

WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE CLOSSES YEAR'S WORK TODAY

Leaders for Next Season To Be Picked

Public Welfare Aid Is On Program for Luncheon.

A year of legislative, civic and economic studies by the Indianapolis League of Women Voters was brought to a close today at the league's annual meeting at the Woodstock Club.

As part of the program Mrs. Clarence Merrill's name was presented for re-election as president by a nominating committee.

Also on the slate presented by the committee, headed by Mrs. Arthur C. Sba, were Mrs. John K. Goodwin, first vice president; Mrs. Lester Smith, second vice president; Mrs. Austin Clifford, recording secretary; Mrs. L. A. Ensminger, membership secretary; and Mrs. Oliver Greer, treasurer.

Miss Evelyn Chambers and Mrs. Guy Shadiner were nominated for re-election to the board and Mesdames Mark Ferrer and Joseph Miner and Leonard Smith were named for new board members.

Miss Helen D. Pigeon of the Indiana Department of Public Welfare, was the luncheon speaker.

Two Types of Workers Needed

Miss Pigeon said that both layman and professional workers are essential in the development of a public welfare program in Indiana. For the right sort of public action, it is necessary to have the interest of an informed and courageous citizenry, who understand what the proper standards of administration are, and who demand the best from public officials.

"From another point of view, the success of the public welfare program depends on the professional worker," she said. "The rapid development of social sciences and the science of mental health, has demonstrated the need for such specialists as the psychiatrist, the case worker and the psychologist.

"It has widened the field of work to include a variety of preventive and constructive measures such as probation, parole and mental health clinics.

Much Ground Uncovered

"Despite its achievements, Indiana only recently has taken this important step and it has much ground to cover in its investigation and community services if it is to catch up with the march of scientific progress," she stated.

The program committee, with Mrs. Shadiner as chairman, reported the year's activities in the form of a round table discussion led by Mrs. Merrill.

Participants and their departments were Mrs. Lester Smith, government and its operation; Mrs. Thomas D. Sheerin, government and child welfare; Mrs. William Allen Moore, government and economic welfare; Mrs. Ross Coffin, government and legal status of women; and Mrs. Leonard Smith, government and foreign policy.

Other reports were given by Mrs. Greer, legislative steering committee chairman; Mrs. John W. Hillman, personnel chairman; and Mrs. Mary Sinclair, executive secretary.

Today's Pattern

TOTS at the 4 to 10 age need lots of play clothes. A dress like this (No. 8947) is so easy to put together that it pays to make several at one time. The cap sleeves and sash are cute and bias binding makes colorful trimming. Make it in dotted swiss, gingham, percale, cross barred dimity of silk. Patterns are sized 4 to 10 years. Size 6 requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch fabric with 2 1/2 yards of 1 1/2-inch bias binding for trimming.

To obtain a pattern and STEP-BY-STEP SEWING INSTRUCTIONS include in coin together with the above pattern number and your size, your name and address, and mail to Pattern Editor, The Indianapolis Times, 214 W. Maryland St., Indianapolis, Ind.

The SPRING AND SUMMER selection of late dress designs, now is ready. It's 15 cents when purchased separately. Or, if you want to order it with the pattern above, send in just an additional 10 cents.

Yachting Their Hobby

Mrs. George Nichols (Jane Norton Morgan) comes next to Junius. She and her husband and two children, Jane and George Jr., spend their summers and their winters in a home on Murray Hill. Little Jane made her debut last winter with her cousin, Virginia Pennoyer.

Mr. Nichols' hobby is yachting. He skippered the Weetamoe in the preliminaries for the last international yacht race at Newport, and he handled the Vanitie when Sir Thomas Lipton was over here.

Henry, the youngest child of J. P. Morgan, also married into a yachting family. His wife, Catherine, is a daughter of Charles Fran-

Riders Set To Compete For Trophies

Youngsters' Tournament Friday to Climax Winter Shows.

By BEATRICE BURGAN

ONE thing as bright as the prospect of summer vacation looms for the R. H. Brown Stables' children champion riders. They are to compete for shining cups, symbolizing their superior horsemanship in Friday's tournament ending a series of winter shows.

James McNutt is hoping he can pick up added points to overcome the advantage Mariou Hyatt has in the intermediate class. Ann Kennedy has an edge over Mary Ann Resor in the beginners' group. Mary Grossman ranks first in the junior division over Florann Mouch, who will ride her best in the final competition in an effort to win a cup.

Thrill in Prospect

Jo Ann Rice has a lead in points over Dorothy Metzger in the senior classification. The showdown in this division should be of lively interest to the adult spectators, for Jo Ann and Dorothy, both Tudor Fair and Arlington shows in the same classes for many seasons.

After the show the young horsemen will entertain guests at a party in the lounge.

Mrs. William Munk is making frequent visits to the stables to ride her new horse, Shady Lady, the first she has owned. This summer her interests will be divided between the stables and the Maxinkuckee Yacht Club races at Lake Maxinkuckee.

A. B. Alexander has added Trusty Pal, and Miss Margaret Saltzman, Sunny Jim, to the stables' privately owned horses. Many of these are being groomed for the annual Arlington show there June 17 to 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. McDuffie returned from a visit at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., yesterday.

And Mr. McDuffie has a new title. He won the men's Greenbrier Golf tournament, concluded Saturday over the Old White course at the Greenbrier resort. He plays regularly at the Indianapolis Country Club links during the summer.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bell have announced the engagement of their daughter Mary to Riley Shuttleworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Shuttleworth. The wedding is to be solemnized June 14 at Lafayette.

Luncheon and Party Honor Visitor Here

After Mrs. Gertrude Shideler Pearce, Los Angeles, attended Mrs. Austin Brown's luncheon today, she returned to the home of her hostess, Mrs. Charles Harvey Bradley, to prepare for Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Adams' dinner party.

Mrs. Brown Adams' dinner party for Mrs. Pearce at her home. Other guests included Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Adams, Mesdames Frederick T. Holliday, John D. Gould, Anna Marie Gail-Sayles, Elias C. Atkins, Meredith Nicholson Jr., Sylvester Johnson and Jesse Fletcher.

Mrs. Edgar Norvell, New York, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Munk, Brendenwood, is to be among the guests at the Adams' dinner at their home.

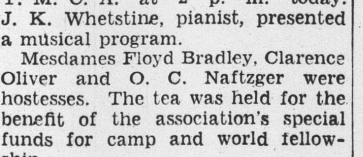

Club Honors Mothers

Fidelis Club members' mothers and Mrs. Ruth Bryant, North Park O. E. S. associate matron, were entertained by the club at an annual dinner party last night in the Silver Cup Tearoom. Miss Norma Campbell was chairman.

Family Is Conservative, But J. P. Morgan Claims Pirate as His Ancestor

Banker's Children Hold Unique Place Among New York's First Families in Never Having Been Poor; All Retain Individuality.

By HELEN WORDEN

NEW YORK, May 11.—The elder J. P. Morgan's descendants hold a unique place among New York's first families. They not only come of good stock, but they never have been poor.

There never has been any struggle among the Morgans for position and wealth because they always have had both. Which may be the reason why, as a group, they are retiring, unostentatious and conservative.

J. P., the leader, the only Morgan to bring spectacular fame to the name, likened himself to Morgan, the pirate, from whom he said he was descended. (Neither the New York Genealogical Society nor the New York Historical Society has any record of this relationship). The name of the Morgan yacht has been Corsair, the name of the pirate's ship.

But we are not concerned with the Morgans of other days. Those now living are of much more interest to us. Their ancestors are only worth mentioning as their influence is felt on these contemporary Morgans, who represent the greatest banking house family in the world.

Individuals in Own Right

Although the present Morgans are very much individuals in their own right, they all revolve about J. P., or "Jack" Morgan, the 69-year-old head.

Frances Morgan Pennoyer and her husband, Paul, live close to her father in the winter and summer. Their town house is near the huge Morgan mansion. Their summer home is at Round Bush, Locust Valley, within walking distance of J. P.'s American country home at Glen Cove.

Tall, dark, athletic Mrs. Pennoyer is married to one of the numerous partners in the Morgan banking firm. Paul's brother, Richard, who was formerly a member of the American diplomatic corps, lives in London.

She is the mother of six children, the eldest of whom, Virginia, is 19 years old. She made her debut last year at a family party given in her grandfather's Murray Hill home.

Junius "Crown Prince"

Mrs. Pennoyer's brother, Junius, is the eldest of J. P.'s four children. Though extremely active, Junius' name rarely appears in print. Born in 1892 and named for his great-grandfather, he was graduated from Harvard in 1914 and married Louise Converse the same year. They have three children, Anne, John P. and Louise, who made her debut in 1934 and is to marry Raymond Clark this autumn.

Junius Spencer Morgan's country home, like that of his father, is on an island off Long Island Sound near Glen Cove. He was associated for many years with the British branch of his father's banking house. Junius Morgan, now in the New York office, is the Crown Prince of Morgan & Co. He is also Commander of the New York Yacht Club.

Yachting Their Hobby

Mrs. George Nichols (Jane Norton Morgan) comes next to Junius. She and her husband and two children, Jane and George Jr., spend their summers and their winters in a home on Murray Hill. Little Jane made her debut last winter with her cousin, Virginia Pennoyer.

Mr. Nichols' hobby is yachting. He skippered the Weetamoe in the preliminaries for the last international yacht race at Newport, and he handled the Vanitie when Sir Thomas Lipton was over here.
