

NLRB CALLS FOR NIGHT HEARINGS IN RAIL DISPUTE

U. S. Attorneys Speed Quiz On Union Charges of Wagner Violations.

William Seagle, trial examiner, today ordered night sessions next week to hear union charges of Labor Relations Act violations against Bowman Elder, Indiana Railroad receiver.

The half-day session scheduled today in the Statehouse was postponed. Hearings will be resumed Monday.

Attorneys for the Federal board and the railroad's receiver are to attempt to speed the hearings, stipulations on testimony contending that company officials intimidated employees into signing an agreement for a 12½ per cent wage increase.

Through testimony of Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees members, the Labor Board attorney, I. S. Dorfman, yesterday sought to bring out additional evidence seeking to prove that agents for supervisory officers of the receiver attempted to "pack" or intimidate union meetings.

Business Agent on Stand

Lloyd Rosencrans, Anderson, business agent of Amalgamated Local 1069, testified he was reprimanded by Ira Babcock, Anderson ticket agent, for posting a notice to employees urging them to continue to work at their jobs while "threats" of strike were in the air.

He testified he was called on the telephone on one occasion by Louis Rapaport, receiver's auditor, and urged to approve a petition for the 12½ per cent wage increase.

He said Mr. Rapaport told him "you'll be out of a job and so will I" if the agreement was not accepted.

Mr. Rosencrans testified he told Mr. Rapaport, "I'm not worrying about a job."

He said a railroad foreman told him that because of his union activities he was "hunting an excuse to get rid of me."

Tells of Opposition

He testified an employee, Frank Norvel Anderson, told him, "I wish the company had money enough to give the Amalgamated a good licking."

"I told him that they should have money enough with $250,000 on hand, for the employees didn't have the money," he said.

Through other witnesses the Labor Board counsel and union attorneys sought to prove charges that supervisory employees of the receiver were part of a so-called "mob" that "stormed" a union meeting in Anderson on January 25. The witnesses testified at attempts to force a strike vote at the meeting. The vote was not taken.

FRENCH CATHOLICS DEFY PARADE BAN

By United Press

PARIS, May 8.—Catholic lay leaders, defying a government ban, today ordered their followers to join in the traditional parades tomorrow on the anniversary of the birth of Joan of Arc.

Because of the troublous political situation the procession was banned. Leaders of the Catholic Nationalist groups retorted by ordering their followers to parade in small groups of less than 150 each.

Staunchest Trouper on Stage of Life

Thousands of patrons of the drama have passed through the lobby of English's Theater. Perhaps many of them have failed to notice the bronze tablet (above) which honors the staunchest trouper on the stage of life.

On Mother's Day, 1931, the tablet was dedicated. It commemorates the origin of the day, which took place here in 1904. Tomorrow, again, the nation pays tribute.

Mother's Day Brings Appeal For Lower Childbirth Toll able for expectant mothers, how to prepare for healthy babies.

Yet, every year the maternity death rate of the United States is second highest on the world list for civilized countries. Science has advanced, but we have not kept pace.

With utter frankness, the Maternity Center Association announces that this seeming paradox can be attributed to the fact that the good care which is every woman's right is limited to the very few.

Such care is not expensive, the assertion continues. In New York, it says, this care can be provided for as little as $65, and the cost range is lower in smaller communities.

What, then, have been our difficulties? How have we made Mother's Day a time of sorrow for many who would hold it a day of joy? Briefly, we have been slack in giving the women of the nation a chance to avail themselves of the new knowledge. We have been more interested in the addition of a battleship to the navy than in saving mothers.

Files of maternity clinics bear mute testimony of the fact that women everywhere are reaching out for help as they prepare for motherhood. Frequently they write that they are in benighted areas where no clinic is situated within a radius that they can travel. They are afraid. They don't know what to do or whom to ask.

where we bemoan, sometimes, that all our pioneer trails have joined civilized highways and we have no wilderness to conquer today.

Here is a field worthy of our best efforts. Since a survey reveals that much lower rates of maternity mortality have occurred whenever good care has been provided for expectant mothers through the entire pregnancy period, a campaign to make such a program nation-wide is a worthy honor to render mothers on Mother's Day.

WALLIS, DUKE WILL MARRY AT CANDE CASTLE

Mrs. Simpson Signs Paper Permitting Ceremony on French Soil.

By United Press

MONTS, France, May 8.—The Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Simpson have decided finally to be married at the Chateau de Cande here, it was believed yesterday.

Place and date were a secret which they shared only with the Duke of Kent, the Duke's youngest, favorite brother, who is expected to be best man.

The fact that Mrs. Simpson had her birth certificate attested at Vendome yesterday was believed, however, to make it certain that the marriage would take place at the chateau. Such attestation is required under French law.

June Date Favored

Also, despite intimations that the ceremony might be held soon after the coronation, June 12, there are possibilities under French law which would make a later date likely. Mrs. Simpson was believed still to favor an early day in June.

Reports from the chateau were that the Duke strongly favored an Austrian wedding on the ground that, at some secluded place, there would be less publicity. Mrs. Simpson, it was said, held out for a wedding at the chateau and won her point.

People who had not seen the Duke since his abdication have been astonished to see him here—smiling, heavier, without lines of worry in face and body. More, more, more, he seems to feel free of the weight of responsibility and worry lifted from him with his abdication and his reunion with Mrs. Simpson.

Television Record

The weather was sultry this morning and the Duke stayed indoors.

It was understood that he had consulted engineers as to the possibility of viewing his brother-successor's coronation by television. British television experts will record the coronation. The Duke hopes to have a set sufficiently powerful installed in the ancient kitchen of the chateau, now made into a bar and informal grill room.

Wallis to Forego Royal Title

By United Press

LONDON, May 8.—Report that Mrs. Wallis Simpson may not be "Her Royal Highness" after her marriage to the Duke of Windsor will be published in tomorrow's issue of the Sunday newspaper Reynolds' News.

The newspaper will say that the title must be conferred specially by the King. Neither the Duke nor Mrs. Simpson has raised the question, it is asserted, and Mrs. Simpson is against such proposal. Hence, the newspaper will say, the present intention is that the honor will not be conferred.

Mr. Lowish's suit charged that he was seriously injured when he slipped and fell in the lobby of the Fidelity Building Nov. 4, 1935.

He claimed that the companies were negligent in allowing the floor to become wet and slippery. Mr. Lowish said his right leg was fractured.
