

Pink Evening Coats of Huntsmen Add Glitter To Colorful Ball Here

Ladies Wear Traditional Red, Black and White; Chicago Opera Ballerina Entertains; Orchids on Everybody's Budget.

By VIRGINIA MOORHEAD MANNON

There's nothing like huntsmen's pink evening coats to add a dash of drama to a party that's pretty dazzling anyway. Rose colored lights playing upon silvered laurel wreaths, silver table cloths and clusters of American Beauty roses made a glamorous setting for the Traders' Point Hunt ball Saturday evening in the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

Sequins and full-skirted evening dresses, enormously smart now, were everywhere in evidence. Orchids seemed to be on everybody's budget. The gentlemen displayed the hunt colors in the burgundy velvet collars and robin's egg blue sateen lapels of their dress coats. Many of the women followed the custom of wearing red, white or black evening gowns, traditional for hunt affairs.

The 300 hunt members and their guests were entertained by strolling musicians, the dancing of Ruth Pryor, prima ballerina of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and the impromptu Big Apple-ling of some 15 or 20 of the younger set. Supper was served after midnight.

Before a screen of hemlock bows in the foyer, Mrs. Otto N. Frenzel Jr., wife of the hunt president, and Mrs. Earl B. Barnes, ball committee chairman, received the guests. Mrs. Frenzel wore a black net Carnegie gown with anthracite paillettes. Mrs. Barnes also wore a Carnegie model of white Venetian lace with blue moire sash.

Ball committee members included Mesdames August C. Bohnen, Eugene C. Miller, Charles Mayer, Cornelius O. Allig, George M. Bailey, Conrad Ruckelshaus, William H. Wenner, Hiram Wasson McKee, Russell Fortune Jr. and Frenzel.

Mrs. Nathan C. Graham, who with Dr. Graham had entertained a number of guests for dinner, wore silver lame with a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Charles J. Cronin Jr., Louisville, wore black mouseline de sole and Mrs. Allison Williams, Columbus, Ga., also in Dr. and Mrs. Graham's party, was in black crepe with sequins bodice. Mrs. Frank Shields, gown was garnet velvet. Mrs. Russell Fortune wore roses with her striped sateen evening dress. Mrs. Herbert Pinnell wore gardenias in her hair and a white sateen accented pleated gown with rhinestone straps. Mrs. J. Elder Blackledge's white crepe gown was embellished with brilliant and gold embroidery. Mrs. Hortense Rauh Burpee and Mrs. Michael J. Fansler were in black velvet. Yellow roses set off Mrs. Erwin C. Vonnegut's green sateen gown. Mrs. Harry Hartley wore white sateen with gardenias and Mrs. Robert H. Tyndall wore pink net.

With her black velvet gown Mrs. Herbert M. Woollen wore camellias. Mr. and Mrs. Woollen had as their guest Gordon Mendelssohn, Milbrook, N. Y., and Birmingham, Mich. Mr. Mendelssohn, who was Mr. and Mrs. Woollen's guest at last year's hunt ball, rides with the Milbrook and Bloomfield Hills Hunts.

Mrs. Jesse Fletcher wore white lace with crystal beads. Gold sequins trimmed Mrs. Austin H. Brown's black crepe gown. Mrs. R. Kirby Whyte wore a black headress with her black evening gown. Mrs. Ralph Lockwood was in gold sateen. Silver lame fashioned Miss Julia Brink's gown and gold lame was Mrs. Eugene Miller's choice.

Mrs. John D. Gould and Mrs. Garvin M. Brown, who with their husbands had dined with Cornelius O. Allig, hunt master of foxhounds, and Mrs. Allig, arrived together. Mrs. Gould wore pink moire with pink flowers and Mrs. Brown was gowned in gold brocade with red flowers. Mrs. Bowman Elder wore pink lame.

Mrs. Ralph Lieber, who with Mr. Lieber attended the party with Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Bobbitt and Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick M. Ayres Jr., wore burgundy velvet. Gold sequins set off Mrs. Bobbitt's red chiffon gown and Mrs. Durham wore black crepe.

Mrs. Raymond P. VanCamp, whose party had previously attended the symphony concert, wore a black crepe gown trimmed with red and green paillettes. With her were Mrs. Rosamond Van Camp Hill, who wore red velvet, and Mrs. George Ziegler, who wore a pale blue gown beaded with crystals.

Mrs. William C. Griffith, who with Mr. Griffith had entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Holliday and Mr. and Mrs. Keyes W. Atkins at dinner, wore white sateen embellished with gold bugle beads. Mrs. Holliday's gown was white sateen and Mrs. Atkins' black crepe.

Messrs. and Mesdames Lyman S. Ayres, John G. Williams, David P. Williams, Miss Janet Noyes and her fiancé, Frederic M. Ayres Jr., were together. Mrs. Ayres wore black crepe. Mrs. John G. Williams, apple green net; Mrs. David P. Williams, gold sateen, and Miss Noyes, black mouseline de sole with rhinestones.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Kaufman gave a large dinner party at the Indianapolis Athletic Club before the ball. Mrs. Kaufman wore black crepe with rhinestones. Her house guest, Mrs. Harry Lantz, Richmond, wore a black crepe gown trimmed with sapphire sequins. A red sash and red headress accented Mrs. Herbert E. Duckwall's sapphire sequin dress. On Mrs. Ray Mulvill's black net gown were Paris green paillettes. Burgundy velvet and sequins fashioned Mrs. Ray D. Brown's evening dress. Mrs. Homer Lathrop wore red and Mrs. Arch V. Grossman wore black crepe.

Mrs. Alfred W. Noling wore black crepe trimmed in red and blue. Mrs. Maxwell Coppock's gown was red crepe and Mrs. Harold B. Tharp's, white. Mrs. Perry E. O'Neal's gown was gold sateen. Black velvet at the hem and black velvet bow accented the ecru lace gown of Mrs. William H. Ball, Muncie. Mrs. W. I. Longworth wore apple green crepe. Mrs. Walter W. Kuhn wore a red jacket over her black print dress. Pink and blue sateen fashioned Miss Alice Vonnegut's frock and Mrs. Robert B. Rhoads wore white chiffon with sequins.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto N. Frenzel Jr. sat together at the ball. Mrs. Sylvester Johnson Jr. wore green sateen. Mrs. C. Harvey Bradley, black crepe, and Mrs. Robert P. Scott Jr., silver lame. Together also were Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Adams and their dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Haerle. Mrs. Adams' gown was blue and silver lame; Mrs. Dunn's was white brocade and Mrs. Haerle's sapphire mouseline de sole and sequins.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Krannert entertained a group for dinner at the Columbia Club before the ball. Mrs. Krannert's white gown was brilliant with silver paillettes. Mrs. George M. Bailey, who with Mr. Bailey was for several years joint master of the hunt, wore burgundy lace with her blue sateen gown. Mrs. William B. Stokely Jr. was lovely in white mouseline de sole and Mrs. John B. Stokely wore white crepe with a red sash. Green brocade fashioned Mrs. Paul R. Matthews' gown and green net, Mrs. Kurt P. Pantzer's. Mrs. Elsa Pantzer Test chose sapphire blue crepe with silver paillettes.

Mrs. Conrad Ruckelshaus was charming in rose taffeta with a bouffant skirt and a band of fur on the bodice of her gown. Mrs. Richard Fairbanks Jr. wore pink chiffon. Mrs. Thomas Ruckelshaus wore black crepe with silver and her house guest, Miss Marjorie Garland, Washington, wore black crepe. A Juliet cap of gold sequins with a black veil studded with sequins set off Miss Hortense Rauh Burpee's black crepe gown. Mrs. Henry C. Atkins Jr. wore white sateen. Accordion-pleated blue crepe trimmed with burgundy velvet was lovely on Mrs. Wells Hampton. Miss Joan DeHaven wore turquoise net and Mrs. Pearson Smith wore sapphire velvet.

Mrs. William C. Bobbs' gown was brown velvet with sequins and Mrs. William Guy Wall wore black velvet. Mrs. Donald Test, who with Mr. Test entertained at dinner preceding the ball, wore burgundy velvet. Mrs. Ralph Brown's gown was primed lame and Mrs. Frank Hoke's, white brocade.

Mrs. Joseph E. Cain was lovely in gold lame with red flowers in her hair. Mrs. Dorothy H. Alford wore blue crepe with dark red peonies and Mrs. August C. Bohnen's gown was white chiffon with iridescent paillettes.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wenner, too, entertained at dinner in their home before the ball. Mrs. Wenner's gown was white crepe; her mother, Mrs. William T. Eisenlohr, wore burgundy lace. Mrs. Jeremiah L. Cadick's gown was green velvet and Mrs. John P. Collett's blue and silver lame. Mrs. John Gordon Kingham wore black lace.

Mrs. Samuel B. Sutphin wore pearl gray chiffon and Mrs. Roger Wolcott, silver lame. Mrs. Russell Ryan's gown was black net and velvet and Mrs. W. Hathaway Simmons' black crepe. Mrs. Charles Mayer wore pink sateen. Mrs. Dudley E. Gallahue was lovely in red crepe and Miss Josephine Madden's gown was white brocade.
