

G. O. P. FREE TO CRITICIZE WPA, INVESTIGATORS RULE

State Relief Agency Given 'Clean Slate' By Senate Probers

Allegations Had Been Sent to Washington by Minton; Complaints Reported as 'Unfounded'; No Additional Inquiries Planned.

(Editorial, Page 2)

By DANIEL M. KIDNEY
Times Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Although the Works Progress Administration in Indiana was given a second clean bill of health today by the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee, Republicans have a perfect right to criticize its administration even in letters to WPA workers, the committee held.

Unless further complaints are received from the State, no additional investigations will be made there, Senator Sheppard (D. Tex.), committee chairman, announced today.

Senator Minton (D. Ind.) had forwarded to the committee a letter from George N. Craig, Clay County G. O. P. chairman, criticizing WPA overhead and alleging "many corrupt practices." It had been sent to WPA workers in Clay County, Senator Minton said.

"The committee has examined the letter and finds nothing illegal in either a candidate or a political organization sending letters in criticism of the operation of WPA any more than they would if a candidate or political organization sent letters in commendation of the WPA and its activities," Senator Sheppard reported.

Another Democratic complaint, alleging Republican solicitation of WPA votes in Clay County, was held to be unfounded.

"The investigators visited the parties named in the complaint and were informed by the supervisor of the WPA, who was a Democrat, that he knew of no such practice," the committee report stated.

"The Democratic County Chairman also stated that he knew of no such practice."

Text of Report

Complaints from Republican sources proved to be equally without foundation, the committee report continuing as follows:

"Another complaint, presented from Republican sources, was to the effect that WPA workers who were not disposed to vote for Democratic candidates were shifted to projects far away from their homes. The investigators for the committee found this charge was not sustained. It was claimed that this had been done in 1936, but the committee feels that any investigation into this is beyond their jurisdiction.

"Another complaint this committee has investigated was to the effect that in Terre Haute and vicinity WPA workers had been solicited for campaign contributions. The investigators of the committee, at random, interviewed several WPA workers, received affidavits from them, and the limited number of investigators reported that they made no contribution and had not been solicited for contributions.

"The investigators reported they had been unable to secure any evidence to substantiate charges that an assessment for campaign purposes had been levied upon WPA employees in Clay County either.

"Another complaint was that a fore lady of a sewing project had distributed political cards to WPA workers in Clinton. The investigators interviewed several of the women employed on this sewing project and were unable to obtain any evidence to substantiate this charge.

Complaints from Republicans in Owen County were investigated previously and WPA exonerated of "playing politics" at that time.

3 AWARDED SCOUT SILVER BEAVER PRIZE

The Rev. U. S. Clutton, Irving Williams and Earl R. Conder today held Boy Scouts of America Silver Beaver award.

Presentation was made at the annual meeting of the Indianapolis Council last night at the Athenaeum. The award, the highest honor a local council can bestow, is given to registered scouts for noteworthy services to boyhood.

23-OUNCE BABY LIVES

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (U. P.).—A 23-ounce baby girl, one of the tiniest ever born in a Chicago, clung to life today in an incubator at St. Bernard's Hospital. She is Caroline Jean Freckleton, first child of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Freckleton. The mother, Jean, is 24.

IN INDIANAPOLIS

Here Is the Traffic Record

County Deaths (To Date)

Arrests 29

Speeding 6

Reckless 0

Driving 0

City Deaths (To Date)

Running Preferred Street 4

Running Red 2

Light 2

Oct. 26

Drunk 12

Driving 9

Injured 4

Dead 1

Others 9

MEETINGS TODAY

Indiana State Teachers' Association, annual meeting, sessions all day.

Seventh District Federation of Clubs, meeting, Clavon Hotel, 10 a. m.

Indianapolis Real Estate Board, luncheon, Hotel Washington, noon.

Advertising Club of Indianapolis, luncheon, Indianapolis Athletic Club, noon.

Sigma Chi, luncheon, Board of Trade, noon.

American Business Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.

Phi Delta Theta, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.

Phi Kappa Phi, luncheon, Men's Club, noon.

Acacia, luncheon, Board of Trade, noon.

Sigma Xi, luncheon, Hotel Washington, noon.

Caravan Club, luncheon, Murat Temple, noon.

Indiana Motor Traffic Association, luncheon, Hotel Antlers, noon.

Radio Engineers, meeting, Hotel Antlers, 8 p. m.

Off Club, luncheon, Hotel Severin, 8 p. m.

Construction League of Indianapolis, luncheon, Architects and Builders building, noon.

Indianapolis Camera Club, meeting, 110 East Ninth at 8 p. m.

Beta Theta Pi, luncheon, Hotel Clavon, noon.

MEETINGS TOMORROW

Indiana State Teachers' Association, annual meeting, sessions all day.

Exchange Club, luncheon, Hotel Washington, noon.

Optimist Club, luncheon, Columbia Club, noon.

Reserve Officers' Association, luncheon, Board of Trade, noon.

Correction

On Saturday, Oct. 22, The Times, in reporting a Municipal case, in which Miss Dillian Floyd charged Mrs. Mary Herron and daughter Margaret with assault and battery, incorrectly described Miss Floyd's address and hair. Miss Floyd is a brunette and her correct address is 502 S. East St. As stated, Judge McNeil withheld judgment on Mrs. Herron and her daughter.

COLLEGE HELD CULTURE DRAG

Shuts Off Many Women From Needed Knowledge, Mrs. Beard Says.

(Continued from Page One)

diana State Teachers College, and Wilbur S. Barnhart, Indianapolis, as speakers.

Miss Boggs said the teachers had no major legislative policies before them, and no other questions of importance to be settled.

Mrs. Beard told the deans and advisers she was afraid they did not realize the importance of women in education. "In my opinion," she said, "American women today are lamentably escaping the stimulating knowledge of what even American women have actually contributed to education."

She cited as an example the leadership of teachers in keeping social bigotry on a leash.

"The indispensability of women in education in America today is the keynote to their genuine power if they did but know it," the author said. "Women have been in education since the dawn of time. They are the original creators of social practices out of which educational practices spring."

In comparing women's importance in the educational field with that of men, Mrs. Beard said: "To shadow greatness. And men live more in that shadow than women—in the shadow of themselves."

Mrs. Kate H. Mueller, new dean of women at Indiana University, will speak at this evening's meeting. A tribute will be paid by the organization to Dr. Agnes E. Wells, former dean of women at Indiana University and founder of the association.

The photostats included eight such letters and envelopes received by Mrs. Jordan. The British Secret Service had transmitted the documents here only on the condition that they would be returned.

Letters Already Read

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.

Alexander Noble, of the Curtis-Wright plant at Buffalo, thus added an important link to the Government's case.

The letters already had been read in the trial, however. Government agencies began a widespread investigation of the disappearance of the documents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the Nazi espionage ring managed to obtain important American defense secrets.

An airplane expert said he could reproduce the plans of a Navy airplane from documents found in the possession of William Lonkowski, fugitive Nazi spy.