

Tea Party Is Planned For Friday

Mrs. Schricker to Honor Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Ralston.

Mrs. Henry F. Schricker is to entertain a small group of friends with an informal tea Friday afternoon at her home. The honor guests are to be Mrs. Clifford Townsend and Mrs. Samuel Ralston.

Summer flowers will be used in the decoration of the house. Invitations have been issued to 12 guests. Mrs. Harry Templeton is to assist the hostess.

Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Schricker are planning to leave Wednesday for their home in Knox where they are to remain for three weeks. They will be accompanied by their sons Henry Jr. and George. Their daughter, Margaret, who has been enrolled at Indiana University summer school, is to join the family at Knox. From there they are to go to their summer cottage at Bass Lake where they expect to spend much of their vacation.

Fish Avoided Mrs. Townsend's New Rod

"It's a nice new rod but it caught no fish this summer," says Mrs. M. Clifford Townsend, as she checks her fishing line and prepares to put away her tackle for the season.

Governor and Wife Return From Lake Trip Empty Handed

By MARJORIE BINFORD WOODS

There are no fish to fry at the Governor's Mansion this week, even though Governor and Mrs. Townsend just returned from a fishing and vacation trip.

"It must have been the wrong time of the moon for fish to bite," explained Indiana's First Lady, who is an ardent fisherman. After 10 days spent at Lake Wawasee, with scarcely a nibble, the Townsends visited with relatives in Madison, Wis., before returning home.

Mrs. Townsend went to the lake prepared to pull in some "whoopie," she said today, as she exhibited her shiny new steel rod with its super reel and yellow cork handle. She also took along a collapsible bamboo pole, which has brought her luck on many other summer occasions at the lake.

"Yes, and I bait my own hooks," she laughingly added. It is Governor and Mrs. Townsend's custom to get up at sunrise, "put-put" out to the middle of the lake in their outboard motor-boat, anchor and start pulling in the blue gliss and bass.

This year is the first real let-down in their fishing experience. But the trip turned out to be a real vacation of rest and relaxation in spite of the disappointment, Mrs. Townsend said.

Entertained Newbaums

Mr. and Mrs. George Newbaum were the Townsends' house guests during their stay at Lake Wawasee. They took up residence at one of the State summer cottages where Governor and Mrs. Townsend have vacationed for the last four years.

Governor Townsend utilized some of his extra fishing time by coaching his wife in the art of casting. "I suppose it's dangerous business, judging from the old jokes about husbands teaching their wives anything new," Mrs. Townsend said, "but Mr. Townsend is so fond of fishing, he doesn't mind showing me the tricks, and he has lots of patience with my inexperience."

She is eager to learn casting and has made some progress in her lessons this summer, she believes.

Tackle Plentiful

It wasn't a lack of fishing equipment that sent the Townsends home empty-handed, however. Several large tin boxes disclosed hundreds of varieties of brightly-colored artificial bait, fancy hooks, reels and variegated flies, which have been collected by the Governor for his favorite sport.

"I guess we'll have to count on doing our real fishing in Florida," Mrs. Townsend said. That is where she has had her greatest fishing thrills, she confessed as she vividly recounted landing a 28-pound sail fish off the Miami coast last winter.

The Governor and his wife plan to vacation in Florida soon after Christmas next winter, Mrs. Townsend said.

"Until then I fear that the only live fish we'll have a chance to see are the 50 fishy ones which we keep in the gold fish bowl here in the solarium at home."

Avalanche

Alters Plan Of Travel

Pettijohns Were on Train Halted by Mud And Rocks.

Mud and loose rocks piled high over the railroad tracks near Field, Canada, changed the itinerary of Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Pettijohn when they were on a recent rail trip to Lake Louise and Banff.

A glacier had broken loose, they discovered when their train suddenly stopped within 18 miles of Lake Louise.

"Such a thing is not an unusual sight for the inhabitants of that part of the country," Mrs. Pettijohn explained. "But it was a tremendous shock to us to see the train tracks and the surrounding territory being swallowed up by such a rushing avalanche."

After a delay of 18 hours, the Pettijohns and the group of Indianapolis persons with whom they were traveling abandoned the train and boarded a bus which was forced to carry them by a round-about road to their destination.

Traveled 7600 Miles

"We traveled 7600 miles in 15 days," Mrs. Pettijohn said in describing their cross-country tour, which was conducted by Vernon Hinkle.

One of the most spectacular events which they witnessed, according to Mrs. Pettijohn, was at the Texas Exposition in Dallas, Tex., during the first part of their trip. "Cavalcade," a colorful pageant showing the evolution of transportation was the production, which she described as "impressive." Wild horses, deer, oxen and automobiles all played their parts in this historical play which was held in a tremendous open theater, similar to the California Rose Bowl, this traveler related.

A myriad of fountain sprays, beautifully illuminated, were used between acts to hide the change of scenes, in place of the usual curtain, she said.

From Texas the tour extended to the Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam and on to Los Angeles, Cal. and Portland, Ore. From there the travelers went to Vancouver and home via Lake Louise and the glacier way.

Claims N. Y. Is Style Center

By United Press

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 3.—New York is now the world's leading style center, Hendrik A. Both, Rotterdam clothing merchant, said on his arrival from Holland today.

Mr. Both, here to look over the American women's dress styles, arrived on the Holland American liner Veendam.

"The big style center of the world today," he said, "is New York, and it is steadily leaving Paris behind." He said there was "a great European demand for American dresses" and added that "Hollywood has had a definite influence on women's styles in Europe."

Dutch girls are going in more and more for "slenderizing" styles, he said, because of the precedent set by the Princess Juliana, who reduced by several pounds following her marriage.
