

Local Shows Bill Best of New Movies

Bright Schedules Indicate
No Letdown Due in Summer Fare.

By JAMES THRASHER

Thank to air conditioning and a bumper crop of July and August bookings, our local cinema entrepreneurs are neither hot nor bothered during the current sultriness.

Altogether, 76 features are booked to be shipped out of Hollywood during the current and coming months, with 15 more already lined up for September. Of the 76, the major studios are responsible for 60 films. One is to be a reissue of the Katherine Hepburn favorite, "Little Women." The rest are new.

To begin with the coming week, the Circle on Friday will present "Indiana Jones" with its first look at the newest glamour girl, Danielle Darrieux, in "The Rage of Paris." Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Misha Auer also are in the cast. Low's again is giving equal billing to its dual bill, "Port of Seven Seas," which stars Wallace Beery and "Face Company" with Marvin Douglas and Florence Rice. At the Lyric, in conjunction with Sammy Kaye on the stage, will be "Men Are Such Fools," featuring Wayne Morris and Patricia Lane. And the Apollo will be returning "The Birth of a Baby."

Taylor as Boxing Champ

Coming up on Low's July 12 and August schedule are several big star attractions. Another European favorite, Hedy Lamarr (She was Hedy Kiesler in "Ecstasy") will make her American film debut in "Algiers" with Charles Boyer.

Robert Taylor's next appearance will be in another rough and tough role, in which he portrays the world's light-heavyweight boxing champion, "The Crow." The picture is the title. Another of the Hardy perennial series will be along about the same time, when "Love Finds Andy Hardy," with the assistance of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

The last time Clark Gable and Myrna Loy were teamed was in "Test Pilot," which turned out to be one of the nation's best pictures. All of which won't hurt the box office any when the same two stars come along in "Too Hot to Handle."

Following this, Low's is due to play "The Great Waltz," with Luise Rainer starred, with the new Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy picture, "Sweethearts," booked next. By then it will be almost time for Norma Shearer's reappearance in "Marie Antoinette."

"After the Rage of Paris," the Circle is scheduled for the following list of features, though possibly not in this order:

"Mother Carey's Chickens," with Fay Bainter, Ann Shirley and James Ellison, among others; "I Give a Million," with Warner Baxter and U. S. gift to Hollywood, Marjorie Weaver, and "Professor Beware," which brings Harold Lloyd back to the screen after two years.

"The Texans," a frontier epic featuring Randolph Scott and Joan Bennett, is down for an early August release, as is "Give Me a Sailor," with the glamorous Martha Raye. Then there will be the new Shirley Temple picture, "Little Miss Broadway," and "Letter of Introduction," which has the "Golden Poles" headlines, among others, and Carthy, Adolphe Menjou and Andrea Leeds.

Power-Faye-Ames Again

To top off the list is "Spahn of the North" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band." The former is a story of the Alaskan salmon-fishing industry, with Dorothy Lamour, George Raft and Robert Barringer included in the cast. Irving Berlin is, of course, the hero of "Alexander's Ragtime Band." The "Old Chicago" trio of Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche will carry the chief acting burden.

When everything is straightened out, it may be that some of the Circle pictures will find their way to the Apollo for an initial showing. But anyway, they're due to be here. And the Lyric, besides its array of "name" bands and other vaudeville features, will have its quota of new pictures.

"Cowboy from Brooklyn," with Dick Powell beneath the biggest sombrero, is next on the Lyric picture list. Other likely starters are Kay Francis' "My Bill," Edward G. Robinson in the last season stage success, "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," and "Four's a Crowd," the four being Errol Flynn, Rosalind Russell, Olivia De Havilland and Patric Knowles.

Hollywood Is Puzzled

All of which add up to a rather imposing list for a depression stage. For that, what this has been, as you know if you follow the papers. The past season's movie receipts have been the leanest since the other depressed year of 1934.

The fault seems not to have been in the dearth of good pictures, but in the preponderance of bad "B" films. As a result of this worst of the double-bill policy, exhibitors found a good many of the customers sitting at home or doing something else. This in spite of the fact that were told repeatedly that the public wants double features.

So, you will recall, the movie people decided to trot out a lot of old favorites. Some were to be reissues (for general national release); the majority were to be revivals, for showing in various territories at the exhibitors' request.

AFTER NUPTIAL NUMBER TWO

"Here Comes the Bride" is getting to be an old familiar tune to Frances Langford, shown above with her movie-star husband, Jon Hall, following their second marriage at The Little Church Around the Corner, New York. Mr. Hall married the screen and radio singer two months ago in Prescott, Ariz. But, in his excitement, the bridegroom gave his bride the license as New York City instead of Fresno, Cal. So the couple came East and had another ceremony, just to make sure.

Vigil Kept Over Shirley Would Do F. D. R.
Credit; 'I Like Him,' She Says of President.

NEW YORK, July 12.—America's ace glamour girl, Miss Shirley Temple, came to town the other evening and the vigil set over the moppet movie queen was virtually a quarantine.

For several weeks, the Manhattan ballyhoos of the film firm where Shirley works had the quakes at the thought of her arrival. They had been instructed "mum's the word," and the less said about Shirley's presence in New York, the more admissible.

So America's diminutive sweetheart was rushed from Grand Central Terminal to her hostelry by an indirect route almost as secretive as those planned for the President, when he is enroute to his town house.

AND speaking of the President and Shirley in the same sentence, that reminds us they had a pleasant visit together at the White House shortly before her visit to New York. Those fortunate enough to have been in on that social call reported that Miss Shirley exchanged autographs at the President's request.

Well, "by request" is putting it mildly. It seems the President made an urgent plea for Miss Shirley's signature because, as he explained, he could hardly face the Roosevelt grandchildren at Hyde Park without one. And of course he got it.

But it seems that as Shirley left the Executive Mansion, it suddenly occurred to the President that one signature was not sufficient. A few minutes later, a special messenger from the White House appeared at Miss Shirley's suite in a Washington hotel. Could Miss Shirley possibly see her way clear to granting two more autographs to the President and keep him out of trouble with Sissy and Buzzie? Shirley assented graciously. And the Presidential day was saved.

When someone, incidentally, asked the Beverly Hills Country Club, Cincinnati, for four weeks.

THE reluctance to have Shirley subjected to interviews in New York may, in part, be based on the experience the little lady had with a feminine newshawk in Washington, even though Miss Temple took the situation in her stride.

It appears that this casual interviewer drew a silver case from her purse in the course of the chat and politely asked Shirley, "Won't you have a cigarette?" For a long second, the corps of harried publicists present bore homicidal tendencies in their hearts. But then Shirley spoke up, "I'm sorry," she drew of her own accord, "but my doll has no bad taste."

And so we hope that those who manage Shirley's public relations relented about interviews. Besides being a born flirt, she'll tell them all, conversationally.

INDUCTS DEMILLE

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 (U. P.).—Cecil B. DeMille, movie producer and director, today was made an honorary member of the unique Railway and Locomotive Historical Society.

Members of the society, headed by Charles E. Fisher of Harvard University, collected photographs of ancient locomotives and attempt to preserve examples of the old engines they find. Mr. DeMille was elected because of his work on the railroad film, "Union Pacific." He has rounded up four antique locomotives for the picture and is after more.

Mail Order Groom's Singular Romance Now Plural Again

MATAWAN, N. J., July 12 (U. P.).—The plural romance of Judson Van Arsdale went back to status quo today.

Van Arsdale indicated he was looking for a bride last week and May Meyer, 57, a widow, and Nellie Davis, 44, of Paris, Ill., both moved into his house.

Late Saturday it looked as if the competition was over. Van Arsdale and Miss Davis went to the municipal clerk and took out a marriage license.

But over the week-end they tore up the license. And now, with Van Arsdale starting his vacation, both women were vying again for his affections.

Tried Out as Housekeeper

Van Arsdale got the women through a marriage broker. Nellie said that after the death of his second wife, he would frequent the railroad station asking the agent "any women around here looking for me today?"

Mrs. Meyer was first on the scene and seemed to have the inside Van Arsdale told friends.

"I tried her out on housekeeping and she's fine. I'm going to marry her," he said.

Today, Van Arsdale, his head banded from an unexplained injury, sat on his porch moaning: "What a situation. What a situation."

Miss Davis brushed aside all queries. She would not comment on reports she operated a restaurant in Chicago and came here in answer to a letter from the widower.

Mrs. Meyer said: "It will all be decided by the first of the month. No, I don't know how it will end."

Lothario's Borrowing
Blasts Romance

BOSTON, July 12 (U. P.).—A lonely Ohio divorcee entrained for her home today, disillusioned by a mail-order Lothario who "borrowed" her money but shied at matrimony.

Mrs. Emma Elizabeth Heyduck, 56, of Dayton, O., began a westward trek, "broke and very unhappy," but unwilling to remain and prosecute her steam-fitter sweetheart, whom she met through correspondence in the lonely hearts column of a matrimonial magazine.

Mrs. Heyduck appealed to police for help after she found her husband-to-be had taken $115 from her pocketbook for what she called a "drinking spree."

Mr. Tolley said that a suggestion by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace of possible Government subsidies on wheat exports was included in the study, but that no definite program has been decided upon.

The Crop Board estimated the 1938 wheat crop yesterday at 967,412,000 bushels, the season's second highest in American history. Added to a carry-over of 200,000,000 bushels from last year, it would give the United States a record supply of 1,167,412,000 bushels.

AAA CHIEF URGES EXPORTS OF WHEAT

Bumper Crop to Require
New Markets.

WASHINGTON, July 12 (U. P.).—The Department of Agriculture placed new emphasis today on broadened export markets as an outlet for farm surpluses being piled higher by another year of bumper crops.

"We have got to find export markets for wheat," Agricultural Adjustment Administrator Howard H. Tolley said, adding that "every possibility" of increasing exports was being studied. Markets also are being sought for cotton, corn and other crops.

Mr. Tolley said that a suggestion by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace of possible Government subsidies on wheat exports was included in the study, but that no definite program has been decided upon.

The Crop Board estimated the 1938 wheat crop yesterday at 967,412,000 bushels, the season's second highest in American history. Added to a carry-over of 200,000,000 bushels from last year, it would give the United States a record supply of 1,167,412,000 bushels.
