J. E. Maddy To Visit Here

Ada Bicking Presides at Music Conference.

Times Special

ST. LOUIS, March 31.—Miss Ada Bicking, director of the Jordan Conservatory of Music, Indianapolis, and second vice president of the National Music Educators Conference, presided at the third general session of the conference convention in the Civic Opera House this morning.

Speakers included Dr. Howard Hanson, American composer, conductor and Eastman School of Music director; John G. Paine, representing the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and a representative of the American Federation of Musicians.

Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, conference president and music professor at the University of Michigan, announced today that he will spend several hours with friends and members of the Jordan Conservatory en route to Ann Arbor.

In a press conference yesterday, Dr. Maddy started a heated discussion among delegates with a defense of "swing" music.

"If the younger generation can take swing music in the same serious vein it takes comic strips," the educator said, "then swing music is not going to damage the youthful appreciation of good music."

NED SPARKS AND VINCE BARNETT IN NEW SHOWS HERE

Trouble on the party line besets Vince Barnett, movie comedian who will lead the cast of "Calling All Stars," a revue opening tomorrow at the Lyric.

The somewhat-less-than-jocular Ned Sparks doesn't seem to be enjoying his role of uncle to Bobby Breen, star of "Hawaii Calls," little Juanita Quigley and an unidentified Polynesian youth. The picture will open a week's engagement tomorrow at the Circle, with Ned in a leading role.

Eleanor Hansen Saved From Fall

LOS ANGELES, March 31 (U. P.).

Johnny Mack Brown was credited today with a real life rescue of his leading lady, Eleanor Hansen, former Indianapolis night-club singer.

The film star, former all-American football player, and Miss Hansen were riding horses through a crowd of movie Indians on an outdoor set of the picture, "Flaming Frontiers."

An Indian chief's war-bonnet frightened the actress' horse and it bolted for a rocky ravine. Mr. Brown galloped his horse after her and pulled Miss Hansen from the saddle before her mount plunged into the ravine.

Mr. Brown saved his wife in a similar accident two years ago.

DEMILLE RESTING AFTER OPERATION

HOLLYWOOD, March 31 (U. P.).

Cecil B. DeMille, the motion picture director, was resting comfortably in Good Samaritan Hospital today after a kidney operation. He will be in the hospital two weeks, doctors predicted.

CLOSE-UP OF EYES TO COVER SCREEN

HOLLYWOOD, March 31 (U. P.).

A new technique in motion picture photography—a closeup of a pair of eyes so big they will cover the entire theater screen—was attempted today by Universal Studio. The eyes are those of Danielle Darrieux, French star, and the unusual closeups were designed to heighten the dramatic effect of certain scenes. Joe Valen, photography director, developed the process after experiments.

CRIME DOES PAY

Chester Morris, who heads the cast of "Law of the Underworld," also appeared in the original stage play, "Crime," on which it is based.

CHOOSE RAINER'S SISTER

Barbara O'Neil, Broadway actress who made her film debut in "Stella Dallas," has been signed to play Lulu Rainer's older sister in "The Toy Wife."

and enacts the same role—that of a gangster chief.
