

HOOSIER CROWNED HAY KING AT WORLD LIVESTOCK SHOW; PURDUE TAKES EIGHT FIRSTS

Robinwood Farms, Greensburg, Wins Shorthorn Bull Prize; Canadian Awarded Chicago Wheat Crown; 4-H Champions Named.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (U. P.)—George Sauerman, Crown Point, Ind., today retained his title of hay king of the world at the 38th annual International Live Stock Exposition in the International Amphitheater here.

Gordon Gibson, Ladner, B. C., was crowned wheat king. Reserve championship went to L. E. Peterson, Victor, Mont., for the second successive year.

Purdue University was one of the leading winners, taking first place in poultry judging, and in pens of Berkshire barrows, exhibiting the champion pen, the best 200 to 240-pound pen, the best 240 to 300-pound pen and the best pen from one sire.

The champion wether lamb was exhibited by W. J. Brodie, Stouffville, Ontario. Oklahoma A. & M. College was reserve champion.

Jess C. Andrews of West Point, Ind., took second prize in the south-down wether competition.

The winning wheat was a sample of hard red spring wheat of the Reward variety, weighing 65.2 pounds per bushel. Mr. Peterson, who won the 1936 barley championship, exhibited a sample of hard red winter wheat, Montana 36 variety.

The champion wheat sample came from the same farm on which the field pea champion samples of 1930, 1933 and 1934 were grown by the new wheat king's father, W. G. Gibson.

Selection of the champion steer, high point of "agriculture's world fair," is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Approximately 14,000 entries from 42 states and four Canadian provinces sought livestock honors and 5,000 entries from 30 states, six Canadian provinces and Australia competed for hay and grain awards.

The national 4-H Club Congress, held in conjunction with the exposition, selected Franklin Spore, 19, Kildare, Okla., as national meat animal champion. He received a $300 scholarship. A second place scholarship of $200 went to Arthur Young, 19, Clearwater, Kas., and Rudolph Reusker, 20, Lewistown, Mo., third, won a $100 scholarship.

Indiana 4-H Club award winners included Marjorie Patrick, Cloverdale, best tallied or semitallied outfit; Elizabeth Van Sickle and Mary King, Indianapolis, best children's garments; Eileen Simmons, Lebanon, best wool dress or suit; Jeanette Dorothy Arvide, Lafayette, five jars of different vegetables; Alice Haebl, Indianapolis, five jars of fruit.

LAFAYETTE, Nov. 29.—Indiana corn growers have 210 entries in the

IN INDIANAPOLIS

Here's County Traffic Record

| Deaths                 | Accidents               |
|------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1937 (to date).....136 | (Nov. 27 and 28).....20 |
| 1936.....141           | Injured.....20          |
| Deaths in City         | Dead.....1              |
| 1937.....92            |                         |
| 1936.....111           |                         |

| Arrests                 | Speeding |
|-------------------------|----------|
| (Nov. 27 and 28).....13 | 13       |
| Reckless Driving        | 4        |
| Running Preferential    | 10       |
| Running Red             | 10       |
| Light                   | 9        |
| Drunken Driving         | 5        |
| Others                  | 26       |

MEETINGS TODAY

(Also See Women's Events, Page Six)
 Indianapolis Press Club, dinner, 6 p. m.
 Service Club, luncheon, Hotel Lincoln, noon.
 Irvington Republican Club, meeting, 8 p. m., 2000 Irvington St.
 Delta Upsilon, luncheon, Board of Trade, noon.
 North Side Realtors, luncheon, Canary College, noon.
 White River Chapter, Izak Walton League, dinner, Indianapolis Athletic Club, 8 p. m.
 Salesmen Club, luncheon, Hotel Washington, noon.
 Big Four Social Club, dinner, Hotel Washington, 8 p. m.
 Indiana Trade Association, luncheon, Hotel Washington, noon.
 Club Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 Steel Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 Building Owners and Managers, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 Indiana University Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 Roman, Rotary, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 Sigma Delta Sigma, dinner, Columbia Club, 8 p. m.

MEETINGS TOMORROW

Rotary Club, luncheon, Claydon Hotel, noon.
 Indiana Municipal League, meeting and luncheon, Claydon Hotel, 9 a. m.
 Knights of Columbus Lunch Club, Hotel Washington, noon.
 Alpha Tau Omega, luncheon, Board of Trade, noon.
 Gays Club, luncheon, Spink-Arms Hotel, noon.
 Motor Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 University Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.
 University of Michigan Club, luncheon, Board of Trade, noon.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

(These lists are from office records at the County Court House. The Times, therefore, is not responsible for errors in names or addresses.)
 Charles Hood, 21, Connersville; Mary West, 18, city.
 Charles Lauder, 28, of 25 Wisconsin St.; Lucile Williams, 18, of 818 S. Meridian St.
 Cornelius Crispin, 18, city; Mae Perin, 18, city.
 Jack Christensen, 48, of 1231 N. Illinois St.; Martha DeFov, 24, of 1231 N. Illinois St.

This Is News! Dog Shoots Man

Everyone knows that when a dog bites a man, it's not news. But when a dog shoots a man with a 12-gauge shotgun, that's news, and it may sound very comical to everyone but Cecil Parthemer, 31, inset, who is fighting for life in a Warren, O., hospital, and his dog, Queen, the remorseful beagle shown above with the fatal weapon on her master's bed. Mr. Parthemer rested his gun on a fence while hunting. The dog jumped up and touched the trigger with her paw, sending a full charge of wadding and shot into Parthemer's chest and armpit.

F. D. R. Urges 5-Year Private Housing Drive to Fight Slump

(Continued from Page One)

of mortgages insurable would be modified.

2. Encouragement of national mortgage associations by allowing sale of debentures up to a 20-to-1 ratio to their capital. Financing of a $50,000,000 association by the RFC to "provide the basis for $1,000,000,000 of private funds obtainable through the sale of national mortgage association debentures."

3. Extension of FHA features to allow increase of small property loans from 80 to 90 per cent and reduction of interest rates from 5% to 5% or 5% per cent, depending on the property evaluation.

4. Expansion of FHA to cover loans up to $200,000 on large-scale building projects instead of the present $100,000 limitation. This extension would be contingent upon the requirement that the mortgage does not exceed $1000 a room on the structure or structures.

5. Liberalization of existing limited requirements of the act, releasing dwellings in this category from blanket mortgages where the mortgage does not exceed $1200 a room and the value of the dwelling is not in excess of $50,000.

6. Revival of insurance provisions for repair and modernization loans similar to those provided by FHA up to last April 1.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and chairman of the informally constituted housing committee appointed by the President, emphasized the program will not require any additional appropriation.

He said the plan did not contemplate any competition with private enterprise except in the case of very large loans and that business would be given the first chance to avail itself of opportunity in this field.

Copies After England
 Mr. Eccles outlined the full import of Mr. Roosevelt's plan, including some details not mentioned in the message but which will be contained in the Administration's measure when Senator Wagner presents it.

"What is being undertaken here," he said, "is in line with the experience of Great Britain and other countries. If we can lower interest rates and construction costs we will place home ownership within the reach of families previously barred."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

He said the Administration expected to request State Governments to amend existing "unfair" foreclosure laws and take other measures to facilitate the construction revival.

"We hope to crystallize public attention on the problem," he said. "It becomes practicable under this program for builders to undertake large scale projects, to buy large volumes of materials at wholesale prices, and thus to assure labor of an annual wage at a higher level than present yearly income in return for reduced hourly rates. This is a problem to be worked out through the co-operation of contractors and unions."

BOETCHER AND COUNCIL PLAN SMOKE PARLEY

City Medical Society Not to Enter Soot Fight Unless Requested.

(Continued from Page One)

It is some time ago and was defeated. It is to be reintroduced.

Roy O. Johnson, Smoke League attorney, in a letter to Richard W. Tubbs, Coal Merchants Association president, asked the dealers to "match whatever reduction the Citizens Gas & Coke Utility might make in coke prices."

Mr. Johnson's letter read: "Investigation shows that the Citizens Gas & Coke Utility has raised the price of coke 50 cents a ton at two different times this year. In other words, before these two raises, coke was being delivered to the retail coal merchant at $6 per ton.

"Could the retail coal merchants make deliveries directly to the consumer from the yards of the Citizens Gas & Coke Utility if the company would provide the equipment so that deliveries could be made direct and thus eliminate the expense of shipping coke from the ovens to the yards of the retail merchant?"

The letter added that a league committee "would be glad to meet with a committee of the Citizens Gas & Coke Utility for the purpose of discussing these propositions."

Mr. Johnson said "that if the utility and association would cooperate, smokeless fuel would be made available to the consumer at a reasonable price."

He recalled that Thomas L. Kemp, Citizens Gas manager, had said recently that "the expenditure of $75,000 would equip the plant for direct deliveries."

"Coke is delivered from the ovens of the Citizens Gas and Coke Utility by freight to the various retail coal merchants of the city. This adds a burden to the consumer and a loss to the utility or by the retail coal merchant," Mr. Johnson said.

"Should it cost $75,000, it would be a drop in the bucket to the money that would be saved for the consumer over a period of time, and since this is a municipally owned and operated institution, the consumers' interest should be considered."

He also announced that the League's Smoke Abatement Ordinance Committee would interview members of the Council to "ascertain their views on the features of the amendments which are being proposed for adoption."

The demand was contained in formal, written representations lodged with the Japanese Foreign Minister, Koki Hirota, on Sunday by American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew. Mr. Grew had made informal representations.

Frenchmen in detail of all that was said at the meeting of Lord Halifax and Chancellor Hitler, and Britain and France will then discuss the next thing to do.

That may prove a vital step. Unlike most conferences, this one between the spokesmen for Britain and France has behind it the armies and navies of the earth's mightiest empires.

Britain and France want peace, but if Chancellor Hitler's terms are too high, they will be turned down. If Chancellor Hitler insists on settling the issue on the battlefield, France and Britain will pick up the gauntlet. They would do so reluctantly, but pick it up they would.

That is what the London parley is all about. Britain and France do not want to pick up anybody's gauntlet. That is why Premier Chamberlain sent Lord Halifax to talk with Chancellor Hitler. He wanted to find out exactly what the Chancellor Hitler wanted so that Britain in consultation with France could determine whether they could pay the price.

If there is another general European war, the practical Mr. Chamberlain holds, nobody can win. All will lose. Europe will be left a shambles and out of the ashes

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Blood Donor Offers Life as Aid to Others

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 29 (U. P.)—All the time that he was selling his own blood to survive the depression, Roger Carr sensed a paralyzing numbness creeping through his body. Now he is crippled by the malady, doctors know no cure for it, and he is ready to sacrifice his life to medical science in hopes of saving others from his fate.

His disease is called "multiple sclerosis." It is described as "a chronic disorder of the nervous system characterized by small areas of hardening in the brain or spinal cord or both."

Doctors think his affliction was caused by the many transfusions he underwent and that there is no danger of his having transmitted it to others to whom he gave his blood. They say he will die in a few years unless some new cure is discovered and that an operation likely would kill him immediately. They refused to operate on him but today he insisted that they do so.

"I'm offering my life as a last resort in an effort to discover a cure," he said. "I only hope it will be of benefit to the medical world."

No doctor has replied yet.

Once Carr worked for a blood transfusion agency in Detroit when he could find no work. He submitted to 23 transfusions. He earned $25 for each transfusion and usually gave a pint or more of blood.

He was a member of his school's R. O. T. C. and attended the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Ft. Benjamin Harrison last summer. His hobbies were amateur radio work and aviation.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf A. Jaenisch Sr., and a sister, Mary Josephine, 13.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Moore & Kirk Irvington Mortuary. Burial is to be in Washington Park.

Grace Rollin, 35, whose address police were unable to learn, was reported in critical condition in City Hospital today.

After the accident, Cason's car skidded 50 feet and careened onto the sidewalk, officers quoted witnesses as saying.

Injured when struck by an auto in the 3500 block W. Washington St., Miss Mary Keney was reported in fair condition in City Hospital.

Mrs. Lillian Paddock, 43, Dayton, O., was in Methodist Hospital today as the result of truck-and-car collision on Road 431 at Woodland Drive. Her husband, Doyle Paddock, was treated in the hospital and released.

Harold Trussell, Detroit, driver of the tractor-truck, was fined $15 in Municipal Court on reckless driving charges.

Trussell told deputy sheriffs today that his trailer swerved to the opposite side of the road as the Paddock car was passing.

Charges of drunken driving, running a preferential street and failing to give a police car right-of-way were placed against Mrs. Caroline Fields, 32, 736 Lexington Ave., after her auto struck a police car at 25th St. and Keystone Ave., late Saturday.

Allen Morgan, 28, of Kokomo, was in Methodist Hospital with injuries received when the car he was driving skidded on streetcar tracks at Pershing Ave. and Washington St.,

Washington, Nov. 29 (U. P.)—The United States has served a demand upon that the United States be consulted to "ascertain their views on the features of the amendments which are being proposed for adoption."

The demand was contained in formal, written representations lodged with the Japanese Foreign Minister, Koki Hirota, on Sunday by American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew. Mr. Grew had made informal representations.

Frenchmen in detail of all that was said at the meeting of Lord Halifax and Chancellor Hitler, and Britain and France will then discuss the next thing to do.

That may prove a vital step. Unlike most conferences, this one between the spokesmen for Britain and France has behind it the armies and navies of the earth's mightiest empires.

Britain and France want peace, but if Chancellor Hitler's terms are too high, they will be turned down. If Chancellor Hitler insists on settling the issue on the battlefield, France and Britain will pick up the gauntlet. They would do so reluctantly, but pick it up they would.

That is what the London parley is all about. Britain and France do not want to pick up anybody's gauntlet. That is why Premier Chamberlain sent Lord Halifax to talk with Chancellor Hitler. He wanted to find out exactly what the Chancellor Hitler wanted so that Britain in consultation with France could determine whether they could pay the price.

If there is another general European war, the practical Mr. Chamberlain holds, nobody can win. All will lose. Europe will be left a shambles and out of the ashes

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

Today, France's Premier Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Delbos are scheduled to arrive in England for a conference with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Thus Europe's traveling statesmen are reaching the point where the British leaders will inform the

whittling out the Rome-Berlin axis while making a bid for the support of Warsaw, Belgrade, Sofia, Bucharest and even London. The Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street have been in constant communication and last week Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the British Cabinet Council, paid a visit to Germany.

TRAFFIC CLAIMS ONE HERE AND SIX OVER STATE

Tech Pupil Dies After He Drives Cycle Into Auto's Path.

(Continued