

JUNIOR LEAGUE THEATER GROUP GETS FLYING START

All Members Experienced in Staging Shows

Work to Start Soon for First Production on Nov. 22.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN
Society Editor

THE Junior League's new theater committee is having an auspicious beginning. All of the 15 assigned members have served an apprenticeship preparing them for the future projects.

Many have assisted in production of the League's marionette shows, which are to be continued for children's entertainment at the John Herron Art Institute this winter.

Soon, the group, led by Mrs. Robert C. Winslow, is to begin assembling material for production of the first show, "Rip Van Winkle." The show Nov. 22 is to be up with a museum exhibit of early American portraits.

For the last year and a half marionette shows have been produced with Harry Fowler, puppet designer, assisting, but this season, since Mr. Fowler is out of town, the designing of marionettes and settings is to be supervised by Mrs. Winslow.

On Mrs. Winslow's committee are Mesdames J. T. Witherspoon, Carl Vonnegut, George Potheringham, Stanley Shipnes, W. Hathaway Simmons, Rosamond Van Camp Hill, Charles Latham, Noble Dean, Garvin Brown, Russell J. Ryan, William Junglaus, Misses Helen Fleischer, Helen Shepard and Elsie Sinclair.

Volunteers to Assist

The committee is to be assisted by several volunteers, who have signed up to serve as apprentices. Mrs. Witherspoon has had experience in designing sets for dramatic presentations, and Mrs. Potheringham in directing and adapting plays. Mrs. Shipnes, Mrs. Dean, Miss Shepard and Miss Sinclair are adept in art crafts and Mrs. Hill has written numerous children's plays and directed dramas and marionette shows.

Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. Latham, Mrs. Junglaus, and Miss Fleischer contributed to the marionette plays of other seasons.

To Miss Fleischer will fall the job of building many of the sets. She cuts out many of the designs in her craft shop at her home.

Second Play in February

The committee's second production is to be a Dutch play in February. Announcement was made of the new committee's work at a general meeting yesterday at Woodstock Club.

Mrs. James Rose, formerly of Chicago, who is to be a guest member this season, attended the luncheon and bridge party.

Mesdames Herman C. Wolf, Eugene C. Miller, Cornelius O. Allig, Orland Church, Louis Haerle, Perry Lesh and Mrs. Latham took part in the golf tournament, following the meeting. Other members played bridge.
