

3-DAY FLOOD TOUR PLANNED BY ROOSEVELT

Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio on Executive's Schedule.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—President Roosevelt today cleared his desk of official business preparatory to departure tomorrow morning on a three-day tour of Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York state for flood control inspection and speeches.

The Chief Executive will leave Washington by special train, with Johnstown, Pa., scene of a disastrous spring flood as the first stop. Early the next day he will be in Cleveland, for an extemporaneous speech at the Great Lakes Exposition.

On leaving Cleveland, he will move eastward to Mayville, N. Y., where he will detain and motor to nearby Chautauqua for an address that night on foreign affairs.

Time for Discussion

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that he has not delivered a formal address on the Administration's foreign policy since his speech last Oct. 4 at San Diego. He smilingly remarked that he believed it was high time for another.

The following morning, Saturday, he will visit the flood areas in the vicinity of Binghamton, N. Y., Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa. From that section he will head for Hyde Park, N. Y., where he plans to remain at the summer White House for about a week.

Landon May Meet Baker at Estes Park

EN ROUTE TO ESTES PARK, Aug. 12.—Gov. Alf M. Landon journeyed today to a Colorado vacation spot today trailed by the cheers of his homefolk and a flurry of speculation over whether he might meet Newton D. Baker at Estes Park, Colo.

The Secretary of War in the Wilson administration was understood to be remaining at Estes Park until Friday, and Landon will be only a

CIVIL SERVICE TOPIC AT FIREMAN PARLEY

By United Press
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 12.—Action by the twentieth annual convention of the Indiana Firemen's Association on a proposal that fire departments of the state be placed under civil service was delayed today pending further consideration.

A conference between officers of the firemen's association and the Indiana Police Association, also considering asking for civil service, was planned.

Mrs. Annie Conant of Hammond was elected president of the firemen's auxiliary. Other officers named are Millie Kerfoot, Bluffton, first vice president; Waive Watts, Gary, second vice president; Mary Pilling, Mishawaka, recording secretary; Lillian Green, Indianapolis, financial secretary, and Ernestine Ream, Huntington, treasurer.

PIONEER MISSIONARY TO CHINA IS DEAD

Times Special
MARION, Ind., Aug. 12.—Dr. Katherine Corey Ford, one of the first missionaries to China and active in medicine and surgery in Indianapolis until her retirement six years ago, died at her home in Van Buren late yesterday. She was 80.

Dr. Ford was sent to China as a surgeon and physician by the Methodist Episcopal Church shortly after she was graduated from the University of Michigan.

She returned to Indianapolis after five years and was married to the Rev. James Ford, Indianapolis Methodist minister. When he died in 1907, she again took up medicine.

RESTAURANTEURS MEET

Indianapolis members of the Indiana State Restaurant Association met last night in the Severin to complete plans for the state convention here Sept. 22 and 23.

short distance away at the McGraw ranch.

Baker, listed among the anti-New Deal Democrats, has so far failed to disclose whom he will support for the presidency.

"I didn't know Mr. Baker was still in Estes Park," Gov. Landon said. "I've been told not to have any visitors for a few days, but I might have to break the rules if he's still there."

Landon's summer cold continued to hand on as he traveled westward, advanced on his own vacation date in order to travel with the Kansas Governor to Estes Park.

CIVIL LIBERTIES FIGHT TO FREE SPEAKER BEGUN

Local Committee to Aid Man Imprisoned for Talk at Angola.

violated the state syndicalism law," he said.

"Legionnaires in Angola, who acted only as individuals, reported to us that the man never would have been arrested had he heeded their warnings against speaking before the students in the city," Mr. Sayre asserted.

"As I understand the case, Legionnaires at Angola tried to compromise the case before going to trial. When two Chicago attorneys came to Angola to defend the man, Legionnaires asked the Legion state department for legal aid, but was refused, and the prosecutor had to handle the case alone."

He pointed out that the defense had the right to ask a change of venue if they thought they couldn't get a fair trial in Angola, and also that they have the right of appeal.

"I'm fairly certain that Butash got a fair trial," Mr. Sayre declared.

A. R. Newhoff, New York, field representative of the International Labor Defense Committee, announced that Chicago attorneys already had started legal machinery to file an appeal to the Indiana Supreme Court.

Ira Latimer, director of the Chicago Civil Liberties Committee, outlined the committee's version of the Angola case to the local committee.

He said Paul Butash, a naturalized citizen born in Hungary whose home was in Chicago, was sentenced to five years in Indiana Prison July 1 in Angola on charges of violating the criminal syndicalism law by making a supposed remark suggesting that "the people can vote Congress to change conditions."

The Committee's Version

The Chicago Civil Liberties Committee's version of the case in part is:

"May 18 Butash was soliciting magazine subscriptions on the main street of Angola in the presence of two men who happened to be members of the American Legion," the committee's report stated.

"Butash gave his sales talk about his magazine and is alleged to have used the word 'system' in speaking of the economic and political order of the United States."

"The Legionnaires became suspicious of Mr. Butash, and they asked him to come back the next day and they would ask their wives if they would take his magazines."

"The court records show," the committee's report continued, "that they had no intention of taking the magazine but desired time to arrange a way to make a charge of criminal syndicalism upon Paul Butash."

Agrees to Give Talk

"The Legionnaires on May 19, when Butash returned to see them, requested him to speak at a public meeting on the general political and economic situation in the country," Mr. Butash told the Legionnaires that he would be glad to come to the meeting and take part in general discussions, the committee's report stated.

"At the meeting Butash was asked to speak and he talked for not more than five minutes and sat down. He was then asked to answer questions. Some one asked 'How can we change these conditions for the better?'"

"Mr. Butash answered that he thought a Farmer-Labor Party could bring about desirable changes. He also said the 'people can force Congress to change conditions,' the committee's report continued."

Charge Attempted Assault

"When he used the word 'force' the Legionnaires broke up the meeting and attempted to assault Mr. Butash and told him to get out of town because he was a radical propagandist," the report stated.

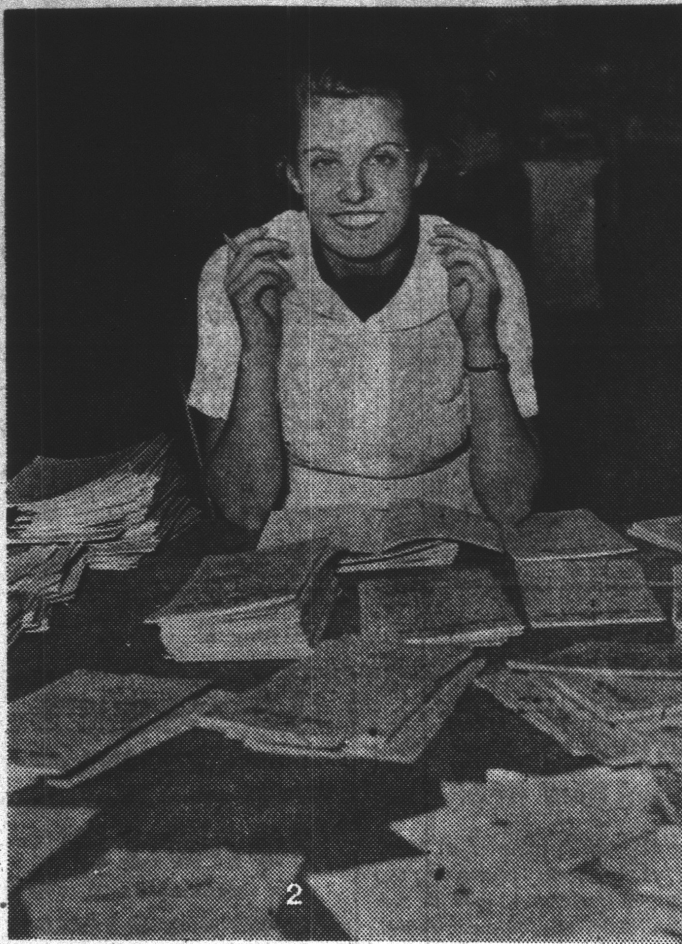

"Mr. Butash did not realize the serious threat to his liberty and remained over night in an Angola hotel. The following morning he was arrested on a warrant charging criminal syndicalism and held in jail until his trial July 1."

"At the trial defense attorneys exhausted all but one of its peremptory jury challenges and yet the jury were all Legionnaires and conservatives and after a short trial the jury brought in a verdict of 'guilty' and the minimum penalty of five years in prison," the committee's report read.

Mr. Latimer said the liberties committee feels that this case "is an attack upon the foundation of our constitutional democratic form of government."

"Our investigation disclosed that Mr. Butash had never been arrested

MINNOW HUNT ENDS WITH GUN BARRAGE

Meandering through a melon patch on a minnow hunt last night, Frank Wolf, 26, Stop 8, Edgewood, stopped 21 bucks on the shotgun of Charles F. Hartman, R. R. 4, farmer.

Mr. Hartman, owner of the melon patch, told deputy sheriffs that people had been raiding it. He took preventive measures last night.

Mr. Wolf told deputies he was not after melons, but was trying to get to a place where minnows swam and thus crossed the patch.

CITY DOG LICENSES DOUBLE LAST YEAR'S

Total number of licenses issued for dogs in Indianapolis since the first of the year is double that for the same period last year, Tom Harrison, police officer in charge of the license bureau, announced today.

Officer Harrison said 3457 licenses had been issued to date, compared with 1689 at this time last year. He said that the increase was due to stricter enforcement of the dog license law.
