

CURB ON LABOR STRIKE RIGHTS CALLED INVALID

National Board Tells Congress Legal Limitation Cannot Be Imposed.

hon," said the board, "is clearly illegal."

Six Points Brought Out

1. An observation that the First Circuit Court of Appeals was the only one of 10 circuits and the District of Columbia to grant injunctive relief against NLRB orders.

2. An assertion that a "binding agreement" is the result desired under the act for collective bargaining and that such an agreement is automatically imposed upon an employer as a sign he is bargaining in good faith, if he is able to achieve an understanding on union proposals.

3. A statement by the board that the law "is not intended to interfere generally with the freedom of an employer to hire and discharge (employees) in the interest of efficiency or from personal animosity or sheer caprice. But in making these decisions he must not differentiate between one of his employees and another, or between his actual and his potential employees, on grounds of union affiliation or activity."

Claims Interstate Control

4. Declaration by the board that the Supreme Court Wagner Act decisions give the board "jurisdiction under the act over all producing and manufacturing enterprises which, in connection with their producing or manufacturing operations, receive or ship in interstate commerce a substantial part of their raw materials or manufactured products."

5. A defense of granting exclusive bargaining recognition to one union in large plants because "the functional coherence and interdependence of the various departments in mass-production industries has often impelled the board to treat all of the production and maintenance employees of a given company as a single unit." This trend has frequently been attacked by the A. F. of L.

6. A statement that "the duty of an employer to bargain collectively with the representatives of his employees is not extinguished by the occurrence of a strike."

OAKLAND CITY, Jan. 6 (U. P.).—Damage estimated at $30,000 was caused today by a fire which followed a coal dust explosion at the Enos Coal Co. strip mine near here.

Title Holders 'Fine' Thing, Says Kentucky

An Indianapolis motorist drove alongside a traffic policeman on Pennsylvania St. today, stopped his car and produced his certificate of title.

Then he volunteered:

"I'm carrying it with me, but I'm not putting that celluloid case on the windshield." (Required by a new Indiana law.)

The policeman said nothing and the motorist continued:

"I'm mad. I just got through paying a fine for having that thing on my windshield in Kentucky. It's a violation of the law down there to have any obstruction on the windshield."

He shifted gears, stuck the certificate of title, celluloid holder and all, back into his pocket. Just before he started, he added:

"And they told me down there that it's a violation of the Ohio law, too."

Then he was gone. The policeman didn't say anything.

A checkup today of Kentucky laws disclosed that state had no such statute and it is probable the arrest was made under some municipal ordinance, police explained.

from diphtheria a year, we now have 10 or 12."

Mr. Johnson, speaking at a luncheon of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board at the Hotel Washington, cited the effect of smoke in depressing real estate values. He replaced Mayor Boetche, who is ill, on the luncheon program.

"Smoke control is under the Health Department in a number of cities," Mr. Johnson told the realtors. "In my opinion we could get farther in Indianapolis if it were brought under the supervision of the Health Board here."

"There has been no attempt to enforce the smoke abatement law under the present setup and the Health Department would be inclined to enforce the smoke ordinance."

"Furthermore, the Health Board is one of the departments that command the respect of the public. Real estate values are affected by smoke. We constantly are getting statements from people who visit the city and then change their minds about moving here when they see the smoke."

"We know rental and sales values are seriously affected by the smoke, and even assessment values. I know of persons who have moved away from the city because of the nuisance."

"Another example of its effect is the trend of realtors, particularly on the North Side, to move entirely outside the city to areas where the atmosphere is clearer."

Parents to receive safety training

Parents of children attending three city schools today were invited to receive instruction on "Pedestrian Safety," Jan. 14 in School 69 auditorium as the Police Accident Prevention Bureau and school officials continued their campaign against traffic deaths.

Meanwhile, William Evans, City Schools Safety Education director, worked with Indianapolis school officials on a safety course which would comply with State Public Instruction Department orders. New plans are to include instruction for nearly 6000 eighth-grade pupils and arrangement of high school driving courses.

OFFICIAL CONDEMNNS LUDLOW PROPOSAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (U. P.).—Had the proposed Ludlow referendum law been in effect at the time, President Roosevelt would have been "hamstrung" in his negotiations on the Panay bombing, Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson said last night.

Mr. Johnson, a former national American Legion Commander, bitterly denounced the proposal, which he said would take away the power of American diplomacy.

Attorneys for the State were to call pupils of the Indiana School for the Deaf to testify in the manslaughter trial of 22-year-old Trema Edgerton in Criminal Court tomorrow.

Suspect Not Afraid of Chair

House Committee Rebels on President's Economy Proposals.

tee introduced a bill proposing to continue heavy highway appropriations for 1940 and 1941, despite Mr. Roosevelt's demands for heavy reductions.

Reporting a money bill for 37 independent Government agencies, however, the appropriations bill cut heavily into "pork barrel" items in setting the measure's total at $1,414,815,515.

Mr. Roosevelt's demands that Government costs be held down were strengthened from another direction when Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced that there appears no immediate need for additional funds.

The independent offices bill was reported a month ahead of the first bill last year.

The President asked a cut of $123,669,000 in funds for the Civilian Conservation Corps and the Committee upheld him in approving the budget estimate of $226,331,000. This item promised to make trouble in House debate.

CCC Funds Cut

The early start on appropriations was made possible by hearings before the special session opened last year.

The measure's major reduction was the $123,669,000 cut in CCC funds. The decrease requires that the number of camps be cut from an average of 1612 for the current year, 1939 to 1938. The number of enrollees will be reduced from 315,000 to 250,000.

The largest increase over 1938 was a $70,559,322 appropriation for the Social Security Board.

For the Tennessee Valley Authority, President Roosevelt asked a $40,000,000 appropriation and a contractual authorization of $4,000,000. The Committee cut the appropriation to $37,087,000, a reduction of $3,913,000.
