

POULTRY CLUBS TO HOLD ANNUAL SHOW DEC. 8-12

American Bantam Association
Alone Will Enter
1500 Birds.

Poultrymen of the United States will convene here Dec. 8 to 12 for the fifth annual show of the Indianapolis National Poultry Exposition, Inc.

Headquarters will be set up in the Claypool Hotel and exhibits will be seen in the Manufacturers Building at the Fair Grounds.

Exposition officials predict the event will be the largest in the country because of the great number of club meetings scheduled and numerous requests for entry blanks.

Clubs to Convene

Twenty-one poultry clubs will hold their annual conventions here during the show, including the American Bantam Association which will enter from 1500 to 2000 birds in the exhibit.

Classifications for all standard and nonstandard breeds of poultry will be arranged, C. W. Reynolds, 819 Beville Ave., exposition secretary, said. Entries are to close Dec. 1.

Frank Conway, Indianapolis, association president, announced that several Purdue University professors will conduct programs, including lectures and moving pictures.

Stork Derby Mothers Wait $500,000 Verdict

There's a definite link between the "Stork Derby" and the scrubbing board—they go hand in hand like poverty and children, as Mrs. Matthew Kenny with her 12 offspring could tell.

More Babies on Way for Two; Youngest and Mate Reunited

Behind Mrs. Kathleen Nagle as she stands in the doorway of her Toronto home are the Nagle children of the "Stork Derby," with a fortune of $500,000 at stake.

band is an Ontario government employee, said they expected no new babies. Nine of their 10 children are living and the family is all well, Mrs. MacLean continued. With the others she is shown looking forward toward a prize share.

The older children in her family of 16 are working and helping their father pay for the big weekly food bill. Mrs. Arthur Timleck, 38, the sixth mother, explained, "No one can use the money better than her family, she said.

One thing the mothers were concerned by as they awaited the decision was that the government has taken steps to fit the amounts lawyers will receive in the case so that the bulk of the prize-winnings will not go for legal fees. No fees have yet been paid.

PROBE CONTINUED IN 3-GARAGE FIRE

Firemen today continued their investigation of a fire Saturday night which destroyed one garage, damaged two others and caused damage estimated at $500.

The fire, of undetermined origin, destroyed a garage in the rear of the home of Charles B. Denning, 4540 Park Ave. The blaze spread across the side to a garage at the rear of the home of P. B. Denning, 4535 Central Ave., and then next door to the garage of O. G. Welsh, 4545 Central Ave.

"All is well with my family," said Mrs. Annie Smith, wife of a Toronto fireman, another of the six with nine eligible children. Talking cheerfully above the music from a radio, she said she was looking forward to sharing the prize money soon.

Mrs. Isabel MacLean, whose hus-

CLAIMS SCHOOLS PERILED BY LACK OF INSTRUCTORS

Teachers College Registrar
Says Private Firms
Hiring Them.

Times Special
TERRE HAUTE, Oct. 18.—A shortage of teachers in some lines of instruction is threatening the school systems of Indiana and the nation, Harry E. Elder, Indiana State Teachers College registrar, said today.

Increasing enrollment and improved business conditions, the latter causing private concerns to hire teachers, were blamed by Mr. Elder for the shortage.

"The excellent condition of the Indiana school system is all that has prevented a crisis here," Mr. Elder explained. "Any shortage of qualified teachers, however, must be regarded as a serious problem."

The bulk of the shortage is apparent in the secondary, vocational, home economics, commerce and industrial arts, but old standbys such as Latin, women's physical education and elementary education have been affected. Mr. Elder pointed out.
