Judge Herbert E. Wilson, Superior Court 5, grants a divorce to one of the 375 divorce plaintiffs being heard this week.

PRO TEM. JUDGE CALLED IN

At the same time, Laurens L. Henders on, judge pro tem., hears another divorce case in Judge Wilson's private office, to speed up the trials.

looked particularly for them, among about 1000 marchers. He estimated that 10 per cent of the demonstrators were women.

Instead of marching with the "military precision" described by police witnesses, the demonstrators walked "like picketers," Beck said. He did not hear them singing the "Internationale," Communist anthem, as alleged by the police. He heard only a chant, "C. I. O., C. I. O." One policeman had said the strikers were so loud and hysterical that he believed some were Marihuana cigarette addicts, and that others had been drinking.

Beck said he stood close to Capt. Thomas Kilroy as the latter urged the column to turn back. He identified himself in a picture taken at this point, just prior to the outbreak. The marchers crowded up to hear Kilroy, who spoke in a conversational tone which was difficult to hear in the rear ranks, Beck added.

Heard No Threats

He said he heard no epithets or threats applied to Kilroy, but that the marchers told the captain that Mayor Kelley had told them they could have as many pickets as they wanted.

La Follette questioned him closely about how the strikers and police were armed. The marchers in the front line facing the police, he said, had no arms, and were too closely packed to throw things. The police, in addition to revolvers and batons

WPA WORKERS JOIN GRASSHOPPER FIGHT

Insects Devastate Eastern Colorado Plains.

By United Press

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 2.—Grimy bewiskered and weary men fought a "last stand" today against the disastrous march of the greatest grasshopper invasion which has struck Colorado in 40 years.

Approximately 2000 WPA workmen joined the legions of farmers, National Guardsmen, soil conservation service, state highway employees and OCO boys in the fields. The heaving mass of insects has laid bare nearly 20,000 square miles of eastern Colorado plains land.

In response to an emergency plea, Federal authorities at Washington released $300,000 to bolster the weakening ranks of hopper warriors. Federal project workmen were ordered to abandon present activities and join in the eradication of the insects, which threatened crops and homes.

Governor Ammons announced a state of emergency and sent National Guard troops to aid the farmers.

Sam C. McCampbell, Colorado State College entomologist, said it was only a matter of hours until the young grasshoppers will have developed wings and will begin to leave the country by air—to ravage crops in other vicinities and reproduce in even greater numbers.

Eggs laid by the hoppers last fall hatched nearly a hundred per cent, producing young at the astounding figure of an average 257 insects to the square foot.

Rothman as "that lousy Communist." Higgins denied he spoke so of Rothman and stuck to his story of the shooting, asserting in reply to La Follette's outspoken doubts, "that's my statement, and I will not tell a lie."

patrol duty in the Johnstown strike area. Murray said the mass meeting Sunday should not be regarded either as a march or invasion of Johnstown.

Ohio Plant Reopens

In Massillon, O., Republic Steel Corp., reopened the gates of three mills today and planned to complete resumption of operations on the Ohio strike front within a week.

Almost 400 workers returned through lines of booing pickets to the central steel and union drawn steel plants to start furnaces and prepare for a mass back-to-work march at the two Massillon plants probably within 48 hours.

Militia guarded the mill gates and county officials enforced strict regulation of picketing, but strike leaders renewed their threats of trouble if the main body of steel makers attempts to return. About 4000 normally are employed.

Republic officials were expected to attempt to reopen four mills in Cleveland next week, completing their main drive against the C. I. O. strike front in Ohio.

At Youngstown, Warren and Niles, the Mahoning Valley mills of Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., reported almost normal operations.

The strike front continued tense in Canton, O., where crowds shouted frequent insults at militiamen escorting strikers to their homes and guarding the plant gates. Republic mills were reported speeding up operations there although picket lines continued active.

At Warren, O., police arrested Carl Byers, one of six men charged in warrants with participating in a terrorist bombing plot intended to cripple Republic's Trumbull plants.

Threats of violence followed a new dynamite blast at Canton which tore the porch from a nonstriker's house and damaged three other houses.

In Johnstown Pa., three non-union strikers were arrested by police. In Washington, Secretary of Labor Perkins said today she was working on certain "indefinite" steps to arrange a man-to-man conference of steel operators and strikers in an attempt to settle the five-week-old labor controversy.

In Detroit the office of the National Labor Relations Board announced that John L. Lindsay of the trial examiners' office, Washington, had been appointed to hear the Government's case against the Ford Motor Co.

The company was cited last Saturday for unfair labor practices in violation of the Wagner act in its dealings with the United Automobile Workers of America. Hearings on the charges begin in Detroit's Federal building July 6.

statements from officials concerned in the Inland settlement negotiations.

Clarence V. Randall, Inland vice president, "The C. I. O. merely accepted provisions of our labor policy which was announced before the strike started. There was no written agreement with anybody."

Governor Townsend: "The idea simply was to get the men back to work."

A. E. Daily, Sheet & Tube district manager: "Sheet & Tube will make no agreement with the S. W. O. C. or the C. I. O. either directly or indirectly, and will not make any such agreement through the Governor's office."

John Rusak, S. W. O. C. organizer: "We expect a settlement with Youngstown shortly."

Pact Called "Truce"

Townsend described the Inland agreement as a "truce" to last until there is a final adjudication of the labor board proceedings.

He referred to the NLRB hearing in Chicago of S. W. O. C. charges that Inland showed "bad faith" and thus violated the Wagner Labor Relations Act in refusing to put its signature to a written agreement.

At yesterday's session, Trial Examiner Charles A. Wood denied Inland permission to present testimony designed to show that "a signed contract with the S. W. O. C. would be used to coerce employees to join that organization."

Wood declared that whether agreements be reduced writing was a matter of law, and not of facts, and that the board was conducting a fact-finding hearing.

Ernest S. Ballard, Inland's attorney, had argued it was necessary to show the "state of mind of the corporation" in order to prove that Inland acted in "good faith" by refusing its signature. Fear that an S. W. O. C. contract would be used to coerce employees was a part of this "state of mind," he said.

NLRB Hears Testimony on Local Labor Dispute

Testimony concerning an alleged Committee for Industrial Organization-American Federation of Labor dispute which involved employees and management of the Zenith Metal Corp., 201 N. West St., was given at a regional National Labor Relations Board hearing in the State House today.

United Automobile Workers of America, Local 442, has charged the company with "influencing, coercing and intimidating" employees to join the International Association of Machinists, an A. F. of L. group.

Joseph D. Perry, Indiana C. I. O. director and former auto workers organizer, told the board the C. I. O. union had a majority of the workers in the plant in May when it asked for sole bargaining rights.

In a statement made before the hearing, John J. Garrett, company secretary-treasurer, said the company had a closed shop agreement with the A. F. of L. union, and was obliged to live up to that contract. He said the C. I. O. men were discharged, but later were rehired so that the firm could keep operating at full speed and fill its contracts. The C. I. O. union also struck for a while but returned to work.

38th St. Bridge Detour Solves City's Dilemma on College Ave. Truck Ban

Truck drivers, North Side residents and City officials today gave signs of relief as Theo. H. Dammeier, Safety Board president, claimed a solution to the knotty problem of what to do with the trucks now that they are barred from College Ave.

Harrassed by phone calls from trucking companies and property owners all day yesterday, Mr. Dammeier, Ernest Frick, Works Board secretary, City Engineer Henry Sleg and Chief Morrissey decided to drive out and inspect the one obstacle to the problem's solution—the Keystone Ave. bridge over Fall Creek.

Today, Mr. Dammeier said he had the answer. To avoid this bridge, which cannot carry heavy tonnage, trucks will be routed off Keystone Ave. on their way south at the intersection of Keystone Ave. and Allisonville Road. Then they will go south on Parkway Drive past the State Fair Grounds and across the old 38th St. bridge opposite the east entrance to the Fair Grounds.

From there they go by Orchard Ave. to 38th St. and from 38th to Sutherland Ave., which runs into Martindale Ave. This will be followed to Roosevelt Ave. and into 10th St.

Thus, the ordinance prohibiting trucks on College Ave. can be enforced, Mr. Dammeier said.

College Ave. residents appeared before the Works Board Monday and demanded that this ordinance be passed last night.

The Works Board disavowed any responsibility for enforcing this ordinance, and said it was a Safety Board job.

Then the Safety Board announced that Chief Morrissey would post signs prohibiting truck traffic on the avenue.

But complaints continued to bombard the City Hall. The Police Department transferred the calls to the City Engineer, the City Engineer back to the police. The Safety Board said it was up to the City Council, and Mr. Dammeier suggested that "one" solution was repeal of the ordinance.

All seemed hopeless until some one got the idea of detouring them around the bridge.

Robert Fahrback, 18, of 1500 S. Lyndhurst Drive, recovered the bicycle he's shown with above because of a Times photo in Wednesday's edition.

A picture of stolen bicycles in the police station showed one with the letters "C. E." painted on the seat. The youth recognized the identification as that on his bike, stolen June 16, 1936. He went to the station, gave detectives his serial number, and they gave him his bike.

He had not reported the theft to police, but, only to the sheriff's office, he said.
