

BRING YOURSELF BACK ALIVE THIS FALL, MR. HUNTER!

Capt. Carl James, retired United States Army officer, shows you what not to do when you go hunting this fall. Here he is seen climbing a fence with gun in hand, risking the danger of falling and causing the gun to fire.

How to keep from growing old—push your gun under the fence, thus, straight along the ground. Barrel becomes choked with weeds, dirt, or brambles, and next time you shoot at a rabbit the barrel explodes and you bag yourself. One's the limit for such "game."

Never carry a gun which is cocked and ready to fire. If your foot or your hand should happen to slip, you may kill yourself or your best friend. Also, never shoot a rabbit which wears a hat or smokes a pipe. It may be your best pal.

While you're walking, keep the gun pointed up in the air or down at the ground, and not horizontal. This is as good a way to aim at the man behind you as if you were looking directly at him, and it's twice as hard for him to duck.

campus for the home-coming game. Mayor A. H. Berndt, of Bloomington, captain and end of the "volunteers," has sent a special invitation to his teammates to be present at the squad reunion and dinner to be held tomorrow.

All I. U. football players before 1912 and those of 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932 will hold reunions. All old members of the Indiana University band also are holding their first reunion this year.

The appearance of the neighboring state university eleven in the Bloomington stadium marks the first time the Illinois have invaded Hoosier territory since the epochal battle of 1910. It was that year the visitors scouted I. U.'s conference championship hopes by winning a 3-0 game through the drop-kick route.

Home-coming festivities tomorrow and Saturday will include team reunions, the annual "grudge" battle between the eleven of the Law and Medical Schools, the band benefit ball and a "battle" between the marching bands of Illinois and Indiana between halves of the game.

All the players of the 1910 Hoosier squad are living, seven in Indiana. Those living in the state are Frank Lindsey, Jeffersonville; Walter Lewis, Indianapolis attorney; Frank Kimble, Terhune attorney; Andrew Gill, Michigan City High School athletic director; Dr. Merrill S. Davis, Marion; Walter Hoover, Indianapolis chemist, and Mayor Berndt.

Clubs Plant Fish With Aid of State

Large and small mouth black bass, bluegills and other game fish propagated in hatchery ponds operated by 163 conservation clubs, have been planted in nearby lakes and streams, Virgil M. Simmons, conservation commissioner, said today.

The plantings were completed during the week and reports indicate that the production will be bigger than in 1936 when more than a million fish were propagated. This year the 163 clubs, operating under contracts with the Division of Fish and Game, produced fish in 400 ponds with a total water area of 250 acres.

Fish propagated in the state hatcheries also are being planted this month.

Don't Fight for Seat at 50-Yard Line; Spot Near Goal Much Better, Is Claim

By DANIEL Times Special Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Every October finds the American literary scene invaded by another scientific tome, authored by a prominent college coach, on how to watch a football game. The latest contribution comes from Dr. Mal Stevens, executive in charge of gridiron adventure at New York University.

Dr. Stevens, Lou Little, Bernie Bierman and all the rest down to Percy Haughton, who was the first major campus coach to tip off the cash customer, start off too cold. They take it for granted that the fan has a friend in the ticket office who can seat him at any line designated. The average gridiron client takes what he gets—and likes it.

In his effort to wise up the innocent bystander, your college coach assumes that if the spectator knows just where to look he will carry away a picture of attack and defense that will dovetail like the dance program of the belle of the prom. As a matter of fact, two or three scouts, scouted I. U.'s conference championship hopes by winning a 3-0 game through the drop-kick route.

Home-coming festivities tomorrow and Saturday will include team reunions, the annual "grudge" battle between the eleven of the Law and Medical Schools, the band benefit ball and a "battle" between the marching bands of Illinois and Indiana between halves of the game.

Rockingham Races May Be Extended

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 14 (U. P.).—The current meeting at Rockingham Park, scheduled to close Saturday, will be extended for a three-week period, providing there is no racing at any other New England race track, Lou Smith, general manager of the local track, has announced.

The announcement followed notification by the New Hampshire Racing Commission that the asked-for extension of three weeks was granted.

Smith petitioned the commission for the extension after a declaration by Governor Quinn of Rhode Island stating that the fall meeting of the Narragansett Racing Association, scheduled to open Monday, would not be permitted to go on.

The extension of the local meeting will bring the New England racing season to a close Nov. 6.

Chicago Clubs Disband After Long Series.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (U. P.).—The Chicago White Sox and the National League Cubs began to disband for the winter today with the Sox in possession of the city title for the fourth year in a row.

Big John Whitehead, who evened the series at two games each last week, scored his second victory yesterday before 12,457 at Wrigley Field. Their 6-1 walkaway gave the Sox a 4-to-3 edge in the 1937 series.

Whitehead scattered nine hits while the Sox won seven into six runs off solemn Curt Davis, the losing pitcher, and his relief man, Jim (Tex) Carleton.

The Cubs scored in the first inning when Frank Demaree singled home Stan Hack, who led off with a double. The Sox began to roll in the second inning when Rip Radcliff singled and Appling walked. Bonura forced Radcliff at third base but
