

SECRET SERVICE TRACKED DOWN BY POSTMASTER

Seidensticker Proves His Ability as Master
Of Sleuthing.

Postmaster Adolph Seidensticker today prided himself on being a skillful sleuth. He had tracked down the U. S. Secret Service in Indianapolis.

A letter from Connorsville, addressed to "Room 202 P. O. Building, Indianapolis," turned Mr. Seidensticker into a "Hawshaw."

He went to the designated room in the Federal Building, the U. S. district court clerk's office, and asked them if they knew the sender of the letter or what he wanted.

A negative reply sent him to the city directory. Queries to custodians followed, and Mr. Seidensticker found the Secret Service agents were former occupants of Room 202. Construction of the new postoffice addition, however, had resulted in the removal of the Secret Service to Room 245.

More soft-shoe work and Mr. Seidensticker delivered the letter personally to Secret Service agents.

"But," explained an agent, "the letter isn't for us after all. It looks from the contents as if it'll have to be turned over to the U. S. Veterans Bureau."

Put 'Em Up

'Tough Tommy,' Aged
9, Gets Revenge
On Policeman.

By United Press
NEW YORK, July 23.—Police Lieutenant William Ryan looked up from the precinct desk to find himself staring into the muzzle of a revolver.

Behind the gun stood "Tough Tommy" Ryan, 9 years old. Lieut. Ryan remembered uncomfortably that Tommy had a score to settle with police who tricked him into confessing a $10 theft by rigging a fake "lie detector" out of an alarm clock.

"Put that gun down," cautioned the lieutenant.

"Don't be afraid," sneered "Tough Tommy." "I found it under an automobile."

A playmate verified the story and Tommy was released, but not until he had gotten his revenge on Lieut. Ryan.

"That guy," Tommy told assembled detectives, "was pretty scared."
