

Shows Her Ability at Loom

Twelve-year-old Nellie Woolery demonstrates her ability in the practical arts class at School 54, 10th and Dearborn Sts. She is shown working at a loom. Floy G. Hurt is her teacher.

JUDGE TO DECIDE GIRL'S GUARDIANS

A Juvenile Court hearing has been set for Thursday to determine whether Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hogue are proper guardians for 12-year-old Nellie Stevens, their foster-daughter, who recently ran away from home for six days. She has told officers she feared a scolding because of her school grades.

The child was found, cold and hungry, after being gone from the home, 3311-Crescent Ave., for about a week. The child's father, who lives in Fostoria, O., has been subpoenaed for the hearing, court officials said.

'CORN' WEDDING TO BE CLARIFIED

Ryan, Youthful Heir, Says He Will 'Bring Into Open' Nuptial Mystery.

HICKORY, N. C., Nov. 16 (U. P.).—Basil Ryan, youthful heir to the Thomas Fortune Ryan millions, announced today that he would stay in Hickory and "bring into the open" all the mysterious circumstances surrounding his marriage to Martha Barkley of Morganton, N. C.

The wealthy New York youth was released from Memorial Hospital late yesterday. He had been there for an "intestinal disorder" treatment since Nov. 5, the day after he married Miss Barkley, a 21-year-old mother of a 2-month-old child.

Ryan said the only genuine statement made concerning the wedding was the one made by his former attorney, C. W. Bagby, who said the marriage ceremony was performed while Ryan was "full of North Carolina corn."

Ryan was a victim of a weakness for liquor, Bagby said.

Ryan, who engaged W. A. Self to act as his attorney after Bagby resigned, said he had talked with his wife and told her there was "no love between us and we might as well come out in the open about the whole affair."

The bride, asserting that Ryan was not intoxicated when he married her, previously had said she refused to believe her husband regretted the marriage unless he himself told her so.

Ryan said:

"It was just a case of too much liquor."

"I regret deeply the situation in which the young lady and her family are placed."

He declined to reveal his immediate plans except to say he will "live in this city for the time being, at least."
