and needs and facilities of distribution.

The U. S. Public Health Service, the State Health Board, National Guard, U. S. Army Engineers, Red Cross and WPA representatives were to meet this afternoon to discuss the drinking water situation.

For 24 hours water conveyances of all types have been mobilized in the flood area. Evansville, the Red Cross reported, needed no more.

The military forces today planned to reduce the area under martial law and to tighten the guard against returning homeless. No one will be allowed in the stricken area until sanitation engineers have made wrecked and deserted river towns safe against epidemic disease, they said.

To the end, the State Health Board and the U. S. Public Health Service, using CCC and WPA workers and National Guardsmen, entered communities, where water had receded sufficiently with chemicals and tools.

Rehabilitation was in the planning stage, with an Indiana Legislative survey committee, which yesterday flew over the river area, unofficially stating that the State could "only begin to finance it."

Asks Federal Grants

Governor Townsend already had contacted Washington asking Federal grants for reconstruction of public buildings, at the very least.

Governor Townsend again held a day of conferences with persons in charge of all phases of disaster and prepared to give a personal message to the Legislature.

The Legislature was to reconvene today to consider a joint resolution for flood victims to extend by 30 days the grace period on payment of the gross income tax.

Temporary Schools Opened

The State Public Instruction Department hastened to open temporary schools in the flood area concentration camps, and to see that children continued their studies. Teachers were mobilized for this work.

The military reported it had the movement of refugees and law and order under control, and prepared to reduce to 27 the number of counties under martial rule. Base field headquarters were established at French Lick.

Today military courts were to be set up in several communities. General headquarters here said that as cities were put in order, and emergencies in them ceased to exist, government would be restored to civil authorities.

Aid Continues to Come

CCC and WPA officials sought authority from Washington to spend all resources over to the flood authority for sanitation and rehabilitation work.

Physicians in Indianapolis and other cities continued to volunteer for flood duty and were set to work inoculating refugees in concentration camps against contagious diseases, principally typhoid fever, and partial quarantine was established over the camps to prevent the victims from circulating too freely.

tients sent to them. All patients at City Hospital were reported in "fair" condition.

A few colds were reported at the Fair Grounds but no contagious diseases. A Red Cross health unit was functioning with three shifts of physicians, nurses and interns. Preparations were made to receive as many as 400 additional refugees. Not many were moved from the Fair Grounds to private homes today.

Health Is Guarded

All refugees were urged to have their physical condition checked and to take typhoid inoculations. City health officials were watching carefully for signs of contagious disease, and were trying to cope with the problem of checking refugees who come in to the city by bus and private means of transportation.

Sleeplessness and worry were causing refugees at the Fair Grounds discomfort, but on the whole they were faring well, it was reported.

William P. Cosgrave, chief examiner for the State Accounts Board, said today that it is probable many public records have been destroyed by the flood waters.

The co-operation of pastors and church people with the American Red Cross in its efforts to aid flood sufferers was solicited today by the Rev. Edgar DeWitt Jones, Detroit president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, according to Dr. Ernest N. Evans, executive secretary of the Indianapolis Church Federation.

Legion Sends Aid

The American Legion has sent 15 motorboats and 24 outboard motors to Evansville to aid in flood rescue work. Twelve truck loads of food, bread, water and blankets were donated to other cities in the stricken area.

The Red Cross today began to make plans for its rehabilitation program in the flood area. "The cleanup after the flood waters recede will require the assistance of every social service worker available," Charles W. Carr, relief director for Indiana, said.

The Indiana Regulated Highway Carriers, Inc., has offered trucks and cars for the transportation of rescue supplies.

Forest Service Also Helps

Resources of the United States Forest Service also have been placed at the disposal of rescue workers, Supervisor Lyle F. Watts said.

Twenty-five Indianapolis police officers left yesterday for duty in the stricken area. The Fire Department has sent one pumper and two stationary pumps to Madison on request of Mayor Marcus Sulzer.

Meanwhile, a battalion of United States Army troops at Ft. Harrison were awaiting orders from Brig. Gen. William K. Naylor to move into the flood area. One battalion was dispatched to Louisville several days ago.

Rains No Danger, Believe

Waters of the Wabash and White Rivers are receding and rains forecast for central and southern Indiana will not increase the flood hazard, the United States Weather Bureau said today.

J. H. Armstrong said the only rise was noted along the Wabash River near New Harmony, caused by the Ohio River backing up that stream.

He predicted the effects of the Ohio River flood will be felt as far north as Mount Carmel and Graysville, Ill., but anticipated no further damage.

for typhoid inoculations. The military authorities and all relief workers were urged to take the "shots." No cases have been reported.

Reports of water entering gas mains and endangering the city were denied by gas company officials.

The largest group of Evansville refugees, 1,000, is located at Terre Haute. Others cities caring for the city's unfortunate were Holland, Poseyville, Chandler, Dale, Ft. Branch, Elberfeld, Vincennes, Cynthiana, Owensville, Washington, and Princeton.

FIND TRUCK DRIVER COLLAPSED IN CAB

Garr Edwards, 40, Kokomo truck driver, was reported in a serious condition at City Hospital today after collapsing in the cab of his truck on Riviera Drive near Broad Ripple. He apparently had been overcome by gasoline fumes.

SPANISH LOYALISTS MAKE BIG ADVANCE

With an estimated one-fifth of the city under water, Mr. Jennings fixed the loss to 7500 homes at $1000 a home, or $7,500,000. Household goods cost dwellers an additional $1,750,000 while industries suffered in buildings and equipment to the extent of $16,875,000, he said.

He pointed out that the estimated did not include governmental property and public utility damages.

"We believe the fight against the flood is over and we're preparing for rehabilitation," Mr. Jennings said.

"Our only problem," he added, "is to guard against polluted water." Downtown hotels and homes were rationed water when the hydrants were turned on for one hour's duration.

Health Conditions Good

Mr. Jennings said evacuation had been completed. He estimated that 1500 persons had been taken from Evansville to other cities with an estimate of 10,000 leaving the city either through their own volition or because of high waters.

American Red Cross officials estimated that another 500 might be evacuated before the crisis had passed.

Dr. William de Kleine, National Red Cross medical director, termed the city health condition, "generally good."

He, with other doctors, pointed out that 40 scarlet fever cases could not be traceable to the flood.

Dr. de Kleine said a typhoid epidemic would not appear pronounced for 10 days or two weeks.
