Dixie Woman May Get Chance To Demonstrate Her Ability

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Senator Dixie Bibb Graves of Alabama is only a stopgap appointee, but she may sit through enough of the 1938 session to show that she is both an ardent New Dealer and a woman with a mind of her own. Appointed to succeed Hugo L. Black, Mrs. Graves took oath today and was seated near Mrs. Hattie Caraway the other woman Senator.

The two terms of her husband and cousin as Governor of Alabama bear the marks of her handiwork as well as of Governor Bibb Graves.

"I was a New Dealer before they ever called it that," Senator Graves said today in her soft drawl. In support of that claim, friends cited her many years of effort to improve child health, to stamp out illiteracy, to aid boys and girls in Alabama reform schools.

Mrs. Graves, who is 55, has never been a sit-at-home. When her husband, then Col. Graves, was sent to the Mexican border just before the World War, she went with him. And she was with him during the World War until he was sent overseas; she had enrolled for service abroad as a Y. M. C. A. canteen operator, but was frustrated by a general order barring officers' wives from going overseas.

After the war Mrs. Graves became a leader in the American Legion Women's Auxiliary. She is a past state president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, a member of the D. A. R., a vice president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the illiteracy committee of the general Federation.

Aids Her Husband

With the aid of New Deal funds she said today, great strides have been made in teaching illiterate adults to read and write.

In her husband's campaigns Mrs. Graves has been his chauffeur, and sometimes his understudy on the stump when he has been detained elsewhere.

She was a pioneer advocate of suffrage for women long before that idea was popular in the South.

She was asked how she would vote on the Wage-Hour Bill, which was sponsored by her predecessor, now Justice Black, but which other Southerners have blockaded in the House.

"I have never read the bill," she said, "but I favor the principle. However, as a Senator I should never vote for such an important measure without reading it thoroughly and understanding it."

Calls Special Election

Governor Graves has called a special election for next April 26 to choose a new Senator. The Democratic State Committee will set a primary date not later than 60 days before the election. If any candidate carries the primary with a clear majority, Governor Graves said today that Mrs. Graves would resign, and he would appoint the winner to the Senate at once, without waiting for the election formally.

If the top man in the primary has only a plurality, he must enter a runoff with the runner-up. If this happens, Governor Graves said, he will name the runoff winner to the Senate.

Governor Graves explained that his appointment of Mrs. Graves gives everyone an even chance for the Senatorial race, and permits
