ARLINGTON HAS HEAVY PROGRAM
WITH EIGHT IMPORTANT STAKES

WITH his Detroit division joining the division from Washington Park, Hal Price Headley, noted Kentucky owner and breeder, will have 25 horses to carry his colors during the 30 days of racing at Arlington Park, Chicago, starting today. . . Dawn Play, American Derby winner, will be shipped from the East again to compete in the $40,000 Classic Stakes at Arlington on July 24. . . She showed she could show her fleet heels to colts and Max Hirsch, trainer, believes this 3-year-old will throw another surprise in the Classic over the mile and a quarter route. . . Miss Mary Hirsch, daughter of Dawn Play's trainer, will take charge of receiving the queen of the fillies when the dusky-coated daughter of Watch Tower is shipped West.

THE eight important stakes which feature Arlington's 30 days are: Today, Inaugural Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward (approximate gross, $7500); July 3, Arlington Matron Handicap, for fillies and mares, 3 years old and upward (approximate gross, $7500); July 5, Stars and Stripes Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward (approximate gross, $15,000); July 10, Hyde Park Stakes, for 2-year-olds (approximate gross, $5000); July 17, The Lassie Stakes, for 2-year-old fillies (approximate gross, $35,000); July 24, The Classic Stakes, for 3-year-olds (approximate gross $40,000); July 31, the Arlington Futurity, for 2-year-olds (approximate gross, $55,000), and the Arlington Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward (approximate gross, $25,000).

THE first condition book of the Dade Park Jockey Club for the 14th annual summer meeting has been prepared and presents a sparkling racing program beginning on Saturday, Aug. 1, and continuing 26 days, ending Monday, Sept. 6, Labor Day. . . The most liberal purses in the history of Dade Park have been offered, it was announced at the offices of the Dade Park Jockey Club in Owensboro, Ky. . . The meeting opening will be featured by the Inaugural Handicap for 3-year-olds and upward at six furlongs for a purse of $1000. . . A secondary feature for 3-year-olds and upward over the Dade Park course of one mile and 40 yards is the First Owensboro Bank & Trust Co. for a purse of $800.

FRED BERGER of the home-town Indians went to bat 16 consecutive times before he found a safe spot in the sixth inning of the second half of yesterday's double-header. . . Lee Grissom, Cincy Reds' sensational southpaw finger, pitched two shutouts in one day while with Fort Worth in 1935. . . Houston was the opposing team. . . A few months before he was purchased from Sacramento in 1934, Alex Kampouris of the Reds hit three homers and a double in a game at Seattle. . . The Reds play a twin bill with Pittsburgh at Crosley Field tomorrow afternoon. . . The Pirate tilt in the Queen City on Wednesday will be a night attraction and will be marked by the honoring of Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh manager, by the fans of Brookville, Ind., where Pie lives in the off-season.

THERE will be five nights of Grand Circuit racing at Ft. Miami Park, near Toledo, this week, starting tonight. . . The Saturday, July 3, program will be staged in the afternoon. . . Toledo is the only one of the Grand Circuit tracks to hold night racing. . . Fred Frankhouse, pitcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers, has been in baseball 15 years. . . And he stole a base the first time he stepped on catcher Todd. . . Week-end visitors at Perry Stadium, watching the Blues and Hoosiers divide twin bills, were George M. Trautman, president of the American Association; Heinie Groh, New York Giants' scout, and Jack McAllister, Boston Bees' ivory hunter.

The Indians will have two off-days this week, Friday and Saturday. . . Friday is open in the schedule and Saturday's series opener with Louisville here will be played in a double-header on Sunday-July 4. . . The Monday, July 5 program with the Colonels calls for a twilight-moonlight twin attraction as a holiday bargain.

AUSTIN TRIPS GRANT IN BRITISH TOURNEY

Donald Budge Wins Easily Over McGrath

Californian Joins Bunny in Semifinal With Play That Astounds Gallery.

By United Press
WIMBLEDON, England, June 28.—Bunny Austin, England's No. 1 player and Davis Cup mainstay, gained the semifinal round of the all-England Tennis Championship today with a straight-set victory over Bryan Grant of Atlanta. Scores were 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

Donald Budge, the California red-head, seeded No. 1, joined Austin in the round of four with a crushing 6-3, 6-1, 6-4 victory over Vivian McGrath of Australia.

Budge, who has been playing so well since he came to England that bookmakers have refused to accept any more wagers on him, showed no signs of slackening today.

In McGrath, who swats his backhand with both fists, Budge had a formidable foe, but the Californian handiuffed him with the severity of his strokes. The Californian's service was particularly ferocious, and he splattered aces all over the service court. His forehand was stinging, and McGrath found it suicide to come to the net against the American's backhand.

Don Budge . . . His play was truly amazing.

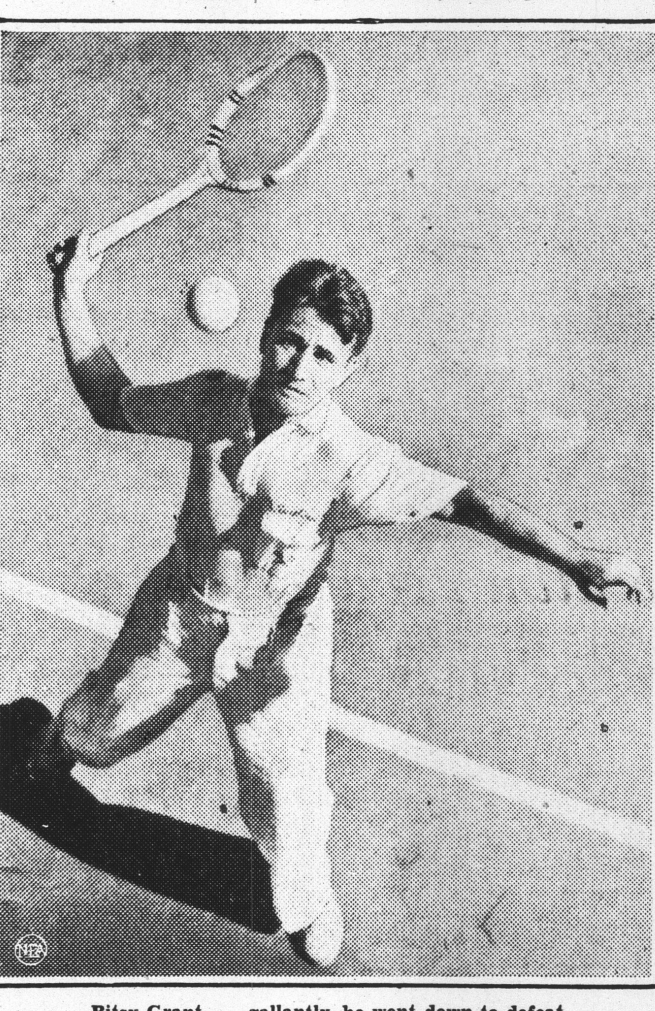

Don Astounds Crowd
Budge astounded the big gathering by the speed of his court covering. Time and again he raced across the grass to whip back what seemed impossible shots.

The Grant-Austin match ran true to form, with the Briton winning on steadiness and control. Austin's accuracy was flawless, and he ran the little American ragged with shots to the corners. Grant reached set-point in the eighth game of the second set, but his ground strokes collapsed at this point and Austin breezed in.

Grant won the crowd's acclaim in the eighth game of the final set when, despite his weariness, he beat off three match points and won the game. The Australian played in black-striped white shorts.

Alice Marble Advances
Earlier, Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, led the field into the quarterfinal round of the all-England Tennis Championships women's singles today by beating a slightly known British girl, Audrey Wright, 6-0, 6-3.

Alice Marble scored an easy 6-0, 6-2 victory over Madry Rollin Couquerque, 31-year-old Dutchwoman. Queen Mary arrived as Austin and Grant were warming up for their match. She wore a cream-colored gown, a white-plumed white toque and tinted sun glasses.

Billy Grant . . . gallantly, he went down to defeat.

Real Thrills Are Promised At Roosevelt

Hannagan Assures Joe Race Will Be Quite Different Than Last Year's.

By JOE WILLIAMS
Times Special Writer
NEW YORK, June 28.—The League of Nations on wheels. That's how Mr. Steve Hannagan gayly refers to Saturday's 300-mile automobile race over the deprezzed Roosevelt raceway on Long Island.

Fitting enough, too. The field includes the ace drivers of America, Italy, Germany, England and Norway, with Ethiopia and Hokokus, N. J. yet to be heard from.

"This will be a real world's championship," insisted Mr. Hannagan, solidly implying that most world champions are just so many shired eggs with bacon. "The winner of this race will be worthy of world-wide acclaim."

Of more importance is the rather solid promise that this year's 300 will be a real race with real competition and real excitement. If this turns out to be so the race will be superior to the 1936 inaugural on all three counts. The 1936 race was, next to the collapse of the Red Sox, the prize bust of the year.

To begin with, the racing course was designed to frustrate speed, rather than accelerate it. The unidentified genius who plotted the course was probably the same gent who proposed iron file preservers for ocean liners. Anyway, the general rationalism was just about the same.

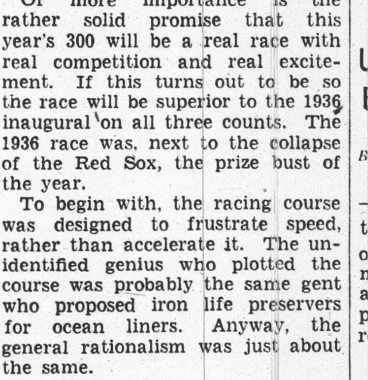

At Last! Long-Felt Need Filled; Upholstered Base Is Patented.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—What this country needs is an upholstered first base to ease the weary bodies of baseball players.

It also needs padded second bases and down-filled third bases and especially it needs interspring home plates, because if ever a baseballer wants a place to rest, it's after he's galloped from first to second to third to home, with balls whizzing around his head, spiked shoes impeding his progress and nothing to lure him on, except an extra hard place on which to fall.

These four great American needs were foreseen today by Herbert E. Orfice of Hartford, Conn. With rare understanding of what goes on inside a baseball player's head, he provided the first real improvement in 30 years of baseball history.

Mr. Orfice is the inventor of patent No. 2,084,772, the upholstered baseball base! Looks like he's got something there.

Race of the Turtles
Signor Tazio Nuvolari, a Mussolini Blackshirt, won the race with an average speed of 65 miles an hour. The pioneers did better time in their covered wagons against the wind. The primary appeal of a speed race is speed and when the drivers dawdled around the track like so many bored turtles the customers got up and left.

They weren't any too pleased at the knowledge they had been overcharged, either. The same unidentified genius had the idea the more money he charged the more customers he'd get. This led to the suspicion he was an old prize fighter promoter, but the libel was never substantiated. Anyway, the prices ran from $3.50 for steerage to $27.50 for first class cabin, deck chairs extra.

"All this has been changed," beams Mr. Hannagan, the Celtic moustache for the management. "This year the track has been made into a real racing strip and the prices scaled down to a point where they are within the reach of everyone." It should be noted, however, a good long reach is still desirable.

Test of Motors
The historic 500 at Indianapolis is the speed classic of America. This is run over a continuous two-and-a-half-mile course in the form of a bowl. The Roosevelt Raceway, even with nine turns amputated, is still a twisting, curving, bending thing, much more suited to European cars than American cars.

The race Saturday, then, promises to be more a test of special motors than special drivers. And when Mr. Hannagan says this is a real world championship he is merely doing a Bing Crosby for the innocent little starlings in the tree tops. It is a real test of the speed of the cars, and America has no road racers. If an American finishes as well as third—you can even make it fifth—he will be doing better than all right.

It's the race shapes up as a rerun of the European championship with an American locale. Not interesting except that it is always nice to see the home boys in there with a chance. You know how we patriots are. Our country right or wrong—or is it more proper these days to say right or left?

NEW YORK, June 28.—Billy Winn, little red-shirted speed demon from Detroit, today was the first probable qualifier for the Vanderbilt Cup Classic to be run here on Saturday. Combining all three of his required speed trials into one dash around the three and one-third-mile course, Winn averaged 81.605 per hour.
