

Fashionable Society Crowds Theater Foyer During Intermission of Symphony Program

Coronets and Ermine Add Splendor at Night Concert of Orchestra

Intent Faces Relax During 'Till Eulenspiegel's Pranks'; Artists' Club Ball Pokes Fun at Herron Art Institute's Horse.

By VIRGINIA MOORHEAD MANNON

Fabien Sevitzy, whose flight here amid lightning and thunder one hot day last summer resulted in his becoming Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra conductor, took the town by storm with Saturday's first-night concert. His every gesture of direction expressed the mood of glorious music.

The regally gowned feminine part of the audience was in perfect harmony with the program. Yards of ermine went into evening wraps. Coronets, gold and pearl headresses and veils draped with brilliant added touches of splendor to the women's costumes. The satin lapels of the men's evening clothes gleamed in the light reflected from the orchestra shell.

The gentlemen, on the whole, took their music seriously. During the "Euryanthe" overture and the Dubensky Fugue, first numbers on the program, a candid camera would have captured their intent expressions. Here and there a chin was cupped in a hand and a brow slightly furrowed. The women, with their coats gracefully draped behind their shoulders, occasionally closed their eyes while listening. One buried her face in the flowers she held. Ferdinand Schaefer, orchestra founder and conductor emeritus, sat erect in his box, his snowy beard gleaming. After the opening strains of "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," faces relaxed as listeners were carried along by the gay notes of the tone poem.

The Mura's foyer was electrified by flash bulbs as scores of pictures of Symphony patrons were taken. Mrs. Frederic Ayres, women's committee president, wore a rose-colored wrap over her lacy gown. Mrs. Eli Lilly was in blue and silver lace. Mrs. William Wemmer's black and silver dress was partially concealed by her ermine wrap. Mrs. Charles Latham, membership chairman of the women's committee, wore rose lace and Mrs. Herbert M. Woolen, ways and means committee chairman, wore blue and red changeable taffeta. Mrs. Robert Tyndall wore a deep red wrap over her black gown. Mrs. Frank Shields wore white satin with a bow of mink and a tall gold headress. Mrs. Edward E. Gates Jr., Mrs. Clarence Ercymson and Mrs. Paul R. Matthews were in black. Mrs. Kurt Pantzer wore white with a coronet of pearls.

Mrs. G. H. A. Clowes, who with Dr. Clowes entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Sevitzy after the concert, also wore white. Mrs. Samuel Lewis Shanks, one of the boxholders, wore a black gown beneath her ermine wrap and a headress of pink flowers and black net. Mrs. Maxwell V. Coppock wore a duodenet lace. Mrs. Evans Woolen Jr.'s long sapphire velvet evening coat was collared with mink. Mrs. A. W. Herrington wore a deep red gown beneath her black velvet evening wrap.

Also seen in the foyer were Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus R. Baker and Mrs. Paul Richey, Mr. and Mrs. D. Laurence Chambers and Miss Evelyn Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sinclair, Mrs. Robert Sinclair and the Misses Mary and Elsie Sinclair, Mrs. Garvin Brown and Miss Nina Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Tharp, Dr. and Mrs. Lyman Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Matson, Mrs. Raymond P. VanCamp and Mrs. Rosamond VanCamp Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Clippinger, Mrs. John H. Darlington, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Howe, Mrs. Lafayette Page, Miss Martha Ellen Clark and George Clark, Miss Jeanette Fishbein, Charles S. Rau, Bomar Cramer, Louis Schwitzer, Louis Schwitzer Jr., Dr. Abram S. Woodward and Mrs. and Mrs. R. Hartley Sherwood.

While music dominated the early part of Saturday evening, art held its feast on into the night. The famous horse which stands on a pedestal in front of the Art Institute were the subjects of one of the dozen surrealist panels with which art school students decorated the walls.

Wilbur Peat, John Herron Art Institute director, Donald Mattison, art school director, and the famous horse which stands on a pedestal in front of the Art Institute were the subjects of one of the dozen surrealist panels with which art school students decorated the walls.

After a grand march which included a street lamp, a bird cage, a camera, a dining table with a flower centerpiece and a long green caterpillar with 12 pairs of legs, prizes were awarded for outstanding costumes. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Head's surrealist costumes won the prize for the most beautiful. Miss Bonnie Blake with a face painted on her back was awarded the prize for the most unique. Miss Beth Woodruff, garbed as a Russian girl, was judged most authentically costumed and Miss Mary Lou Webb, as a child bride, most risqué. To Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hunt went the prize for the most comic outfit. Mr. Hunt represented Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen. Prizes were pictures donated by Elmer E. Taftinger, Wanda Gay, William Kaeser, John Zvara and Randolph L. Coats.

Henrik Mayer won the first prize for the Indiana Artists' Club exhibit, recently held at L. S. Ayres & Co. Miss Helen Griggs received second prize and Theodore Van Voorhes, third. Other prize winners were Miss Dorothy Spiegel, Will Hunt and Floyd Hopper.

Club Ready For Holiday Festivities

Several Hundred Columbians to Eat Thanksgiving Dinner Together.

A variety of holiday events for Columbia Club members and their families have been announced by the club entertainment committee. Special preparations are being made by the club's catering staff to serve several hundred Thanksgiving dinners to members who are to forego their usual home dinner this year.

Thanksgiving dinner service is to be from 12 o'clock noon until 9 p. m. with dinner dance music by Amos Ostel's orchestra in the main dining room from 7 to 9 p. m.

Dance on Friday Night

The annual Thanksgiving formal dance for junior members and sons and daughters home from school is to be held Friday night. Daily rehearsals are being held by the juniors in the club ballroom for the floor show, which is being directed by Gilmore Johnson Jr. and Miss Barbara Drummond.

The highlight of the show is to be a "Big Apple" dance exhibition by a group composed of Misses Betty Dobyns, Eloise Akin, Joan Rossebo, Sue Ann Knippenberg, Phyllis Hadden, Virginia Robinson, Wilbur Allison, Dick Carson, Jim Tree, Jerry Eaton, George Moore, Miss Drummond and Mr. Johnson. George Moore is to be master of ceremonies.

On Wednesday, Dec. 8, the club is to hold a Christmas bridge-luncheon for club women and their guests. Mrs. George W. Pierce, Anderson, is to be hostess chairman. A group of out-of-town members are to assist her.

Juniors Plan Party

Two special holiday events are to take place Sunday Dec. 19. The annual Christmas party for club children is to be held in the afternoon from 2 to 5 p. m. and the 18th annual Christmas recital of Ogden's Junior Chorus is to be given in the main dining room during the dinner hour Sunday night.

The annual Christmas dance for senior members and guests is to be held in the club ballroom Friday night, Dec. 24. Saturday, Christmas night, club juniors are to stage their Yuletide dance.

Special entertainment is being planned by a committee of juniors. A tea dance is to be given in honor of young people home from schools at the club Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 29.

The grand finale of the holiday entertainment is to be Dec. 31 when the club is to hold its annual New Year's Eve dinner-dance and frolic. Considered by Columbians the outstanding affair of the year, many members have already made reservations for the New Year's party.

Mrs. Spencer to Talk. Mrs. Spencer is to discuss "Work of a Hotel Social Secretary" at a Woman's Rotary Club meeting at 12:30 p. m. today in the Columbia Club. Miss Stella Doepfers is program committee chairman.
