THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

TO many people, hares and rabbits are all the same, while as a matter of fact, they belong to separate groups, each of which has its own well-defined species. The hares have long ears, long legs, and live in forms. The rabbits are shorter legged, shorter eared, and frequently live in burrows.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By DR. ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM

so does everyone else, and how the department stores do gloat over this weakness of mine—until some day when they find I can't pay—and then what?

But for the reason I pointed out yesterday, women do not, as a rule, look as far ahead as men, they tend more than men to forget that a purchase charged must some day be paid for in actual money. We are certainly "pore weak mortals" but in this respect most women are weaker than most men.

NEXT—Do most people believe that the mental picture they have of themselves is a true picture of what they really are?

COMMON ERRORS

Never say, "This is all the further I can go"; say, "as far as I can go."

I don't know why everyone is so interested in the Spanish War. There's just as heavy a slaughter going on before our very eyes.

There have been 39,608 fatal accidents so far in 1936, which is 8912 more than last year.—Edward A. Mitte, Detroit traffic director.

Intelligence is man's highest attribute, yet he is using it to invent more deadly machines for his own destruction. A fascinating and informing book.

1. NOTHING is more pathetic than the boys and girls coming out of our high schools and colleges—trained for nothing but shorthand and typing, or for commercial bookkeeping, or else merely trained in "liberal culture." The latter are the most pathetic of all. This is only partly the fault of those trustful, hopeful babies in the wood, because they thought the school knew what it was about in advising them what courses to take. But they are not blameless, any means, because any wide-awake young person ought to see that to-day he should equip himself not only for one main job, but for many related jobs.

2. DR. JOSEPH JASTROW makes this statement in "The Story of Human Error," a book he has just edited, written by himself and 16 other scientists. He points out that whereas science has revealed the order and harmony of nature, yet man uses these very discoveries of science to tear the world to pieces with war and revolution.

Intelligence is man's highest attribute, yet he is using it to invent more deadly machines for his own destruction. A fascinating and informing book.

3. BOTH men and women spend more freely if they have a charge account than if they pay as they go, with hard cash. +1 do, and
