STARS ON FALL PROGRAMS

Blind Children Receive Notebooks for Music Appreciation Hour.

The late Edward A. Filene, internationally known economist and financier, will be honored tonight by leaders of organizations with which he was affiliated in a memorial broadcast over CBS at 9:45 p. m.

One of Mr. Filene's favorite phrases, "The Next Step Forward," will be the title of the program. The three speakers will be Dr. James Peter Warbasse, president of the Co-operative League of the U. S. S. F. H. Garrison, vice president of the Consumer Distribution Corp., and Claude R. Orchard, director of the Credit Union Section of the Farm Credit Administration. These men worked with Mr. Filene in the development of credit unions and the consumers co-operative movements. The Credit Union National Association and the Co-operative League of the U. S. are joint sponsors of the program.

If you weren't one of the fortunate 65,000 who placed his order in time to secure a ticket to the Minnesota-North Dakota game you can do the next best thing and listen to the broadcast of the game over almost any radio station. For two of the three major networks and WFBM will bring their listeners a detailed play-by-play account of the game. Ted Husing will describe the action for CBS-WFBM listeners beginning at 1:45 p. m. tomorrow, while Bill Stern will handle the NBC broadcast which begins at the same time. WIRE will broadcast Purdue's Day game with Iowa. WLW's Red Barber and Norman Perry Jr. of Indianapolis will be at the Cincinnati stadium mikes at 1:45 p. m. with their account. Quin Ryan will follow the play at Champaign between Illinois and Michigan for MBS-WGN listeners at 1:45 p. m.

Good Radio Music

By JAMES THRASHER

Tomorrow afternoon, if you are fortunate, you may hear a broadcast from London by the BBC Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, and with Arturo Toscanini conducting. This is the first of two broadcasts which the noted conductor is slated for this week from Queen's Hall.

Tomorrow's broadcast, which is on the NBC-Red network at 2:30 p. m., will open with the Brahms "Tragic" Overture, and conclude with the same composer's mighty German Requiem. The Overture is a sort of companion piece to the "Academic Festival" Overture, both having been written in the summer of 1880. The

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By DR. ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM

IT DEPENDS upon what sort of values you have in mind. For those immediate values that can be measured in money, the man is the more valuable, but for those social and spiritual, as well as economic, values that cannot be measured in money, such as rearing children, developing character, etc., the woman is the greater national asset. From the purely biological side the woman, as mother, is far more valuable because one man—speaking purely biologically—could be the father of many children but the woman can be the mother of only a few.

3 I THINK they do. On the physical side most of us think if we skate on thin ice or walk along a dangerous precipice or ride a fractious horse and tell ourselves the danger is merely in our imagination, it will lessen it. Sometimes, however, ignoring the danger is the one thing that makes it greater. On the spiritual side many parents think if they say, "Oh, our children are safe—they won't go wrong—they're too strong and dependable," that this eliminates the danger. But it makes it all the greater.
