State Makes 3-Way Attack to Solve Milk Tieup. Truckers' Heads Are Ready for Negotiations, Says Union.

PLAN IS OFFERED 2 ARRESTS MADE

Six-Point Conciliation Program Considered By Drivers. Commissioner to Ask Employers' Parley With Strikers.

The State this afternoon made a three-way attack on the Indianapolis milk tieup, now in its sixth day, and the union drivers' strike at three of the city's 24 plants.

Labor Commissioner Thomas Hutson presented union leaders with a six-point conciliation plan, and union leaders met with him to seek some revisions. Contents were revealed to no one but union leaders.

Governor Townsend, who today urged the Labor Division and the State Milk Control Board to make double efforts for a peaceful and legal settlement, met with Lieut. Gov. Henry F. Schriker and C. W. Humrickhouse, Milk Board secretary.

Board's Powers Studied. The Milk Control Board met this afternoon. It was understood that both the Milk Board and the Governor's concern were concerned with a definition of the powers conferred by the State Milk Control Act on the Board.

Strike negotiations ended Monday when the Indianapolis Milk Council adjourned after it refused to consider a plan that contained a closed shop provision and the union refused to consider a plan without one.

The Governor declared that home and store deliveries "have been held up" long enough.

"Failure of nonstriking dairies to deliver works a great inconvenience on consumers," he said. "They are paying an unfair price for milk since they are paying delivery prices for undelivered milk. And it is unfair to the independents who have no part in the controversy and yet are without income."

This is the sixth day of delivery suspension.

Mr. Humrickhouse said that if union officials file written petitions for the reduction in the price of milk to 10 cents a quart, the Board probably would set a hearing date 10 days hence in accordance with the law.

Hour Independent Protest. The Milk Board also will consider an oral petition from Frank Buckshot, an independent milk broker, who said he represented a group of independents, that the Board act to (Turn to Page Three)

Congressmen Reluctant On Call of Special Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (U. P.).—President Roosevelt today pointed the Nov. 15 special session of Congress to the legislative battle front where Democratic majorities rebuffed him in the session just closed.

Mr. Roosevelt laid down for Congress an immediate five-point domestic program weighted with crop control and legislation for minimum wages and maximum hours. His most urgent concern was the "lowest paid labor." He called for Congressional action "right away."

The immediate reaction of Congressional leaders to the special session call and to the program outlined for them by the President in a fireside chat last night was not enthusiastic.

Unnecessary, Says Republicans

Republicans generally claimed that the special session was unnecessary because "no emergency" existed. Although ardent New Dealers expressed "full accord" with the President's program, they helped defeat the President's Judicial Reorganization Bill last summer commented reservedly.

Mr. Roosevelt touched only briefly on foreign affairs in his address last night but he warned that we cannot avoid war by ignoring it.

The President placed a "decent profit" for business among his objectives.

A new office building and warehouse, to cost $150,000, is to be erected in the 1100 block W. Washington St., by the John Deere Plow Co., the company's Indianapolis office announced today.

Charles T. Moreland, company vice president, is general manager here. The home office and factory are in Moline, Ill.

An increase of $1,295,614 in the value of building permits since Jan. 1, over the same period last year, was reported today by City Building Commissioner George Popp.

Permits during the week ending Oct. 9 totaled $123,202, a decrease of $73,410 as compared with the same time a year ago, Mr. Popp said.

Ruth Chambers Opens Times Cooking School

The annual Indianapolis Times Cooking School opened today at the English Theater under the direction of Miss Ruth Chambers, widely known foods expert.

Hundreds of Indianapolis housewives attended today's session.

The Times school consists of four sessions—the first this morning, the second and third tomorrow and Friday mornings at 9:30 a. m., and the concluding session at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Miss Chambers, a member of the staff of the National Livestock and Meat Board, and former dietitian in a large hospital will demonstrate and explain more than 80 dishes during the course.

Cook books containing recipes of all the dishes demonstrated are being given at each session. All sessions are free.

The school has been conducted for several years by The Indianapolis Times and thousands of Indianapolis housewives, both beginners and experienced homemakers, have benefited from the courses. New ways of simmering, basting, boiling and roasting are being explained, in addition to pie baking and biscuit making.

In connection with the school, a carving lesson will be given Indianapolis retail meat dealers tonight at English's by Paul Goesser, also of the National Livestock and Meat Board. The demonstration will be given at the theater at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Goesser will give his carving demonstration at the fourth session of the Cooking School Friday night.

Mrs. Harvey was recovering from lacerations and bruises in a Ft. Wayne hospital, while Mr. Harvey and a 2-year-old son, Richard Lee, were only bruised. Nancy Ann was asleep in the back seat at the time of the accident, Mr. Harvey said.

The family was en route to Toledo, O., according to relatives here.

BRADY ORDERED OFFICERS, CLERK KILLED, HE SAYS

Agrees to Waive Extradition to Indiana; Plane Flight From Bangor May Be Started Later Today.

SIGNS STATEMENT AFTER GRILLING

"Seemed Glad to Get It Off His Chest," Police Official Says; "Wish They'd Got Me Too," Hoosier Outlaw Declares.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 13 (U. P.).—James Dalhover, 31, captured member of the notorious Al Brady gang of Midwestern outlaws, confessed to G-Men today that the gang was responsible for four murders, according to Bangor police.

It is reported that Dalhover willingly signed the long confession which he dictated after hours of questioning and which a stenographer typed.

"Dalhover has agreed to return to Indiana for his murder trial without an extradition fight," Police Captain Frank Foley said, "and he may leave Bangor Airport by plane later today."

Police said Dalhover's confession linked the gang with these murders:

1. Indiana State Policeman Paul V. Minneman, slain when gangsters he was pursuing after a bank holdup at Goodland, Ind., turned suddenly and opened fire.

2. Indianapolis Police Sergeant Richard Rivers, slain when Brady and Dalhover shot their way out of a police trap.

3. Highway Patrolman George Conn of Freeland, O.

4. Grocery clerk Edward Lindsay of Piqua, O., slain during a holdup. "Dalhover seemed perfectly willing to tell everything after the Federal men had worked on him awhile," said Capt. Foley, who was standing outside the desperado's cell during much of the questioning. "He seemed sick of the whole business and glad to get it off his chest."

A few hours earlier the undersized gangster had said: "I wish they'd got me, too."

Dalhover was quoted in the confession, as saying that the gang came to Maine, not bent on robbery, but merely to augment its supply of arms and ammunition.

Hideout in Bridgeport

The gang's New England hideout, Dalhover was quoted, was "somewhere in Bridgeport, Conn." The exact address was not revealed. He did say, however, that the hideout was a "house."

Bangor police were informed that Federal agents at Bridgeport were holding two women found at the address Dalhover gave as the hideout.

Though the gang had $5000 cash, neatly bundled with a rubber band, when yesterday's shootings ended its career, Dalhover told G-Men that when they broke jail in Indiana last year they had only a few dollars.

Dalhover said that yesterday's visit here was the third trip which the gang had made from the Connecticut hideout where they spent the summer.

The first trip, he said, they stopped at Alfred, Me., the second stopped Augusta, and the third, at Carmel, 12 miles from Bangor. In each case, he said, they rented overnight cabins.

It was learned that Dalhover began his confession yesterday but it was not completed until today.

Dalhover named Brady as "the Boss" and declared that the slain ringleader ordered all four of the (Turn to Page Three)

Marshall is to be arraigned Oct. 25 in Criminal Court before Judge Pro Tem, Clyde G. Karrer.
