

'LITTLE SERIES' TITLE CAPTURED BY MILWAUKEE CLUB

Brewers Pull Triple Killing in Final Tilt

Laabs Blasts Two Homers against Buffalo to End Play.

By United Press
BUFFALO, Oct. 2.—The Milwaukee Brewers, American Association champions, defeated the Buffalo Bisons, International League titleholders, four games out of five in the "Little World Series."

Milwaukee took the best four out of seven games series last night with a convincing 8-to-3 victory. The Brewers blasted four Buffalo pitchers for 14 hits, including three home runs. Chet Laabs, hard-hitting Brewer leftfielder, led with two homers, and Wilburn, Milwaukee shortstop, got one.

The Bisons, held to 10 hits by the combined efforts of Pressnell and Hamlin, made only one threatening gesture. That came in the sixth inning when they scored all their runs and were stopped by a triple play.

Pressnell Is Relieved
After Pressnell had hurled five scoreless innings, the Bisons came to life and the first five men hit safely. Meyers led off the inning with a single, went to second when Mulleavy dropped a hit back of second, and scored as McGowan doubled to left. Then Dickshot peppered another single to right, scoring Mulleavy and McGowan.

At this point Pressnell was replaced by Hamlin, ace right-hander of the Brewer mound staff. He forced Boland, the next man up, to pop a high fly between second and third, but Wilburn overran the ball and let it fall safely, allowing Boland to reach first base and Dickshot to take second.

With men on first and second and none out, Crouse lined to Second Base and Hope who made a leaping catch and threw to Wilburn to double. Dickshot, Wilburn completed a triple play by whipping the ball to York to nab Boland. It was the second triple killing of the series, Buffalo pulling one in the first game. After this upturning, Hamlin settled down and pitched shutout ball the rest of the game.

Brewers Pound Ball

Milwaukee had little trouble with Carl Fischer, Buffalo's starting pitcher. Laabs opened the scoring with a home run in the second inning to put the Brewers on top in front. The American Association champions got to Fischer for three more runs in the third on four hits, three singles and a double by York which scored two of the runs. In the fifth, Laabs' second homer, an error and a circuit clout by Wilburn produced three more tallies. Fischer was replaced by Kline in this session.

The Brewers pushed their last run across in the sixth against Wilson, who followed Kline to the mound when the latter was taken out for a pinch hitter. Hope singled, advanced to second when Pressnell sacrificed and scored when Uhlatt smashed his third hit through shortstop. Jacobs finished for Buffalo after Wilson gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh, and held the Brewers scoreless.

The American Association champions won the first three games of the series in Milwaukee, and Buffalo got its lone victory here Tuesday behind the tight hurling of Bill Harris.

The individual winner's share of the proceeds for the five games amounted to about $550 while the losers received approximately $370 apiece.

Allan Sothoron (above), piloted the Milwaukee Brewers to the "Little World Series" championship over the Buffalo Bisons by taking four games to one for the International League pennant winner.

The Brewers were all-powerful. After winning the American Association flag they defeated Kansas City four straight in the A. A. semi-finals playoff and then defeated Indianapolis four out of five in the finals. In the junior series Milwaukee won the first three, lost the fourth and then crushed the Bisons last night.

Budge Tops Large Pacific Meet List

By United Press
BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 2.—Top bracket national tennis stars, including Donald Budge, Carolyn Babcock and possibly Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, will head a list of 540 entrants in the Pacific Coast championships which open at the Berkeley Tennis Club tomorrow.

The entry list is the largest on record. Budge, the country's first-ranked singles player, and Miss Babcock, are seeded first in the singles play. Fred Perry and Alice Marble, national champions, withdrew from the tournament at the last minute.

Karrmann Has New High for Pin Leaguers

American Central Pastimer Rolls 280 and Posts Total of 684.

BY BERNARD HARMON

While bowling scores of last night failed to reach the record-breaking heights of the previous evening, one season mark was set up during the various league sessions. Eddie Karrmann, American Central Life insurance pastimer, in rolling the best individual total of the evening, a 684, opened with a 280 game, tops for the season.

Karrmann opened the game with a strike, spared in the second, and then finished with 10 additional strikes. He followed with games of 186 and 218 to take city-wide honors. Kenneth Koelling was the only other member of the loop, rolling the Pritchett Alleys, to pass 600. He topped the mark with five pins to spare.

Larry Langbein smacked the maples for a 659 count, the best series of the Universal League's session at Pritchett's. He had games of 255, 213 and 191. His fifty series, combined with a 607 from Dick Nordholt, gave Dutch Master Cigars a shutout victory over Tip Top Cafe.

Whetstone Comes Back

Eddie Whetstone, who has been missing from league circles for several years, showed some of his old-time scoring prowess with a 608 that led Bemis Bag to a two-game victory over Louie's Tavern. The winners posted a 1904 middle game.

Two honor series emerged from the Polk Sanitary Milk-Blue Point Service match, won by the former, two to one. Prior Smith had a 604 for the winners and Fabian Maurer 601 for the losers. S. & S. Service Station downed Heidenreich Florists twice, Louis Pouts of the losers turning in the best solo series. He had 608. After taking two beatings from Guarantee Tire & Rubber, Capitol Ice cracked out a 1008 to win the final game.

Four Pritchett League members turned in 600 series in their session at Pritchett's. Cornelius Printing and Rolles Printing furnished the honor shooters. John Fehr and Adam Lang giving the former 642 and 603 as Butch Zix and Eddie Hornberger turned in 639 and 620 for the Rolles quartet.

Manuel Schonecker, after relinquishing Optical League honors to Elmer Fox for the last two weeks, wound up his series of last night with a 255 that netted him a 637 and top honors of the session. White-Haines and Optometrists won shutout victories over Dr. J. E. Kernell and American Optical. The league rolls at the Illinois Alleys.

At the Uptown

Dorsey's V-8 Fords and Omar Baking won shutouts over William H. Clock Company and United Taxi in the Intermediate League at the Uptown Johnson today. Fitzsimmons tomorrow and Hubbell in the fourth. Hubbell will not get the call to relief duty except in case of dire necessity.

Weirhays's 618 was the only honor series of the St. Catherine's League, in which Wizard Machine, Schuster Coal and Sauter's Tavern took sweeps over Weber Milk, Louis's

Among Irish Veterans

It may take fans most of the season to become acquainted with the new names dotting the varsity lineup at Notre Dame. Until the headlines can build replacements for Shakespeare, Pincely, Elser and others, Steve Miller (above), Larry Danbom, Vic Wojcikowski, Joe Gleason and Bob Wilke will remain the most familiar. They are the only monogram backedfield candidates. Miller, a full back last season, is the only two-year letterman. The system of shock troops at Notre Dame undoubtedly will uncover many new names for the records. At present, Coach Elmer Layden is alternating Miller and Danbom at the starting fullback position. Carnegie Tech opens at Notre Dame Stadium tomorrow.

Tavern and Fountain Square Furniture, as Trety's Inn won twice from Grunow, Ashcraft, Shirts, Estate Ranges, AMC Shirts and Elgin Watches. Lang with 602 was the leading soloist.

A 602 also was good for individual honors of the Elks League at the Antlers Alleys. Moxley being the pacemaker. All series were decided by two-to-one decisions.

one of you guys." They didn't make 'em any gamer than the Rabbit, and along with it, he was a great ball player.

"MICKEY COCHRANE — Black Mike, the baseball writers call him, was lounging against a hotel lobby pillar yesterday explaining what happened to his Detroit Tigers this year.

"The breaks started to go against us and when the breaks start to go against you in this game you are sunk. We lost Hank Greenberg for the year. Crowder got sick on us, Auker didn't have anything, and I was out for more than a month. We did well enough to finish in the first division."

Your mind drifted back to October of 1931, another World Series, when Black Mike had a most disagreeable time of it. He was then catching for the Athletics and they were playing the St. Louis Cards. This was the series in which Pepper Martin stole the show; he hit everything the Athletic pitchers sent up to him and he ran wild on the bases. The pitchers couldn't get him out and Cochrane couldn't stop him once he got on.

For a great catcher, Black Mike looked bad and the customers sprayed him with blistering ridicule, such as, "Call a cop, Cochrane, or that Martin will steal your shin guards right often you." There were many kindred cracks more vicious than subtle in their implication. And yet Cochrane wasn't to blame. Martin wasn't stealing on him. He was stealing on the Athletic pitchers, particularly on Grove and Earnshaw, neither of whom had a movement to first, or seemed to care about developing one. They just stood out there in the box and flogged the ball through.

"THE urbane Mr. Clarence Rowland, who is vulgarly known as Pants to the trade, paused at the cigar counter to chew the fat and with some friends from Chicago. "I think the Yankees will win four of the next five. They'll take Hubbell the next time out, too. No matter what they tell you, Hubbell had a lot of luck in winning the opening game. With the same kind of luck Ruffing would have won. He pitched a mighty fine game him."

"You remembered when Mr. Rowland first came up to the majors. He used to run a pub in Peoria, Ill., and Ban B. Johnson, the old fire eater who was president of the American League for so many years, was one of his steady patrons. If, indeed, steady is the word. Ban developed a personal fondness for Mr. Rowland and persuaded Charley Comiskey to make him manager of the White Sox. And, despite the fact that Mr. Rowland had never played any baseball, aside from sporadic attempts at the semi-pro game, he won the championship in 1917 and then beat John McGraw's Giants in the play offs.

THE SERIES WENT TO SIX GAMES AND

Red Faber won three of them—that was the year Henie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins across the plate with the winning run, to become in baseball history one of the prize goats of all time. At least it is so recorded. The truth is Zimmerman was only partly to blame. There was nobody covering the plate at the time Collins set out for home and the only possible chance the Giants' third baseman had to get him was to chase him. It was his tough luck that he was badly overmatched. Zimmerman was slow, Collins was a sprinter, and it was no contest.

Large, laughing, Steve O'Neill, the Irishman who replaced Walter Johnson as manager of Cleveland, pulled up a chair and began to talk about the breaks of the first game of the current series.

"The one real break was Whitehead's catch of Di Maggio's liner in the eighth inning. That was the ball game. You are right when you say it was a tough break for Di Maggio but don't overlook the fact that Whitehead made a swell play on the ball. It was one of the finest fielding plays I ever saw in a clutch."

THIS GOT YOU TO THINKING ABOUT

Another fine fielding play Mr. O'Neill saw—the only unassisted triple play that has ever been made in a World Series. This was in 1920, the year the Clevelanders played the Brooklyn and Mr. O'Neill was behind the bat for the American League.

The play came in the fifth game. The Brooklyn had filled the bases with none out and apparently were about to launch a strong rally. Clarence Mitchell hit a liner right into the hands of Bill Wambam, the Indians' second baseman, and he proceeded to retire the side by himself. It happened so quickly that few people realized an unassisted triple play had been made.

It was one of those plays where the thrill comes in retrospect. I had never seen an unassisted triple play until that afternoon—haven't seen one since, as a matter of fact—and I am forced to admit it wasn't very exciting.

Vern Kennedy Checks Cubs in Chicago Series Opener, 5-1.

Times Special

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Lon Warneke, pitching ace of the Chicago Cubs, was Manager Charley Grimm's choice to attempt to halt the rampaging White Sox at Comiskey Park today in the second game of the 1936 city series. Monte Stratton was to start on the mound for the American League.

Vern Kennedy, who headed the White Sox hurling staff during the American League season with 21 victories and nine defeats, hand-cuffed the Cub batsmen yesterday, permitting only four hits as the White Sox triumphed, 5 to 1.

Only 12,314 fans turned out yesterday to see Jimmy Dykes' club concentrate its offensive in the fifth inning and score all its runs off Bill Lee, who started on the mound for the National League.

Lee, who turned in a record of 16 victories and 11 defeats during the regular season with the Cubs, had permitted only one hit in the first four innings yesterday but walked Luke Appling, American League batting champion, in the fifth and the Sox didn't stop until they had five runs. Rip Radcliff hit a home run with two mates on base.

The Cubs scored their single run in the ninth inning with the aid of an error by Dykes who fumbled a grounder by Ken O'Dea.
