."

LAYAWAYS

In the absence of a specific understanding to the contrary, layaways are nearly always the result of completed sales. When a consumer selects merchandise and makes a payment to have it held for him, agreeing to make future payments and to accept delivery of the goods when paid for, a sale has taken place and a layaway agreement has been entered. Neither party can rescind the contract without the consent of the other, and both are bound by its conditions. When the customer thereafter changes his mind and decides against taking the goods, the merchant may rightfully insist that payments made have been forfeited, and he is under no obligation to make a refund or exchange unless he has definitely agreed to do so. If the amount involved warrants, he may justifiably and legally insist on payment of the balance and acceptance of the merchandise.

Conversely, the merchant has no right to dispose of merchandise placed in layaway, unless and until the customer has broken the contract, and the failure of the store to safeguard the wares will make it liable in damages.

A few stores consider it good business to satisfy customers who do not observe their layaway contracts, and either refund payments made, give a credit memo or permit an exchange for other merchandise, where the market value of the goods laid away has not changed substantially. But no customer has a justifiable complaint when the store exercises its legal rights.

Each month many persons call at the office of the Better Business Bureau to file complaints about layaway practices of local firms. Almost all such complaints are without foundation and result from the customer's failure to understand the layaway contract and his obligations in regard to it.

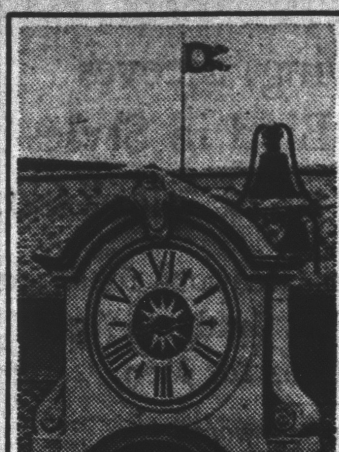

In the very minor number of layaway cases where there has been misrepresentation, deception or fraud, the Bureau stands ready to assist you.
